PROBLEMS FACING MORGAN APPRAISER

To Determine Good Will, Less Value of Banker's Personality, One of Them.

HIGH PRECEDENT IN LAW

Applied in the Pulitzer Appraisal—Estimates of Estate Waiting on Bill to Exempt Art.

Thomas E. Rush, attorney for the State Controller in inheritance tax matters, and his staff at 20 Exchange Place have been greatly interested since the probate of the will of J. Pierpont Morgan in the questions which will arise in the appraisal of the Morgan estate. The value of the estate is expected to exceed any appraised in this jurisdiction.

Although it is regarded as probable that the State Controller's office in Albany will follow the precedent adopted in cases of other large estates by appointing special counsel to have immediate charge of the State's interests in the proceedings before the Transfer Tax Appraiser, the interest of Mr. Rush and his staff in the case is keen, since special counsel always consults with the local legal office in these cases.

Despite the fact that a fortnight had elapsed since Mr. Morgan's will was admitted to probate, no application for the appointment of an appraiser to value the estate had been made in the Surrogate's Court up to the time the court closed on Saturday. This delay, and the fact that the Morgan executors have failed to ask for a special order releasing funds, as was done in the John Jacob Astor and other large estates, is accepted as showing that the estate has plenty of ready money and is in no haste to clear up transfer tax formalities.

Mr. Rush said yesterday that probably no application for the appointment of an appraiser would be made until after Gov. Sulzer had signed the bill to exempt from taxation the Morgan art collections if donated to public use within one year after Mr. Morgan's death. This bill was introduced into the Legislature at the request of State Controller William Sohmer. The signing of the bill would relieve the Transfer Tax Appraiser in the Morgan estate case from appraising his art works. Much interest would have attached to such an appraisal, giving an official catalogue and valuation of his great collections, with hundreds of pages of testimony by experts on their history and the reasons for their values.

Executors' Appraisal Awaited.

On the signing or vetoing of this bill there also depended, Mr. Rush pointed out, the amount to be paid by the Morgan estate as its estimate of the official tax to be fixed by the appraiser. The law allows a 5 per cent. rebate on inheritance taxes paid within six months of death. The payment of this preliminary tax was what gave the first intimation of the executors' appraisals of the estates of E. H. Harriman, John S. Kennedy, John Jacob Astor, Isidor Straus, Joseph Pulitzer, and other wealthy men. The decision of the heirs of Benjamin Guggenheim that it would be better to take the loss of the 5 per cent. rebate than to sacrifice stocks to raise money to pay the tax at once has prevented any public estimate of the value of Mr. Guggenheim's estate.

Mr. Rush said yesterday that he attached a great deal of importance, as bearing on the appraisal of Mr. Morgan's estate, to a recent decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of the estate of Norman I. Rees, a leather merchant who died on Aug. 3, 1910. This decision, Mr. Rush pointed out, dealt with the question of "good-will," which Mr. Rush believes will be the principal factor in the appraisal of the Morgan estate. In the same way the decision will affect the appraisal of the estate of Isidor Straus, which has been in the hands of Transfer Tax Appraised Michael J. Garvin, and which is awaiting the return from Europe of Attorney Edmond E. Wise of Wise & Seligsberg, counsel for estate, for its settlement.

The decision in question upholds in every respect Mr. Rush's contention on behalf of the State Controller that the value of the good will of any concern is to be determined not by the market value of a few shares of stock, but by the book value of the concern. Under the decision the value of the good will must be appraised according to the profits of the business. So far as outside stocks are concerned the practice has been to consult a record of Stock Exchange sales and note the current quotations of such stocks on the date of death. That this is not a fair method of appraisal is the burden of the Court of Appeals decision.

The throwing of such large blocks of stocks as are frequently held by estates on the market at the time of death would be bound to reduce them appreciably. In the cases of stocks not sold on the Exchange and disposed of only occasionally at private sale, it has been customary to use records of such sales in making appraisals. Frequently, however, appraisers have disregarded such sales as fixing too high a value, especially when such stocks were acquired to piece out a controlling interest. The Court of Appeals decision for the first time enunciates the principle that appraisers in transfer tax proceedings may disregard "market value," so-called, and should in each case attempt to fix actual value from records of earnings.

Value of Personality.

Mr. Rush said yesterday:

"The decision in the Rees case is of the utmost importance, for the reason that up to this time in the case of the estate of every man of large business affairs, the State Controller's staff has always been confronted with a dispute over the proper basis upon which to compute the valuation of the business and good will."

In further explanation, an inheritance tax expert said yesterday:

"This will probably be the most important question in the appraisal of the estate of J. Pierpont Morgan. It is generally believed that Mr. Morgan's firm exercised a power in the financial world far greater in proportion than the actual amount of its holdings. This is good will. As such it is subject to appraisal. But under the Rees decision, the estate is privileged to deduct from this amount, the value of the personality of the decedent to his business. The balancing up of good will, with the subtraction of the loss due to the death of the commanding personality which was a factor in this good will, is a most complicated problem.

"Surrogate Cohalan in his decision rejecting the appraisal of the estate of Joseph Pulitzer, owner of The New York World, laid down some of the principles which govern this question. In that appraisal proceeding, the executors said that the death of Mr. Pulitzer had robbed The World of its leading power and had injured the property to such an extent that a substantial deduction should be made from the good will. Expert testimony as to Mr. Pulitzer's ability as a newspaper director was offered. Surrogate Cohalan enunciated the rule that the good faith of such a contention could best be shown by producing evidence of the profits of Mr. Pulitzer's enterprises during the year which followed his death, for comparison with the profits in the years preceding his death, which had been produced under demand of the State Con-

HUERTA PROMISES ACTION.

Will Smash Rebels in a Month—Priest to Lead Federals.

MEXICO CITY, May 4.—Assurances were given in the National Palace today that before the end of the week the defensive attitude thus far maintained by the Government would be abandoned and that in thirty days anything having the appearance of a rebel organization would be broken. It was admitted there would remain the task of running down isolated bands.

President Huerta and the War Minister, Gen. Mondragon, as well as their counselors seemed to be confident that the forces of Venustiano Carranza, the rebel Governor of Coahuila, and the rebel forces in Sonora would be made practically harmless.

Gen. Gustavo Maas, with 700 recruits, strongly armed, is on his way to Mazatlan, and probably will proceed from there to Guaymas. Gen. Telles will succeed Gen. Trucy Aubert, with a base at Monterey, and he promises an active campaign against Carranza. Gen. Casso Lopez is reported officially to be approaching Monclova, the Carranza headquarters.

Many of the residents of the capital, however, do not share the belief of the Government. Some of them regard the proposed tactics as presaging a long conflict, with the rebels raiding the country and the Federals holding the towns.

EL PASO, Texas, May 4.—Father Felix Barranda, a parish priest of Guerrero, Chihuahua, is to lead a group of Federal troops in the campaign against the Constitutionalistas of Northern Mexico. Like Hidalgo, the Mexican priest-patriot of a century ago, this modern day militant clergyman will give up the spiritual battle for actual warfare.

"I am exchanging the cassock for the sword," he wrote to Gen. Antonio Rabago, Military Governor of Chihuahua State. "Having been marked for death by the revolutionists, I offer my services, promising to raise a force of 200 men loyal to the Government."

Gen. Rabago accepted the offer, commissioning the priest to raise a volunteer corps. Guerrero, in the mountainous district west of Chihuahua City, was the birthplace of the Madero revolution.

IS 'MAN WHO WAS' RAMSAY?

Kin of Admiral's Missing Son Interested in Minnesota Patient.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—It was suggested to-night that the mysterious patient in the Minnesota State Hospital for the Insane at Rochester, Minn., who has forgotten his identity and his past, may be George D. Ramsay, usually called "Jack," who disappeared from Washington in September, 1908. George D. Ramsay is a son of Rear Admiral Francis Munroe Ramsay, retired, and his grandfather was Martin McMahon of New York, once Minister to Paraguay.

Members of the Ramsay family are keenly interested in the suggestion that the man in the Minnesota asylum may be their missing relative. They have found no trace of "Jack" Ramsay since he vanished in 1908, although circulars bearing his description have been sent to every part of the country.

The description of the "man who forgot," as furnished to the Navy Department, says he is about 40 years old. This would tally with the age of "Jack" Ramsay. The height of the man at Rochester is five feet five and a half inches.

"If that is correct," said a relative of "Jack" Ramsay to-night, "then the man is not Jack. His height was five feet nine and a half inches."

Ramsay was married. His wife and three children moved to Los Angeles after he disappeared. He never saw service in the Navy.

WILL WED ONLY THE SOUND.

Montclair Pastor Will Insist on a Certificate of Good Health.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 4.—The Rev. Henry E. Jackson, pastor of the Christian Union Congregational Church here, has announced he will perform no more marriages without a certificate signed by the physician of the bride-to-be that the intended bridegroom is in perfect health.

At the annual meeting of Unity Church on May 14 the members will vote on the question as to whether the pastor, Rev. Edgar S. Wiers, shall perform the marriage ceremony without having first obtained from each of the contracting parties a medical certificate that they are physically sound.

The eugenics movement in Montclair is attracting considerable attention, interest in the subject having been aroused by recent addresses of Dr. Henry Smith Williams, Prof. H. E. Jordan of the University of Virginia, Dean Sumner of Chicago, and Clifford Roe, also of Chicago.

WOMAN FAST IN SUBWAY.

Fell Between Car and Platform While Alighting at 14th Street.

Mrs. Rosa Woolinshein, of 105 Forsyth Street, slipped while alighting with her husband from a southbound express train at the Fourteenth Street station of the Subway last night and fell between the platform of the station and the car, becoming wedged there. Her screams and the cries of others on the platform attracted the attention of the guard, who was just about to signal the motorman to go ahead.

The train was held up while Mrs. Woolinshein was lifted from her perilous position and assisted to a bench on the platform. An ambulance call was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital, and Dr. Moriarty, who responded, found she was suffering from a fracture of the left hip, contusions of the body, and shock. She was removed to the hospital. Mrs. Woolinshein is 21 years old and has been married only a short time.

PROF. HALLOCK STRICKEN.

Suffers Apoplectic Attack at Bristol, R. I., but Will Recover.

Special to The New York Times.

BRISTOL, R. I., May 4.—Prof. William Hallock of Columbia University, official measurer for the New York Yacht Club, was stricken with apoplexy this afternoon while measuring the new 50-foot sloop yacht Barbara, owned by Harry Payne Whitney, at the Herreshoff yards here, and was unconscious for several hours. He is at the Hotel Belvedere under the care of Dr. Alfred M. Merriman, who says he probably will recover.

Prof. Hallock had just arrived from New York with N. G. Herreshoff, and was on the deck of the yacht when he suddenly collapsed. He was taken ashore and telegrams were sent to members of his family, who started from New York at once. Prof. Hallock is 74 years old.

Man Burned to Death, Girl Hurt.

SYRACUSE, May 4.—Thomas Murphy, a stock broker, was burned to death and Miss Mary McGourtey was injured, probably fatally, when an automobile in which they were riding overturned near Oneida Castle late this afternoon.

TEARE DEAD, THIRD VICTIM OF GUNMAN

Policeman Failed to Regain Consciousness and Could Tell Detectives Nothing.

TWO BROTHERS ARRESTED

But Not Yet Connected with Shooting of Two Policemen and Rizzo in Mulberry Street.

Policeman Charles Teare of the Mulberry Street Station, who was shot in aiding Policeman William Heaney when the latter lost his life in a vain effort to prevent the murder of a notorious gangster by another gangster, died in St. Vincent's Hospital late yesterday afternoon. Teare was the third victim of Saturday night's series of duels in Mulberry Street. All the machinery of the Police Department was at work yesterday in the effort to run down the gunman, who alone and unaided was able to shoot to death three men almost within the dim light of the green lamps of the Mulberry Street Police Station.

With the death of Teare the police find themselves face to face with a perplexing murder problem. Teare died without regaining consciousness, and with the sealing of his lips the police may have lost their last chance to gain the information that might have led to the identification of the gunman with the deadly aim.

There is one man under arrest as a suspicious character, who admits that he got to his home after the shooting and that Rizzo, the murdered gangster, was an enemy of his who only a few weeks ago fired two bullets into his body. But the man under arrest just as positively swears that he had nothing to do with the midnight triple murder. So far the police have been unable to find a single witness to cast doubt on the truthfulness of his assertions.

Ralph Larito of 239 Mulberry Street, almost in front of which Heany, Teare, and Rizzo were shot down, is the man held by the police. Larito is a young man and is well-known in the downtown Italian section. One night last December he was found with a bullet in his thigh and another in his arm. He was taken to the hospital in a serious condition, and there the police pleaded with him to name the man who had tried to murder him.

But Larito was not that kind of a gangster. He hated a "squealer" as he did death, and not one word of value did the police get out of him. At that time Rizzo was arrested on suspicion. But Larito refused to accuse him and as Rizzo kept quiet, within a wek or two he was at liberty because there was no evidence on which the police could hold him.

At 1 o'clock this morning Detective Sergeant Micelli arrested Larito's brother, Rocco, and held him at the Mulberry Street Station as a suspicous person. This arrest was made on Faurot's order. Rocco Larito is in the sodawater business. He was found at his home, 247 Mulberry Street.

The strangest part of the shooting of the three men, was the ease with which the murderer made his escape. Mulberry Street, between Prince and Spring Street, the scene of the crime, was still well crowded. Just south was the Mulberry Street Station. The pool rooms and the little Italian restaurants were still well filled with customers. Rizzo was in one of the pool rooms, a dingy little affair on the ground floor of the six-story tenement at 235 Mulberry Street. He was watching the players when a man appeared in the door and signalled to Rizzo to come into the street. Rizzo went out. A moment passed and then six shots were fired. A great crowd came running from all directions and through this crowd the man who killed two men almost instantly and fatally wounded another, presumably walked away without being recognized by any one willing to aid the police. The crowd found Heaney, a young policeman only three months on the force, dead in the middle of the street, while nearby were Teare and Rizzo, both dying.

All the reserves south of Fourteenth Street and every available detective in Manhattan was soon on the scene. Deputy Commissioner Dougherty hurried there, and so did Inspector Faurot, the Chief of the Detective Bureau at Headquarters. Dougherty and Faurot ordered the police to round up the gangsters and bring them all to Police Headquarters. Every Italian detective in the Department was put to work.

Early yesterday morning Detective De Gilio brought Larito to Headquarters. Larito was in bed at his home at 239 Mulberry Street when he was found. He is a rather clean-cut young Italian and was remarkably cool in the presence of police inquisitors. He frankly admitted that he had lied in December when he said that he did not know who had shot him. Not until he was told that Rizzo was dead would he admit that Rizzo was the man he suspected of having shot him.

"But," added Larito, "while Rizzo was the man who probably 'did' me in December, I am not the man who shot him, and what's more, I have no idea who did shoot him."

Larito admitted that he did not get home until after the murders. He admitted that it was an unusual coincidence that he had been shot at Prince and Mulberry Streets within a few feet of the place where Rizzo was killed. Larito was arraigned in the Tombs Court yesterday morning, and at the request of the police was remanded to their custody for forty-eight hours pending the outcome of their investigation.

Genaro Silleto of 231 Mulberry Street was also questioned by the police, but it was said that Silleto had proven that he knew nothing about the crime. A score of others were able to prove that they knew nothing about the murder.

Seventy-five detectives were working in the Italian quarter on the case yesterday. Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Faurot kept in touch with them, and Dougherty, after receiving several reports, said that he was convinced that the murder was the outcome of an Italian gang feud, and that the shooting of Larito on Dec. 15 last, was a part of that same feud.

One of the few who would admit witnessing any part of the crime was the Rev. Father Gill of old St. Patrick's Cathedral, which stands within a quarter of a block of the place where Heaney, Teare, and Rizzo were murdered. He did not see the murderer, but saw the flashes of the pistol as shot after shot was fired. He administered the last rites of the Church to Teare.

There was a story going the rounds during the day that the murderer had escaped over the roof of a tenement in Mulberry Street, nearly opposite the place where he had committed the murder, but there was no proof to back up the theory.

At Teare's bedside when he died were his mother, Mrs. Annie Teare, with whom he lived; Fire Capt. Robert Teare, his brother, in command of Engine Company 43, in Sedgwick Avenue, the Bronx; Mrs. Robert Teare, Dr. King, a house physician at St. Vincent's Hospital; two nurses of a Roman Catholic sisterhood, and the Rev. Father Edwards of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Teare was 36 years old, and had been on the police force twelve years.

JAPAN PROTESTS AGAINST LAND BILL

Formal Objection Cabled to Ambassador Chinda, Says a Tokio Dispatch to San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The Japanese Government cabled instructions last night to Viscount Chinda, Ambassador at Washington, to make formal protest against the Anti-Alien Land bill, passed yesterday by the California Legislature, according to a Tokio dispatch to the Japanese-American, a Japanese daily paper of this city.

The message adds that the position of the Japanese Government is that the United States Government is responsible for finding a satisfactory solution of the situation in California under its treaty obligations to Japan.

Describing the receipt of the news from Sacramento last night that the bill had passed both houses of the Legislature, the message says:

"When the Japanese people received the report that the alien land bill had passed the California Legislature, all the people were deeply disappointed."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Pending the return of Secretary Bryan next Thursday, both the State Department and the Japanese Embassy are silent concerning the Anti-Alien Land bill which Gov. Johnson of California is expected to sign soon, unless President Wilson can present arguments to dissuade him.

Undoubtedly when Mr. Bryan returns conferences will be held between the President, the Secretary of State, and Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador.

When Mr. Bryan found he could not prevent the passage of a bill through the California Legislature that would not be unacceptable to Japan he sought to delay the legislation so as to allow a diplomatic readjustment. That effort failed also, but his parting words in Sacramento yesterday were an appeal for a referendum on the bill.

This suggestion is taken as merely another attempt at delay, as a petition for a referendum bearing the needed 20,000 votes would prevent the bill from becoming effective until after the Fall elections in 1914.

It is thought that Mr. Bryan hopes to utilize the time thus given to obtain a friendly settlement with Japan. He has even hinted at the possibility of a new commercial treaty with Japan, though the present convention, ratified only two years ago, has many years to run. Some think that such a treaty might be drafted to accomplish more effectively what President Roosevelt sought to do by an informal exchange of notes with Japan, in which this country and the island empire mutually promised to discourage the emigration of their laborers to the other country.

A different course must be followed, however, if it becomes apparent that the Governor's signature will not be followed by a referendum. President Wilson in his messages to Johnson and Bryan has mentioned the likelihood of an appeal to the courts. To show friendliness to Japan it is suggested in some quarters that the Department of Justice might intervene in support of any test case which the Japanese might bring before the Supreme Court to test the right of Japanese citizens under the treaty to hold land in the United States. As the California bill expressly guarantees all treaty rights, a judicial construction of the Japanese treaty would to that extent be a construction of the California act.

CONTINUOUS LEASES POSSIBLE.

Johnson Says Change Was to Allow Landowners to Adjust Their Affairs.

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, May 4.—The passage late last night in the Assembly of the Anti-Alien Land bill by a vote of 72 to 3 carries out the programme of Gov. Johnson, who is distinctly pleased at the outcome. He has telegraphed the text the President to look it over and confer with Secretary Bryan. Then it will be signed and become a law, unless a referendum petition holds it up.

The Governor is required by law to sign or veto all acts passed by the Legislature within ten days of final passage, provided the enacting body remains in session for that time. Otherwise he has thirty days. Apparently the Legislature will not adjourn until May 15 or later, which would require the Governor to act on the bill on or before May 13.

There is much speculation here as to the next step which will be taken by the Government against the measure. It is generally thought, however, that President Wilson will state his objections once more to Gov. Johnson and then seek through diplomacy to answer the possible protests from Tokio.

The measure, as amended to allow leases of lands to Japanese for periods of not more than three years, will practically permit the continuous leasing of lands to aliens, as after one three-years' term all that will be needed will be to change the name in the lease. This will save the large land owners of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys from loss, as without the privilege of leasing to Japanese they would find it impossible to work their lands.

In commenting on the passage of the bill Gov. Johnson said to-day:

"We have accomplished the big thing. We have prevented the Japanese from driving the root of their civilization deep into California soil. There has not been an inch of recession by the Senate or the Administration on alien legislation. The three years' leasing clause, which has been included, was planned in the interests of our own people, to give them time to adjust their affairs to the new conditions.

"The big thing we set out to do has been done without swerving, and I resent imputations that there has been a backing down or a trimming with the situation because of any influence whatsoever. In all representations, made by President Wilson or by Secretary of State Bryan on the alien situation, not one word, not one line has been uttered or written concerning leases of lands. The attitude of the National Administration was not made known at all on this phase of the question.

"Every bill that has heretofore been introduced on this subject has contained leasing provisions of one to fifteen years. The first Senate bill, considered at this session, carried a leasing clause; the Assembly bill, that passed the

SCUTARI EVACUATED, THE KAISER IS TOLD

King Nicholas's War Council Favors Withdrawal and the Cabinet Resigns.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, May 5.—At the Crown Council held at Cettinje on Saturday King Nicholas and his Generals decided to yield to the wishes of the powers to evacuate Scutari.

The Montenegrin Parliament has been summoned for Thursday, when the matter will be placed before it.

Statements to this effect were received last night in London and Vienna. If they really represent the purposes of King Nicholas, the situation in regard to Scutari has assumed a much more favorable phase.

Up to late last night, however, the Austrian Foreign Office had received no corroboration of the reports that more pacific tendencies were prevalent at Cettinje, and there was evidently a very strong disposition in official quarters to distrust King Nicholas and his policy.

A special dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Cettinje says that, according to reports from Scutari, Essad Pasha had an encounter with Djavid Pasha in the neighborhood of Durazzo, defeating him after a battle lasting several hours.

Other reports, however, say that Djavid Pasha was victorious.

WIESBADEN, May 4.—While attending the opera this evening, Emperor William received a dispatch that Scutari had been evacuated by the Montenegrins.

CETTINJE, May 4.—The Cabinet has resigned because of the action of the War Council in deciding to evacuate Scutari.

VIENNA, May 4.—Leading newspapers express consternation at the report that Italy and Austria purpose to join in invading Albania, calling it a step likely to involve the gravest perils, with no compensating advantages.

Italian occupation of Avlona, which would give command of the Adriatic, is viewed with great jealousy.

ROME, May 4.—Strong efforts are being made at Cettinje to induce Montenegro to agree before the meeting of the Ambassadors at London to-morrow to evacuate Scutari unconditionally. The argument is offered that this is the only way by which Austrian military intervention can be avoided.

At the same time the powers of the triple entente—Great Britain, France, and Russia—and particularly Russia, are using their influence at Vienna to induce Austria to defer her threatened coercion of Montenegro.

Meanwhile news from Southern Albania is of the gravest import. Anarchy prevails in many sections, according to this information, and the soldiers of Essad Pasha and Djavid Pasha are looting and slaying. They are said to have formed themselves into bands of brigands. Albanian defenders of their homes have been ruthlessly cut down, with their women.

While the Turkish Government at Constantinople has officially disavowed Essad Pasha, it is known that special emissaries have been sent out by the Porte with the object of having Essad recognized as Emir of Albania. A majority of the Albanians are said to be urging Italian intervention for the reestablishment of order.

Preparations have been made by Italy for the dispatch of a large expedition, if that should be necessary. Gen. Nava, who participated in all the African campaigns and commanded a regiment at the battle of Adowa in 1896, has been designated as commander. He is now in command of the Bologna Army Corps.

CORFU, May 4.—The Servians have completely evacuated Albania, according to advices received here.

Five thousand Ottoman troops with artillery, dispatched to Essad Pasha, have occupied Durazzo.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 4.—Rumors of Austro-Italian interference in Albania have been received here with skepticism.

Now, however, it is realized that the fate of Albania involves a deeper concern than Scutari, and it is asserted that in the interests of European peace and the welfare of the Balkan States Russia will do everything possible to prevent the occupation of Albania.

If she is not successful in doing this, Russia will insist that all the great powers participate.

PARIS, May 4.—The Temps understands that the members of the Triple Entente (Great Britain, France, and Russia) will call the attention of the powers of the Triple Alliance (Germany, Italy, and Austria) at the Ambassadorial conference at London to-morrow to the fact that Austria and Italy have received no mandate from the powers, so far as concerns operations in Albania and measures which are eventually to be taken against Essad Pasha and Djavid Pasha.

As these points have never even been discussed, it will be pointed out there can be no question of European agreement on the subject.

LONDON, Monday, May 5.—The formalities in connection with the peace conference over the Balkan difficulty are being rapidly completed. Most of the delegates have already been appointed.

The occupation of Albania by Austria and Italy is becoming probable every day. The prospect is regarded with much uneasiness in Austria and Russia owing to the possible effect on the Slav populations, and Russia will use pressure to prevent such operations.

Russia will also, according to a statement published in Sofia, undertake the role of arbitrator between Servia and Bulgaria.

DUCHESS IS WORSE.

Wife of the Duke of Connaught Passed a Restless Day.

LONDON, May 4.—The condition of the Duchess of Connaught is far from satisfactory. Since the second operation which she underwent recently for abdominal trouble there has been little improvement.

She showed restlessness throughout Sunday, and to-night was reported to be slightly worse.

LONDON MOB RIOTS FOR FREE SPEECH

30,000 Defy Government's Order Forbidding Suffragette Oratory.

CHARGE OF MOUNTED POLICE

Fierce but Not Fatal Fighting Ends in Arrest of Nine, One a M. P.'s Daughter.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 4.—A demonstration in Trafalgar Square this afternoon to uphold the right of free speech nearly became a riot. The meeting was organized by the Free Speech Defense League as a protest against the Government's action in prohibiting suffrage meetings. It is estimated that 30,000 persons were present, the crowd including many suffragettes.

At first all went well. James Keir Hardie, Mrs. Despard, and others made speeches without serious interruption. The disturbance began when several Socialists, yearning to air their grievances, attempted to speak from the south side of the plinth of the Nelson Monument. It had previously been arranged that in order to keep the roadway clear no speaking should be allowed on that side, but despite the warning the men persisted, whereupon the police interfered and mounted the plinth. A scuffle followed, during which a Socialist was knocked off the plinth. This aroused the feeling of the crowd against the police.

Egged on by suffragettes waving their Women's Social and Political Union banner and by the Socialists, the crowd dashe at the dozen policemen guarding the south side of the plinth and pinned them to the base of the monument. The police strove to drive the mob back, but were powerless against such odds. Mounted police reinforcements soon arrived, whereupon the fight spread all over the square.

The mob, cursing and yelling, was driven back by the police, whom the rioters attacked with their fists. The Socialists on the plinth encouraged the crowd, while the responsible leaders of the demonstration tried to pacify it. Keir Hardie, at the suggestion of the police, attempted to quiet the mob, but his words were unheeded, the disturbers shouting their battle cry and continuing their spasmodic dashes at the police.

Suffragette Waves Tattered Flag.

Two women, crying and shrieking, were dragged from the crowd and hoisted to a place of comparative safety on the plinth, where other women with babies took refuge. A young suffragette seized a militant flag, and, waving it energetically, shrieked: "I am going to keep the flag flying! No 'copper' can make me put it down!" The flag was torn from the staff, and the girl waved the remnants.

While the tumult was at its height some suffragettes passed on a motor omnibus. They stood up, displaying placards inscribed: "Votes for Women," and the other suffragettes shouted defiance to the police.

While the latter were making arrests the mob tried to drag some of the mounted police from their horses, but without success. Particularly vindictive was the attitude of the mob toward Supt. Wells, who, seated on his horse, smiled calmly and went on making notes.

Police Assailed as "Cossacks."

Eluding the vigilance of the police another Socialist endeavored to address the crowd from the south side of the monument, but was dragged back by the collar. His fellows on the plinth, together with the suffragettes, poured abuse upon the police, shouting: "Cowards!" "Dirty dogs!" "Cossacks!" One suffragette struck an Inspector with a banner. He merely took it from her and smiled.

By this time one of the largest crowds ever seen in Trafalgar Square had assembled. On all sides was a dense mas of people. The steps of the National Gallery were crowded, as were those of the Church of St. Martin's in the Fields. The approaches to Whitehall and Northumberland Avenue were also densely packed, but the disturbance was confined to the front rows of the people surrounding the plinth.

These people, who were welcomed as "Lansbury's Lambs," had marched from the East End with bands playing and banners flying. The flags bore such inscriptions as "Poplar Bow and Bromley Will Have the Right of Speech; Remember Trafalgar Square, 1887." Some suffragettes bore a black flag with the words: "Release Prisoners." There were many purple, green, and white banners.

Many Foreigners in the Mob.

Apparently many foreigners were among the rioters. The crowd succeeded in overthrowing one mounted policeman and cheered deliriously as he and his horse fell struggling to the ground. The mounted men, however, held the upper hand, though their comrades on foot, outnumbered and scattered among the rioters, in many cases got the worst of the struggle. When only two or three constables were in a group men and youths rushed them and struck them on heads and faces. At several points where there were what can best be described as running fights, a con-

NIP PLOT TO KILL ALFONSO.

French Police Seize Anarchists Said to be Implicated.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, May 4.—An Anarchist plot to kill King Alfonso during his visit to Paris this week has been discovered by the police of Montpellier, in the south of France.

Several Anarchists, who have been arrested, were found to have been in correspondence with well-known Spanish Anarchists, and several documents have been seized. The closest police surveillance will be maintained in the cases of all suspected persons during the King's visit.

ANARCHIST ATTACKS DUKE.

Friedrich of Baden Knocks Him Down and Goes On to the Races.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, May 4.—A laborer, supposed to be an Anarchist, attempted to assassinate the Grand Duke of Baden outside the railway station at Mannheim this afternoon.

The Duke was driving across the station square on his way to the Mannheim May races when a man ran out from the crowd, leaped up on the step of the carriage and brandished a dagger. Owing to the speed of the carriage, the man swayed and had to support himself with his left hand against the front seat of the vehicle. This gave the Duke time to fling himself forward, with a cry, against the man, who slipped, fell to the ground, and was instantly seized. The Grand Duke proceeded to the races.

Messages from Mannheim say that the attempt was obviously prearranged, and that the Grand Duke's assailant is probably connected with the Anarchist band which, according to a report, planned an attack upon the Kaiser.

BIG BOATHOUSE IS BURNED.

Launch and Sloop Destroyed at Mrs. Wharton's Summer Home.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 4.—Fire late on Saturday night destroyed the large boathouse at the Summer home in Jamestown of Mrs. Joseph Wharton of Philadelphia.

A large motor launch and a small sloop yacht were consumed. The loss will be over $5,000.

CANCER STUDY AT HARVARD.

A Special Investigation of the Effect of Radium to be Made.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 4.—The effect of radium in the treatment of cancer is to be made the subject of a special investigation under the direction of Dr. William Duane at the Harvard Medical School.

For the present the experiments will be conducted in the Collis P. Huntington building, but as soon as possible a special building is to be constructed adjoining the medical school and devoted entirely to the work of radium investigation.

Dr. Duane has studied in the laboratory of Madame Curie, the discoverer of radium, and has been in touch also with the work of the Radium Institute in London. The investigation is to be made under the supervision of the Cancer Commission of Harvard. Dr. E. E. Tyzzee, director of the commission, says that a group of investigators is being assembled to attack the problem of cancer treatment, from various points of view.

RIDER HURT SAVING WOMEN.

Motor Cyclist Hits the Curb and Is Thrown Through a Window.

While trying to avoid women who were in danger of being run down by his motor cycle late yesterday afternoon, John Tanner, a machinist of 827 Jackson Avenue, turned into the curb at Third Avenue and 167th Street and was thrown through the plate glass window of the saloon of Smith & Zimmerman, at 3,202 Third Avenue. An ambulance surgeon from Lebanon Hospital found that his only injury was a cut on the left wrist. The cycle was wrecked.

At the time of the accident Tanner was riding south in Third Avenue. As he neared 167th Street a party of women stepped from a southbound car directly in front of him.

NEWSPAPER HEEDS LAW.

But Sunday Ordinance in Ohio Town Was Not Generally Observed.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, May 4.—The expected "Blue Sunday" did not materialize in this city to-day, although one newspaper did not publish and all the moving picture theatres were closed as a result of the crusade which former Judge A. Z. Blair, who disfranchised 1,665 voters of Adams County for vote selling, made on Sunday moving picture shows.

Last week moving picture men had ex-Judge Blair, who is now an editor, arrested for operating the plant of The Portsmouth Blade, a morning paper, on Sunday, and a general closing down of all business had been promised for today. However, practically all the cigar and drug stores of the city were open, and the regular baseball game was played undisturbed.

No work was done on to-morrow morning's issue of The Blade until after 12 o'clock to-night.

WEDDED, SO HE'S A LUBBER.

Cornell Man Is Barred from Crew When He Takes a Bride.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, May 4.—That marriage is a bar to rowing, at least in Cornell, has been demonstrated in the case of E. W. Pollard, until recently a member of the junior 'Varsity crew and a member of last year's crack freshman combination, who has been dropped from rowing by Charles E. Courtney, coach. Pollard slipped quietly out of town a few days ago, telling Courtney he would be away from crew practice for several days because he had to go to Syracuse to see a sick brother. The bluff worked for a day or two, but Courtney picked up a Syracuse newspaper which informed him that Pollard had married a school chum in Fulton, where he lives.

When Pollard strolled down to the boat house last Friday, Courtney said: "Hello, Pollard, how do you like married life?" Pollard admitted he liked it and waited a second for Courtney to assign him to a crew. No such order came. Just before Courtney pushed out in his launch, he turned and said:

"What, Pollard, are you here yet? You'd better look out, or the boys will throw you into the inlet." Then Pollard knew he never would earn a 'Varsity crew C. No married man ever has rowed in the Cornell shell, and apparently Courtney will see to it that none ever does.

PATERSON SILK MAN KILLED IN NEW AUTO

Turns to Let Another Machine Pass and Plunges Down Bank.

CAR PINS BROOKLYN FRIEND

Three Others on Trip to Fishing Grounds Flung from Tonneau, but Rescue Fire-Menaced Companion.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 4.—Slanting his automobile across the Monroe road to let another machine pass, James Mitchell, a Paterson silk manufacturer, ran the car into a ditch at 10:30 o'clock this morning, and he was dead when companions picked him up. The Mitchell auto turned over twice, crushing its owner's skull the first time, and pinning William Miller of Brooklyn to the ground on the second whirl. A. Henriks, also of Brooklyn, and Alexander F. Dodge and H. D. Harris of Paterson were flung from the tonneau and suffered severe cuts and bruises. Despite their own hurts, they lifted the machine off Miller, who was being burned by the exhaust at a rate that threatened speedy death. Dr. O. I. Van Keuren gave emergency treatment to the scorched man and dressed the injuries of the other survivors, all of whom were taken to Monroe. Senator Wood McKee of Paterson, who had been counsel to Mitchell, arranged for removal of the body to the manufacturer's home.

Mitchell and his friends started from Paterson early in the day for Roscoe, Sullivan County. They had planned a week's trout fishing there. Mitchell had bought his high-powered, six-passenger auto only a week before, but he felt confident that he could run it without the aid of a chauffeur. He took the wheel at the outset, and, as he drove carefully, his companions believed they were safe under his guidance. Though the machine moved at good speed along the comparatively clear country roads, there was no attempt at scorching. Mitchell's friends noticed that he was particularly careful to give other cars plenty of room to pass.

It was indirectly as a result of the silk man's constant considerateness in obeying the rules of the road that the accident occurred. When the Mitchell machine was nearing Monroe, W. M. Weygant of Central Valley came up behind it in an auto. Weygant sounded his siren to let Mitchell know that he wished to make better time than that of the forward car, so the manufacturer turned to the right to let the Central Valley man pass.

A front wheel of the Mitchell auto slid into a deep rut, wrenching the steering gear so badly that the guiding wheel slipped through the driver's hands. The car veered sharply to the right and plunged down a six-foot embankment. It somersaulted as it fell into the ditch, with Mitchell beneath the forward seat. The impact fractured Mitchell's skull and broke his arm. Miller was caught in the tonneau in such a way that he was thrown out, as were the three others, and when the big car's rear hit the ground in its second somersault, he was under it. The position in which he fell was such that his back was jammed against the exhaust pipe. As the engine was racing flame was shot in a swift stream from the pipe against the Brooklyn man's spine.

Dodge, Harris, and Henriks, though dazed by the force with which they struck the ground, recovered their self-possession quickly and hastened to Miller's aid. When they had rescued him from his position under the automobile they turned their attention to Mitchell. It took only a few seconds to determine that the silk man was dead. Then two of them devoted themselves to efforts to revive Miller, while the third went with Weygant for a physician. In spite of the first aid treatment given to him by his friends and the medical assistance of Dr. Van Keuren, Miller was unconscious for an hour. For a time it seemed unlikely he would recover, but the doctor announced this evening that his patient would get well.

Coroner S. B. Heaton, it was who took the injured men to his town and telephoned news of Mitchell's death to Paterson. The message was received by the Rev. Dr. James H. Owens of the East Side Presbyterian Church, who told Mitchell's widow and daughter of their bereavement. Mitchell was a member of Katterman & Mitchell of 300 Straight Street. He was Secretary of the Citizens' Trust Company and a Director in several banks. He was a prominent member of the Elks and the Hamilton Club. Dodge, Harris, and Henriks returned to their homes this afternoon.

FIXED POST MAN KILLED.

Burns Stepped in Front of Car on Riverside Drive.

Patrolman Eugene Burns was pacing his fixed post on Riverside Drive at 133d Street shortly before 11 o'clock last night when an automobile came suddenly out of the darkness, struck him, and tossed him thirty feet. His injuries were so serious that he died in the J. Hood Wright Hospital.

The machine belonged to Frederick W. Gilman of 35 West Seventy-third Street, and he was riding in the front seat at the time, although the man at the wheel was his friend, Howard Duval of 151 Central Park West. From the accounts of all the witnesses to the accident the machine was proceeding up the Drive at a very moderate speed, and, according to Mr. Duval himself, Burns seemed suddenly to step from the shadow into the path of the car.

The car was halted a few feet further on, and both men hurried back to see what injury had been done. Then, without waiting to turn in any alarm or to call an ambulance, they picked up the injured man and rushed him to the hospital in the car which had struck him.

There Dr. Nardillo found that Burns's skull was broken and that he was seriously injured internally, besides the bruises and cuts that covered his face and arms.

Patrolman Burns was covering the fixed post on assignment from his precinct, the West 125th Street Station. He is 45 years old, and his home is at 122 West 102d Street.

CREVICE SAVES TWO LIVES.

Grips Wheel as Auto Goes Over a Cliff, and Men Crawl Out.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, May 4.—Two men escaped what seemed certain death yesterday evening when the rear wheel of an automobile in which they were riding became wedged in a crevice as the car shot out over a sixty-foot cliff above the Black River near here. The men crawled back over the seat to safety.

Dorr Hinds and a man whose name is not known were driving toward this city along the State road at high speed. As they crossed a railroad track just before reaching a bridge across the river the steering wheel was wrenched from the driver's hands. The car shot off the road and into a stone quarry. It continued on its flight, and would have thrown the men into the river and fallen on them had not the rear wheel caught in the rock crevice.

MAY RESTORE DUTIES ON WOOL AND SUGAR

But Democratic Leaders Expect Senate to Override Finance Committee's Tariff Changes.

VOTE CERTAIN TO BE CLOSE

Farmers' Unions Try to Draw Senators from Caucus Pledges—Burton Sees Business Dislocation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The passage of the Underwood Tariff bill by the House this week without material change is assured. It will then go to the Senate, where the Democratic leaders plan to bring it forward for consideration at an early date. They are greatly encouraged over the prospect of putting the measure through the Senate in practically the same shape that it will leave the House, and this in spite of the opposition of Democratic Senators from sugar-growing and wool-growing States, who object to the provisions taking the protective duties from these products.

There are ten Democrats and seven Republicans on the Senate Finance Committee, which will handle the Underwood bill in the interim between its passage by the House and its consideration by the Senate. Joined by two Democrats the seven Republicans on the Finance Committee would be able to amend the House bill with respect to sugar and wool, and there is a confident feeling among those interested in having the House rates on these products changed that the two Democratic votes will be forthcoming, with a possibility of three Democrats joining the Republicans in voting to prevent sugar from going on the free list at the end of the three-year period provided for in the Underwood bill.

But whatever the action of the Committee on Finance, the majority leaders profess a hopeful feeling that they will overcome the desertion of the wool and sugar Senators when the bill is taken up in the Senate itself.

Marshall's Vote May Decide.

Putting the bill against every contingency they can conceive, the Senate leaders figure that the vote on the final passage of the tariff measure will be a tie, and with Vice President Marshall there to cast the deciding vote for the bill they are confident of victory. But they expect to win by a wider margin. They feel sure that there will be at least two votes to spare in the majority in favor of the measure.

Some of the district farmers' unions interested in cotton and wool growing are trying to prevent the transfer of their products to the free list or a reduction in the present tariff rates on those products by persuading Democratic Senators to remain out of party caucuses called to consider the terms of the Underwood bill. These organizations are proceeding on the theory that Democratic Senators who remain away from caucuses will be free to act as they please when the bill comes up for consideration in the Senate. Concerted action along this line was agreed upon at a conference of the Farmers' Union from Southern States, held in New Orleans a week ago.

Burton Sees Vital Changes.

Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, Republican, came out to-day in a prepared interview, in which he expressed surprise that greater interest had not been aroused over the pending Tariff bill, which, he asserted, would create changed conditions vitally affecting the welfare of the country. Senator Burton admitted that material reductions in the present duties on many articles would be for the country's good, but he contended that the changes now proposed are too drastic and are not based upon any well-considered or well-defined principles. For one thing, the changes were too sweeping, he said, and that "notwithstanding a contrary impression prevalent in the country, the Tariff act of 1909 (the Payne-Aldrich law) provided for lower duties than those theretofore in force."

This was proved, he said, by a computation of the duties actually levied during the operation of the act. The duties collected in the last fiscal year, said Senator Burton, showed a decrease of more than 9 per cent. on dutiable goods and more than 19 per cent. on dutiable and non-dutiable articles combined, as compared with the experience in the last fiscal year that the Dingley tariff was in operation.

"The pending Underwood bill, however," said Senator Burton, "goes much further than any measure heretofore proposed or passed in the extent of reductions contemplated.

Trade Built on Protection.

"It is essential to the business of any country that changes be made gradually and with due regard for existing conditions. Whether right or wrong, we have now been living for nearly fifty years under a fiscal system in which high duties on about half our imports are a distinctive feature. The industrial and business interests of the country—indeed the whole social system—all have adapted themselves to this policy. To make a sudden change, such as that contemplated by the Underwood bill, is like a fundamental change in the form of government. It affects the whole framework of our economic life.

"No doubt the price of some articles is increased by the tariff. The removal of the duty on sugar and on raw wool and the decreased duties on woolen goods will no doubt lower prices somewhat, though not at all in proportion to the proposed decrease in duties. The fact is that we, like all other progressive nations, are living in an era of high prices. These are world-wide and are intimately associated with the beneficial progress of the times. It costs more to live because life means more than it did, and a greater degree of abundance is the possession of nearly all of the people. In most instances the tariff is but a trivial fraction which the consumer is compelled to pay. It would be difficult to find an instance in which a more erroneous opinion has gained wide credence than the idea that the tariff has materially increased the cost of living.

INSURANCE PROFITS TAXABLE.

Hull Sees No Reason for Exempting Them from Income Tax.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Representative Hull of Tennessee, author of the income tax section of the Underwood Tariff bill, gave out a formal answer to-day to criticism directed at the section by insurance companies. According to Mr. Hull the proposed tax will not fall upon life insurance policies paid at death, nor upon the return of principal invested in life insurance in the life of a policy holder.

Mr. Hull admits, however, that the full tax will fall upon some of the larger insurance companies. These companies, he says, have been representing to the public that if they become policy holders they will receive dividends from an accumulated surplus, not simply repayments of overcharged premiums. This surplus, says Mr. Hull, is used as a bait to catch policy holders from generation to generation, though the surplus is never divided and remains from year to year as a valuable personal business asset. It should be taxed, he says.

Referring to exempt life insurance paid, Mr Hull says in his statement:

"The proposed tax would, however, apply to any actual gains or profits arising from such investments and return either separately or along with any portion of the principal from time to time, just as interest upon the loan of money which might be paid to the lender separately or which might be included with a part payment of the principal. An actuary would determine whether any actual gains accrue with respect to these insurance transactions. If not accruing, therefore, the tax would not apply in any sense.

"However, some of the large companies which have amassed in the neighborhood of half a billion dollars assets and which derive large profits annually from savings in expenses, from savings in mortality and from excess interest in earnings, in addition to the amounts received from premium payments made by policy holders, are seeking to have these net profits in bulk exempted from the proposed nominal tax of one per cent. per annum.

"Of course, we all feel kindly toward insurance companies, and especially toward all policy holders, and would under no circumstances do them an injustice, and from my investigations I can find no theory, even under all the facts, by which the policy holders would be in the least affected. Most of these companies have always represented to the public and to the policy holders that they declare periodical dividends out of surplus, &c., and were not simply making a return of premium savings or premium overcharges. It has always been pictured to the public that these companies were making large profits each year from the source that I have mentioned, out of which policy holders receive annual dividends. However, when the Government proposes a 1 per cent. tax, not on the policy holders, but on the aggregate profit of the corporation, the companies then abandon the representations made to the public and set up the contention that they were simply making returns of premium savings to policy holders.

"Under all these circumstances no just ground can be found for totally exempting the net profits of the several billion dollars of assets above referred to."

BOSTONIANS OFF TO LIMA.

Sail from Panama To-day—Feted by the Panamanians.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, May 4.—The visiting Boston business men enjoyed an ocean outing to-day. Panama merchants took them to the Pacific entrance to the canal and Taboga Island. They also visited the Governor of the province and the Mayor of the city.

A band concert was given for their benefit this evening.

The party will sail to-morrow on the steamship Guatemala for Callao and Lima. They are delighted with the hospitality of the Panamanians. All are well.

RAZOR DEFENDS SINGING.

Three Men and Woman Wounded When Lodger Is Asked to Stop.

Three men and a woman, lodgers in a rooming house at 239 Third Avenue, were injured last night when Charles Wolter, 45 years old, another lodger, attacked the men with a razor after having been ordered to stop his singing and leave the house by the owner, Mrs. Annie Meyers. The three men, after being attended, were removed to Bellevue Hospital, where it was said their condition was serious. The woman, after having her wounds dressed, was locked up as a material witness in the East Twenty-second Street Station, where Wolter was held charged with felonious assault. The injured are:

PARKER, FLORENCE, 25 years old; lacerations of the scalp, caused by being struck on the head with a bottle.

RODERICK, JERRY, 39 years old, a machinist, married; received deep cuts on the face, neck, arms, and legs; condition serious.

According to Mrs. Meyers, Wolter had been singing in his room the greater part of yesterday, to the great discomfort of the other lodgers in the house, who complained to the landlady. She says she went to his room and asked him to stop, but instead he continued with his song. She says she then ordered him to leave the house, and he paused long enough in his singing to refuse and then resumed.

A number of the lodgers were in the hall on the second floor, in the rear of which is Wolter's room, and heard the defi. The three men then started for the room, followed by Florence Parker. Roderick was the first of the three to enter, and, according to his story to the police, Wolter, on seeing him, grabbed an open razor that was lying on the table and slashed at him. Roderick tried to defend himself as best he could from the frenzied attack, but was powerless and finally sank to the floor, bleeding from numerous slashes in the face, neck, arms, and legs.

McPhillips tried to defend Roderick, and was in turn attacked, as was Williams. Both men wrestled all over the room, overturning chairs, table, and bed, while Wolter continued to slash with the razor. Florence Parker ran into the room screaming, and was struck on the head by a flying bottle, thrown by one of the men.

The screams of the woman and the shouts of the men attracted the attention of F. D. Jenkins, of 198 Berriman Street, Brooklyn, a special Deputy Sheriff of Kings County, who was passing, and he ran into the house just as Wolter ran from the room holding in his hand the razor. Jenkins drew his revolver, and Wolter, Jenkins says, ran back to his room, returning with an axe, which he hurled at Jenkins, who just missed being hit in the head.

The commotion in the house by this time was heard by Policemen Barr and Rosenfeld, of the East Twenty-second Street station, who ran into the house to find Wolter on the second floor with Jenkins on the lower landing, covering him with his revolver. The two policemen, after a short struggle, placed Wolter under arrest, and then turned their attention to the wounded men.

APPEAL FOR HEROIC NURSES

Ambassador Rockhill Asks Aid for Women Who Fought the Cholera.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Washington correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES has received the following from William W. Rockhill, American Ambassador in Constantinople, with the request that it be published:

AN APPEAL.

On Nov. 18, during the great battle of Tchatalja, a little party of Americans endeavored to reach the line of battle in an automobile, but were turned back by sentries.

Returning to Constantinople, their road led them through the little village of San Stefano, where a very different battle was in progress. The village had become a "cholera camp" by a stroke of the pen, and there the stricken men from the army, fighting desperately at Tchatalja, were sent by trainloads.

But in those first days of the war all eyes were turned toward the front, and the terrible enemy, cholera, had not yet been realized. The "camp" was still unorganized, and no help was ready for the suffering hundreds left there by the roadside.

Only two old ladies of nearly 70, Miss Alt and Mme. Schneider, residents of San Stefano, had remained when all others had fled, and were heroically working there alone among the sick and dying soldiers. Devoting all their own small savings to the task, they made soup and fed the hungry and cared as best they might for the dying. For weeks they worked there—alone at first and later with the organized relief sent as soon as possible from the city—shunning recognition, wishing no thanks, working for humanity.

Both ladies are now shattered in health and in straitened circumstances, and therefore we, the undersigned, who have seen and known these ladies and their wonderful work, ask you whose hearts may be touched by their self-forgetful heroism and divine pity to join us in offering them a tribute of our respect and admiration.

BARNES SUGGESTS A DEAL TO SULZER

Offers Republican Support for an Amended Primary Measure in Extra Session.

WANTS STATE CONVENTIONS

If Governor Will Agree to This Republicans in Legislature Will Help Put Bill Through.

Republican State and county leaders are preparing to take full advantage of the threatened fight of Gov. Sulzer upon the Democratic opponents of his direct primary measure. In a statement issued yesterday at Republican State headquarters Chairman William Barnes publicly invited the Governor to call a special session of the Legislature, and promised that, with the elimination of the clause abolishing the State Convention system, the Republican legislators would rally to his support. Among other things Mr. Barnes said in his statement:

"It is unfortunate that the session of the Legislature closed without proper amendments to the Election law, which at the present time is in a deplorable condition. Early in the session Senator Brown and Assemblyman Vert introduced measures to conform to the pledges made by the Republican Party in its platform adopted at Saratoga, which provided for the short ballot, the abolition of committee designation for primaries, the abolition of the preferential column and party emblem for primaries, the prohibition of the use of party funds in behalf of candidates before the primaries, and the reducing of the number of signatures necessary for petitions both for candidates before the primaries and candidates for public office.

"Two months after the introduction of this bill, which the Republicans endeavored to have considered, the Governor, having broken with the Democratic majority, came forward with these proposals, but added the regulation of the number of State Committeemen and County Committeemen and the abolition of the State Convention.

"The Republicans did not vote as a unit on the Governor's bill. Some voted for it, but the majority against. In both Houses the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Governor's bill was lost, made by the Republicans, was for the purpose of passing the bill with the exception of the State Convention.

"The Republicans hold, and very properly, that the State has never tried the experiment of real direct nominations in the political sub-divisions of the State, and that it should be so tried before considering its applicability to State officers and the Judges of the Court of Appeals.

"The present statute places in political committees the power to designate candidates for the primary, a power which no political committee should have. It is an abomination and leaves an agency between the candidate of the party and the electorate of the party which ought not to exist. The old convention system did not necessarily provide any such agency, and was far superior as a method of nominating to the present law.

"Had the Governor made the committee designations the crux of his contention unanimous Republican support would have aided the passage of such a measure.

"It is not too late now if an extra session of the Legislature is called before August, when the committeees will meet for designating purposes, to pass a bill in accordance with the Republican position and the Governor's position except in relation to State Conventions.

"A State Convention, comprised of delegates elected by the enrolled voters of each party from each Assembly district, all such delegates to be nominated by petition, as the Republicans propose, would make an ideal convention and far superior to the proposed 'party council' which is to be used for platform declarations in place of the convention, because the latter would be composed practically only of office seekers, who would have more interest in their own election than they would have in a declaration of faith.

"It should be clearly understood that the new kind of State Convention proposed by the Republicans will be a thoroughly representative body, as no delegates will be elected to it except by a plurality of the enrolled voters of each party in each Assembly district, and all candidates will have equal opportunity to contend for election.

"The Republicans firmly oppose the abolition of the State Convention because of the practical workings of a system which provides for the nomination of State officers and Judges of the Court of Appeals directly: First, because the people of the State of New York are not homogeneous. This State contains the most heterogeneous population of any in the Union. Second, the rural voter would be compelled to travel miles in order to carry the same weight in casting his ballot that the voter in the cities possesses by walking around a block. Third, no man could be nominated for Governor unless he had a powerful party organization behind him or an immense campaign fund. Fourth, nominations would be accorded to the men who received pluralities, not majorities. The nominee for Governor, out of six or seven candidates, might easily be in a real minority. Fifth, modest and able lawyers probably would not enter such a contest for Judges of the Court of Appeals, whereas demagogic lawyers would become candidates and promise in advance what their decisions would be.

"Confusion and disorder would result from such a method of nominating such important officers as Governor, Controller, and Judges of the Court of Appeals, and would be abominable, whereas a contest over a Sheriff or a County Clerk by direct nomination does not necessarily present any such disorderly picture.

"If the Governor calls an extra session of the Legislature enough Democrats should join with the Republicans to pass the proposals contained in the Republican bills and the Governor's bills, with the exception of the abolition of the State Convention. Then some beginning will have been made toward cleaning up our expensive, ill-conceived, and repressive electoral system."

THREE END LIVES ASHORE.

Rivers Give Up Four Others Who May Have Been Self-Slain.

Three suicides were found in this city yesterday, and the day's list may be longer when something more is learned of the circumstances that led to the death of four men whose bodies were given up yesterday by the waters around Manhattan Island. Of the three persons known to have killed themselves, one used gas, another a razor, and the third a pistol.

Minnie Weinstein, a twenty-two-year-old Austrian girl, who was studying to be a lawyer, was found dead by her mother in the bathroom of her home, at 2 Attorney Street, where she had placed herself in the tub and fixed between her teeth a rubber tube connected with the gas-jet. Her suicide followed upon what was to her a night of triumph.

Born in Buckowiner, she had organized a society of the young folks in this city hailing from that Austrian town, and as President of the society had led the grand march at the ball given the night before in Lenox Hall, at Second Street and Avenue B. The members of the society gave her a bouquet of flowers, which she was carrying when she started for home at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. She let herself in without waking her father and mother, and they saw nothing of her until she was found dead several hours later.

There were marks of great deliberation about the suicide of a young man, who cut his throat with a razor, in the Bronx Zoological Park some time on Saturday. His body was found at noon yesterday in a clump of bushes by one of the keepers. Before killing himself he had removed his overcoat and coat, folded them neatly, and put them on the ground. On them he placed his hat, collar, and cravat. Then he cut his throat. In the pocket of his coat was found a large envelope, sealed and addressed to the Russian Consulate. Outside this envelope, which cannot be opened until to-day, there was no hint as to his identity.

The man who used a pistol to kill himself was Paul Szopozak, a buttonhole maker, of 425 Sixth Street. He shot himself while standing on the roof of the tenement at 628 Sixth Street yesterday morning.

The body of Rudolph Lorenz, cook of the Hamburg-American liner Altai, was found floating in the slip between Piers 64 and 65 North River. Lorenz had been missing ever since the Altai made fast to her pier, three weeks ago. His home was at 472 West Twenty-fourth Street.

Another body of a man was given up by the waters of the North River off Hubert Street. The only clue to his identity was a card inscribed "Rudolph Maurer, Master Bakers' Association." The man weighed about 200 pounds, and appeared to have been about 50 years old.

A third dead man was found in the East River off Stanton Street. Gray-haired and gray-mustached, he appeared to have been about 55 years old. His weight was 160 pounds.

Last night the police of Harbor A Squad found the fourth body afloat off Governors Island. It was that of a man about 30, clad only in a blue cotton shirt, white underwear, and white canvas low shoes. The body had been in the water a long time.

FRIENDS SAW HIM DROWN.

Boy's Hands Slipped from Rope Support and Tide Carried Him Off.

Frederick Guth, fourteen-years-old, of 217 West Fourteenth Street, was drowned early yesterday afternoon when he lost his hold on a rope hanging from the side of a sand barge moored at the foot of Fifteenth Street, Hoboken.

In company with five other boys, Guth went to Hoboken yesterday noon to bathe in the river. He could not swim, but supported himself on a rope let down over the side of the barge. While his companions were dressing, Guth remained in the water.

While kicking and disporting in the tideway, Guth's hand slipped from the rope. His companions heard his cries for help, and one of them, Edgar Hoffman, eleven-years-old, of 210 West Fourteenth Street, plunged overboard to the rescue, while another, Edward Doyle, thirteen-years-old, living at 73 Seventh Avenue, threw out a long plank. The tide, however, carried young Guth out of the reach of aid, and his friends saw him sink out of sight. The body was not recovered.

DROWNS BEFORE CROWD.

One Boy Clings to Overturned Canoe, the Other Goes Down.

The regular warm Sunday afternoon crowd, assembled on the bulkhead at the base of Fort Washington Lighthouse to enjoy the cool breeze from the North River, saw two boys saluting yesterday as they went by in a canoe. They had gone only 200 feet further up the river when, as the boy paddling in front rose to shift places with his friend, the canoe capsized.

Capt. Richard Cox, a boatman, and Policeman Mahon put out from shore in a motor boat when they saw the canoe capsize. They were unable to reach one of the boys before he went down for the last time, but they managed to get the other into their boat before his strength gave out.

The boy saved gave his name as Clarence Turgess of 208 West Fourteenth Street, and said the boy lost was John Zoolish of 226 West Sixteenth Street.

DIVER FAILS TO COME UP.

Twelve-Year-Old Bather Is Lost in Sherman Creek.

Tony Correow, a 12-year-old school boy who lives at 102 Bayard Street, went in swimming yesterday afternoon in Sherman Creek, an off-shoot of the Harlem River. His friend, Alexander Salotti, 14 years old, of 237 Smith Street, Brooklyn, was watching from the bank Tony climbed upon a rock projecting out of the water and dived off. Salotti stood waiting for the swimmer to come up, but he did not appear.

Salotti ran and told Mounted Policeman Garvey, who called several boatmen to search for the boy's body. Although the water into which young Correow dived is only about four feet deep, no trace of the body could be found. It is thought that the boy's head struck a rock and that, stunned, he was carried by the current out into Harlem River and drowned.

troller's counsel for the purpose of estimating the value of stock in his companies. When the hearings were resumed under the reappraisal, and these figures for the following year were called for, the attorney for the Pulitzer estate refused on the ground that such figures were not subject to demand.

"It was frequently reported that Mr. Morgan had withdrawn from most active work in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. for some time before his death. If, however, the question should be raised by his executors, on a contention that his death had caused a loss to the firm by reason of the withdrawal of his personality, it would be subject to the test laid down by Surrogate Cohalan in the Pulitzer appraisal, unless this test should be overthrown in the higher courts. It would be necessary under this test to show the profits of the firm both before and after Mr. Morgan's death.

Rees Case as a Precedent.

"Norman I. Rees, the appraisal of whose estate brought the decision of the Court of Appeals, was President of Hans Rees's Sons, Incorporated, dealers in hides and leather at 39 Frankfort Street. The largest item in his estate was 8,933 shares of the stock of the company. Before Transfer Tax Appraiser William Blau the executors of his will contended that the stock was not worth more than $50 a share. One of the experts testified that in his opinion the stock was worth only $38 a share, while another testified that a price ranging between $65 and $70 would be a large one.

"Sydney Waud, an expert for the State Controller, testified that after an examination of the books of the corporation he was convinced that the stock should be taxed at $120 a share. Later, Mr. Waud, after a further examination, reduced his valuation to $90 a share. In his report the appraiser deducted an additional $5 a share on account of the elimination of the personality of Mr. Rees from the business. He then taxed the decedent's interest in the firm at $759,305, although it was admitted that the market value of the stock was not more than $625,310.

"In arriving at this calculation, the appraiser said that at the time of Mr. Rees's death the book assets of the company were worth $1,661,277, while the liabilities, including $1,000,000 of capital stock, were $1,407,940, leaving a surplus of $253,737.21. For the three years previous to Mr. Rees's death, it was stated, the corporation paid an average of 5 per cent. on its capital stock of $1,000,000, the net profits averaging about $100,000 a year.

"All of the experts, whether called by the executors or by the State Controller, admitted that the so-called book value of the stock was about $100 a share. The executors contended, however, that in the case of an industrial corporation the only fair method of estimating the value was by the price the stock would bring 'in the market.' On account of the nature of the business and its domination by Mr. Rees during his lifetime, they argued that a market value based on 50 per cent. of the book value would be more than a liberal estimate on which to pay a transfer tax. The State Controller insisted on the full book value, and the Court of Appeals sustained his view."

CHURCHMEN PRAISE LABOR PROTOCOLS

Pastors Call for Closer Co-operation with Workers at a Meeting at St. George's.

LABOR LEADER ALSO HEARD

Hugh Frayne Says That Under the Protocol Scientific Intelligence Has Supplanted Old Methods.

Instead of the usual services in St. George's Church at Stuyvesant Square last night the pastors of other parishes and an official of the American Federation of Labor talked about the adjustment of industrial disputes by the "Peace Protocol." The speakers last night suggested a closer co-operation between the Church and labor. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Church Association for the Advancement of the Interests of Labor, organized in 1887, of which Bishop Greer is President. Bishop Frederick Courtney, rector of St. James's Church, presided, and the speakers were Bishop Arthur S. Lloyd, President of the Episcopal Board of Missions; Canon George W. Douglas of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine; Hugh Frayne, Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and the Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, rector of St. Michael's Church.

Bishop Lloyd said the church and labor were interchangeable terms, for if you took away labor, he asserted, you took away the life of the Church.

"There should be no conflict between the Church and labor," he said, "yet I have been in the company of men, splendid men they were, too, who have said that the Church was the enemy of labor, and I have heard men in the church express similar sentiments of labor. You do not have to go outside the confines of this city to find men who will say that you cannot have liberty and all the rights of labor until the Church is gone.

"What is liberty without God? It is a poor dead thing. Read the records in the far past of the world's history to the time that Moses came out of the wilderness because he could not find anything on earth worth while to worship. With the coming of a better understanding in the hearts of men who will cease to hear me applaud the mention of the name of Jesus while they hiss his body, the Church."

"The idea of the protocol came from Mr. Brandeis, and has been worked out further by Julius Henry Cohen," said Canon Douglas. "In it we have the public represented with the employer and the employe. It provides a way for self-control in the settlement of industrial disputes. In the newspaper to-day, I read that Rabbi Schulman says civilization is built up by men of self-control. The protocol is a step on the road of self-control. One reason why the church likes the protocol is because it stands for the spirit of mutual co-operation; no muskets, no policemen."

Hugh Frayne, describing how the protocol had worked in the garment workers' strike, said the employes, after winning a strike, usually lost all interest in the organization which made it possible for them to win and maintain what they had gained, and so they were deprived by employers of their advantage and kept up periodical strikes. The most recent use of the protocol, he said, was made when a strike was settled by it within four days.

"It has demonstrated that scientific intelligence has taken the place of the old methods," he said. "The public, which suffers so much through industrial disturbances has a part in the adjustment of labor troubles. It should be used in all industrial disputes. I want to say as a representative of the American Federation of Labor that we have no quarrel with the church, never have had, and I hope we never will have. We want the co-operation of the churches."

GANG CAME AT SIGNAL.

But Policeman Robinson Beat Them Off and Got His Man.

Patrolman Alexander Robinson of the East Fifty-fifth Street Station was badly beaten up last night by a dozen members of a gang known as the "Bridge Twisters" when he attempted to arrest Leo Denz, one of their number, at the Manhattan approach of the Queensboro Bridge. Robinson was knocked down, his hat kicked from his head, and his uniform torn in the fight. He got Denz, however, after firing three shots at him, and landed him safely in the station house.

Then, the police say, Denz made the threat that some of the gang would "get" the policeman by dropping a chimney on his head the next time he went out on his beat.

Robinson was standing at Second Avenue near Fifty-ninth Street when a man ran up to him and said that a woman companion had been insulted by one of the gang. The policeman grabbed Denz, and the latter whistled shrilly. It was the signal for the gang to come to his aid.

In the melée Denz escaped, but the policeman by using his club broke away from the gangsters and gave pursuit. He fired in the air twice as they ran along Eighty-fifth Street, and when Denz did not check his speed sent a bullet singing past the gangster's head. That ended the flight, and with the aid of Patrolman Devery, who was attracted by the shooting, Robinson got away with his prisoner. Denz gave his age as 18 and his address at 302 East Seventieth Street.

MONKEY CHASE AT CONEY.

Throngs Entertained by 19 Which Escape from an Animal Show.

Some 125,000 persons visited Coney Island yesterday, which is preparing for its formal opening on May 15. The throngs enjoyed a warm, bright day till a fog began to roll in late in the afternoon. Many thought the season sufficiently advanced for swimming, and the small but hardy band which goes in the surf at Brighton Beach all the year was augmented yesterday by some 500 persons.

The crowd had a chance yesterday to chase runaway monkeys. Samuel W. Gumpertz, who runs a sideshow to the Dreamland circus, had a collection of 125 monkeys in one cage, but somebody carelessly left a door open, and nineteen animals got away. Baron Peucci, a midget on exhibition in the same tent, saw them escaping and shouted to the attendants.

The nineteen runaways found themselves in the midst of a great throng in Surf Avenue as soon as they were clear of their cage. In a few minutes they were on the tops of buildings, and four swung by their tails from the scenic railways. Only nine were caught by night.

At 8 o'clock an alarm of fire brought the engines to the "Pavilion of Fun" at Steeplechase Park, where a small blaze had started in the ceiling from defective wiring. It was put out by the attendants before the fire apparatus arrived.

DEBT TO CONSTANTINE.

Service at Cathedral to Celebrate Victory and Edict.

The victory of the Emperor Constantine in 312 A. D. and the adoption of Christianity as the religion of the Roman Empire were celebrated yesterday at St. Patrick's Cathedral with a solemn votive mass. Cardinal Farley was present, and Father William B. Martin preached on "The Cross and the State." A collection was taken for the building of a church near the scene of the battle, just outside Rome.

The speaker drew a contrast between the Paganism of the day of Constantine and the early Christian movement.

"There was great antagonism between the two," he said. "It is little wonder, then, that for three centuries the Christians were driven into the bowels of the earth—into the catacombs. They were persecuted because they were undermining the Pagan idolatry and lust. The Pagan religion was an exclusive religion. It consisted mainly in ancestor and tribal worship. This religion was inherited by Rome, and its foundation was the State. Because of this, and because they believed that anything which attacked the State would undermine their religion, they made war on the Christians."

Father Martin then read several clauses of Constantine's edict to show that it declared for freedom of worship.

"The truth of Constantine's edict," he said, "must remain a Magna Charta to religious people throughout the world. No man or power can restrain, repress, or curtain the individual human liberty."

TELLS OF ANGEL PLAYMATE.

Little Girl Says "Margie" Goes to Kindergarten with Her.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, May 4.—Corinne Alberta Mayfield, 5 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Mayfield of 1,065 Josephine Street, fancies she has a spirit playmate with whom she plays daily and who, she says, lives "above the clouds." "Margie," the phantom friend, plays with her for hours. They dress their dolls, jump the rope, cut out pictures, and go to kindergarten together. Corinne is very fond of drawing, and says she is going to be an artist. Some of her drawings are remarkable for originality and clearness.

The little girl's fancy cannot be explained by her parents. Students of psychology are equally puzzled. Letters have been pouring into the Mayfield home from all parts of the country. A woman traveled from Los Angeles to see Corinne. A letter from a woman in Rochester, N. Y., who says she is not a spiritualist, expresses the belief that "Margie" is the form of her own departed daughter of the same name. She has forwarded a picture of her Margie for identification by Corinne Alberta.

"When Margie first was taken ill," says the Rochester woman's letter, "she used to say a little girl was in the room with her, dressed in white, with white shoes and stockings. It happened to be a Sunday when she began saying she wanted white shoes and stockings 'like that other little girl.' She called for them all day and we could not get them, (it being Sunday,' and when Monday came and we could get them for her, she was dead.

"Dear little Margie! When we laid her away, she had on her last pair of white shoes and stockings."

LONDON MOB RIOTS FOR FREE SPEECH

stable, or perhaps two, would endeavor to seize some hooligans. Strenuous resistance would be made by the offender, and others in the crowd would rush the policemen from behind, battering them with their fists. Assailed in this way the unhappy constables would be pursued half way around the square, the centre of a swearing, fighting mob of ruffians, some of whom had come armed with cudgels.

Through it all the police acted with admirable restraint. They often had to return blow for blow, but in no instance did the provocation come from them, nor were they in any way responsible for the cuts and scratches received by members of the crowd or other minor injuries suffered by people who fell or were trampled upon in the scrimmages.

As to the meeting, although its conclusion was a sort of tragi-comedy, it achieved its ostensible object in passing sundry resolutions of protest against the prohibition of Hyde Park meetings.

Efforts made by several members of the Men's League in Favor of Woman Suffrage to hold meetings in Hyde Park in the afternoon were only partly succesful. A crowd estimated at 7,000, many in sympathy with the speakers and others hostile, gathered in the park, and for nearly an hour the meeting proceeded in an orderly manner. Then a part of the crowd made a rush for the speakers and the meeting was broken up. The police were unable to cope with the disturbance, but continued to eject men and women.

As the result of the disorder at the two meetings the police arrested seven men and two women, one of the latter being Miss Lansbury, daughter of George Lansbury, formerly a Labor Member of Parliament, a timber merchant with a great following in the East End.

AMERICA IGNORES HER RADIUM MINES

Has Two-thirds of the World's Supply, but Never Produced Any of It.

RICH ORES SENT TO EUROPE

Federal Bureau Discovers Fact When Old World Laboratories Buy Colorado Carnotite.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Although the United States has the greatest known supply of radium-bearing ores in the world, none of this precious material has been produced in this country. More than two-thirds of the radium supply of the world is being made in Europe from American ores shipped abroad. And radium is worth $2,250,000 an ounce.

These statements are vouched for by the United States Bureau of Mines, which has been investigating the subject. What amounted to a protest against this neglect of opportunity was made to-day by Charles L. Parsons, chief of the division of mineral technology of the bureau, who announced that it was the purpose of the Bureau of Mines to encourage the development of a radium industry in the United States.

Mr. Parsons said: "The United States to-day is in the humiliating position of being forced to purchase at extravagant prices from abroad such radium as its hospitals can afford for experimental purposes, while we have been supplying the ores from which it is made.

"Several months ago rumors reached the bureau that in Colorado there had been an increased demand for carnotite, the radium-carrying ore, and that this ore was being shipped abroad in considerable quantity. It was also reported that the Europeans were insisting upon only the highest grades of these ores and that a great amount of lower grade ores was being wasted. R. B. Moore and K. L. Kithil, in charge of the Denver, Col., laboratory of the bureau, were requested to investigate these rumors, and they reached the surprising conclusion that while all the radium placed upon the market in the last few years had been produced in Europe, a large portion of this had come from American ores.

"Even before carnotite was exported, pitchblende and radium-making ore of the highest grade were being sent out of the country at the time when the world's radium output was supposed to be coming wholly from Austrian ores.

"While carnotite is found in small quantities in a number of States, the more important deposits are scattered over a considerable area in Colorado and Utah, embracing Meeker and Skull Creek in Colorado, Green River, Richardson, Table Mountain, Pahrean and other places in Utah. The largest proportion of this ore, however, has been produced in or around Paradox Valley in southwest Colorado.

"In the mining of these carnotite ores it is probable that five tons of material capable of concentration are thrown upon the dump for every ton that finds its way to market.

"Pitchblende, the richest of all radium-bearing minerals, has been found in small quantities in Connecticut and in the feldspar quarries of North Carolina. Practically the total American output has come from the mines in Quartz Hill, Gilpin County, Colorado."

House, had a five-year lease clause. For the first time, California is standing firm for what is our r[illegible] and we mean to have it."

TOKIO, CALM, SEEKS REASONS.

Would Know Cause of California Feeling and Eradicate It.

TOKIO, May 4.—The Japanese press to-day, while conceding the apparent inevitability of the passage of the Alien Land bill in California, express general appreciation of the efforts of President Wilson in behalf of a measure that would prove unobjectionable to the Japanese.

Leaders of public opinion in Japan are advising that an attitude of calmness be maintained in the present situation. Baron Shibusawa and Chairman Nakano of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce publicly assert their confidence that the American Government and people are alike opposed to discriminatory legislation. They say that every effort must now be made to discover and eradicate the cause of antagonism to the Japanese in California in order that amicable relations may be restored.

While the Japanese newspapers voice these same sentiments, they blame the Government for what they term a "failure of diplomacy."

Special dispatches from Washington, telling of reported plans for the mobilization of the Japanese Navy, are read here with ridicule by those best informed on naval plans.

Contracts have been placed for the construction in Japanese yards of three dreadnoughts. They will be sister ships to the Fuso, the displacement of which is 30,000 tons.

JAPANESE AIRMAN KILLED.

Takeishi, Trained in the United States, Crushed Under His Biplane.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Tonko Takeishi, a Japanese aviator who was trained in the United States, was instantly killed to-day while making a landing from a flight in Japan, according to a cablegram received by The Japanese-American, a local Japanese daily. Takeishi endeavored to land at the Government reservation of Turkakusa, and his biplane struck the ground with such force that it was smashed to pieces and the aviator crushed beneath it.

Takeishi was well known in Pacific Coast cities, where he learned to operate a biplane. He was making the trip to-day for the Osaka Asahi, a newspaper, and the paper, the cablegram says, granted $5,000 for the support of his family when the news of his death was received.

HAMMERSTEIN RAILS AT CITY CLUB OPERA

Expects the Stock to Pay an Annual Deficit of at Least 500 Per Cent.

SARCASM FOR THE BUDGET

Suggests Director at $6 a Week and Gives Facetious Advice on Singers and Properties.

Inspired by the publication in yesterday's papers of further plans of the City Club for presenting opera at popular prices, Oscar Hammerstein sat down before his typewriter during the day and last night gave out a statement in which he treated the budget of expenses of the City Club's opera without sparing his powers of sarcasm. He hinted that the whole plan, anyway, was only a fabric "woven to be used as a shroud to Hammerstein's unselfish efforts in creating a home of grand opera in English without the aid of anybody." Part of his statement follows:

"Some weeks ago I announced that I would build an opera house in this city to be devoted to the presentation of grand opera in our language at prices no higher than $3. I am building the opera house now. The day after my announcement the City Club told the press and public that New York had been shamefully if not criminally neglected by the absence of opera at $2, and that inasmuch as they or it had been instrumental in the betterment of pavements and sewers, they intended to become instrumental in something that was largely instrumental—grand opera; with a merciless slaughter in prices for all opera goods, foreign or domestic. All the public is asked to do is to take shares in a company for no more than $350,000, so as to insure the financial deficit that may arise in the peaceful pursuance of this charitable undertaking, the prices of grand opera to be less than the cost of a plate of ham and eggs.

"Much there is to recommend the scheme. The real reason of the crowded condition of the park benches is that the occupants can not afford to pay $6 for a seat in the Metropolitan Opera House. The City Club will give them one in the Century Theatre for 25 cents, including free admission to the Mills Hotel, after the grandest opera ever gotten up.

"After reading the long rainbow statement of the City Club promoters, published in to-day's papers, I seriously think of selling the ground upon which I intend to erect my new opera house and take the money and all I can borrow to invest in the City Club Opera shop. Very likely inside of a year the stock will pay a deficit of 500 per cent.

"The Board of Directors of the City Club calculates that the total cost of giving grand opera will be but $13,000 a week, inclusive of a rental of $2,000 for the Century Theatre. It is infamous for people to say that this theatre is called the Century because it is a century out of the way and a century behind the times in the way of interior arrangement. This leaves $11,000 for salaries for about 25 principal singers, 10 unprincipaled ones, 16 chorus girls above suspicion, 20 chorus men under suspicion, 8 ballet girls, all new, and a première danseuse for some dancing. The theatre, fortunately being located opposite the Park, the Park can nightly give up enough material to carry murderous intsrument, protecting Kings and Queen, for almost nothing. Why, this thing is a cinch.

"Now who else is there to be employed for making this temple of opera a howling success? A director? Pshaw, such fellers can be found in every reputable garage in the neighborhood at $6 a week. It is enough, and plenty. What do you expect for $2? I admit that a stage manager is necessary now and then, but his salary should not be above that paid to a stage manager on the Fifth Avenue line. What do you expect for $2? One of the items that appears in this prospectus has evidently been carelessly considered. It refers to the employment of three conductors at $250 a week for the whole bunch. If I had anything to say, I'd just engage one who weighs as much as all three. People who pay $2 for opera want quantity. Costumes and scenery, whenever such is absolutely necessary, the Metropolitan Opera Company, in furtherance of this noble effort, will lend without charge. It may happen now and then that "La Bohême" is given with the scenery of "Aida," but look at the price one can get a seat for.

"The reputation of the Directors of the City Club is a guarantee that there will be no waste in any department. Great savings can be made. I used to pay $500 a week in the Manhattan Opera House for lighting up the house. It can be done in the Century Theatre for $20. Just play the operas mostly dark; people go to opera to hear, not to rubber. Besides this, small, portable electric lamps are so cheap that people paying $2 a seat can bring these things with them and stay or go out all lit up. My enthusiasm for this Century-old game is making a villain out of me. The Metropolitan Opera Company has a contract by which I cannot be directly or indirectly interested in opera in any decent language. I am going to break this contract or go broke. I am going to interest myself in this new laboratorium of opera at the risk of losing my reputation for an indefinite period."

Mr. Hammerstein goes on to give some facetious advice about where singers can be obtained cheaply, and ends with the declaration that he wants to know the name of the printer of the new opera's stock certificates, so that he can invest his savings in stock as it comes wet from the press.

WILD WEST GOES A-RIDING

Through Fifth Avenue to Grant's Tomb—Incidents of the Trip.

Chief Iron Cloud, who before he joined the Wild West Show had learned to love the sighing of the wind in the pine trees of the Wounded Knee country in South Dakota, and Chief Bushy-top-Pine, who once built a tepee in the Little Big Horn, felt the call of the open yesterday, and sallied forth from Madison Square Garden on horseback.

At least that was the way Major Burke, who was a press agent long before all the other press agents were born, expressed it. But Iron Cloud and Bushy-top-Pine confided to reporters who rode along with them that it was the call of the press agent that they really heard, and they were quite sorry about it, deep down in their Indian hearts, because what they really had wanted to do on that glorious sunshiny afternoon was to stay in their rooms above the Garden's arena and sleep.

But whichever version of the affair was right, Iron Cloud and Bushy-top-Pine had a long trip. Behind them fifty other Indians from the show in full regalia and some cowboys and some cow girls rode to see the sights. Some reporters went along.

The ride was from Madison Square Garden up Fifth Avenue to Central Park, through the Park and over to Grant's Tomb, and the return trip was down Riverside Drive to Seventy-second Street and thence to the Garden by way of Broadway.

Miss Goldie Griffiths, who said she lived on a ranch in California before she became a cowgirl in the Wild West Show, was much distressed by the slashed gowns seen in upper Broadway.

"Such sights as those women make of themselves!" she said. "Id be ashamed to live in such a town.

On a bridle path in Central Park Montana Earl, a cowboy, let out one large war-whoop in honor of the sunshine and dug his spurs into his horse "for a real canter," as he put it. But Chief Cowboy Sassen wasn't pleased, or pretended he wasn't, so he sent Carlo Miles, another cowboy, ahead to bring the runaway rider back to his place. Miles threw his lasso, going at top speed, neatly roped Earl, then twisted some supplementary loops around him and brought him back all trussed up with his arms tightly bound beside him. The anger with which the chief cowboy spoke to Earl upon his return to the line seemed to be genuine.

"We can't always be mere showmen," Earl whimpered. "The green country was too much for me. Can't a showman have a little heart in him just because he works for a show on nights and week-day matinées?" The reporter to whom this explanation was addressed had expressed suspicion that the press agent had encouraged the outbreak of enthusiasm.

At Grant's Tomb everybody lined up and was photographed. On the return trip through Broadway Chief Red Feather saw an automobile horn provokingly handy on an automobile standing by the curb at Seventy-first Street. He leaned over and pressed the bulb. He liked the resultant growl, and so he turned his horse about and did it again. After that all of the Indian Chiefs engaged in a game of pressing automobile horns as they passed along.

As the chiefs had not obtained a permit to parade, they were stopped frequently by policemen, some of whom threatened to arrest the whole crowd, but relented on observing how big a problem they would have on their hands.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. LOOMIS.

She Says Her Husband's Mother Urged Him to Leave Her.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., May 4.—Elizabeth D. Loomis obtained a divorce yesterday from Bruce E. Loomis of New York City. The Loomis home is in Westfield, N. J., where much of the couple's trouble occurred. The two were married in Jersey City on April 7, 1899, and have three young children. The youngest, a boy, is here with his mother. The two others are with their father.

Mrs. Loomis testified that her husband's mother did not visit her home for months after her wedding. The first trouble occurred in 1902, when the husband's mother told him, according to Mrs. Loomis, that if he would leave his wife he could have a large inheritance from her, otherwise he would receive nothing. Loomis told his wife he thought more of his mother than of any one else. He lost all control of his temper, Mrs. Loomis testified. He struck and bruised her and threatened her life, she said, and he always carried a revolver. In a Subway station in New York on Sept. 12 last, she stated, he attempted to take the baby from her, insisting that he have all three of the children. Her stout resistance and a man's offer of assistance prevented the husband succeeding in the attempt. She feared his threats and left him.

The court gave the custody of the two younger children to the wife, the husband agreeing to give $40 a week for their support. He appeared through an attorney.

Autos Drive Out Boats.

The L. Boyer Steamship Company, which for years has been operating boats between Manhattan and Flushing, announced yesterday that it would discontinue business as a result of decrease in traffic, which is attributed to the increase in the amount of freight handled by automobiles.

SAY EX-INSPECTORS ERRED IN DEFENSE

Accused Officials Thought to Have Hurt Their Case by Not Testifying.

WHITMAN SPENDS BUSY DAY

Wellman to Begin Summing Up for Defendants To-day—Wife Visits Murtha in Tombs.

When the lawyers for ex-Police Inspectors Dennis Sweeney, John J. Murtha, James F. Thompson, and James E. Hussey, whose trial for conspiracy to defeat justice began last Tuesday before Supreme Court Justice Seabury, attempt to persuade the jury to-day and to-morrow that their clients should be acquitted, they will be trying to break down a case that District Attorney Whitman believes to be stronger than those with which he convicted Hartigan and Robinson.

Mr. Whitman does not expect that his closing argument to-morrow will be longer than an hour and a half. He will only reply to points made by the defense which seem to bear heavily on the issue of the guilt or innocence of the defendants. The chief difficulty in the case, as the prosecution sees it, lies in the intricate character of much of the evidence. The conspiracy charged had for its ultimate object the silencing of Policeman Fox. The ex-Inspectors had nothing to fear from Sipp directly, but they knew that if Sipp's testimony convicted Fox, Fox could implicate them. The District Attorney has covered a wide range in introducing evidence. The case presents many opportunities for raising false issues, and after the four addresses by counsel for the defense Mr. Whitman thinks that the wisest course for him will be to present his case clearly and then leave it, without risking confusion by replying point by point to the defense.

Mr. Whitman and Assistant District Attorney Clark spent most of yesterday at work at the Bar Association's rooms. Others who were also poring over law books were Alfred J. Talley, counsel for Sweeney; Abraham S. Gilbert, counsel for Murtha and Francis L. Wellman, counsel for Hussey.

Lawyers who discussed the case yesterday were generally of the opinion that the four defendants would have served their own end better, had they taken the witness stand, even if they made poor figures while testifying. One lawyer who has followed the case closely, said:

"When a defendant fails to take the stand, a juror is easily persuaded against him. It takes much less evidence to convict a man who does not take the stand. No juror will magnify a fine point into a reasonable doubt in favor of a man who fails to testify."

On the other hand, District Attorney Whitman was somewhat disappointed because the ex-Inspectors did not go on the stand. He was particularly anxious to question Sweeney in regard to the three secret visits that the ex-Inspector made to Policeman Hartigan while he was in the Tombs. The prosecution was not able to bring out the fact that the price of police protection was considerably increased in Harlem when Sweeney was the Inspector there. The defense showed that in some respects Sweeney kept his district cleaner than his predecessors did. The prosecution's answer to this was that Sweeney closed some resorts and raised the price for others, but this could not be placed before the jury since Sweeney did not testify.

Mr. Wellman will begin the summing up when court reconvenes this afternoon at 2 o'clock Mr. Gilbert will follow in behalf of Murtha. To-morrow morning George Gordon Battle will argue for Sweeney, while John B. Stanchfield will follow, reviewing the entire case, while pleading especially for Thompson. The argument by the District Attorney and the charge by the Justice will follow. The case will be in the hands of the jury by early evening.

Mrs. Murtha visited her husband in the Tombs yesterday afternoon and spent an hour with him. Father Powell, Sweeney's confessor, spent some time with Sweeney. All four ex-Inspectors attended services in the chapel, and passed the rest of the day chatting among themselves and reading the papers, which were brought to them at their request.

TELEPHONE INSANITY.

German Alienist Says "Central" Drives Men to Madness.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, May 4.—Remarkable evidence as to the effect of the telephone upon the minds of people using it was given in a trial yesterday. Dr. Strauch, a commissioner in lunacy, said that even phlegmatic men might have their mental balance upset by exasperation at getting no reply from "Central." He mentioned the case of one of his own patients, a well-known doctor, who became completely insane through telephone exasperation.

Dr. Paechter, another witness, asserted that he could bring evidence to show that Government telephone girls had been permitted by the Inspectors to utilize one of the big exchanges for the reception of their fiancés. One amusement of the girls of this exchange was to look up all subscribers having the same name, to connect all of them, ring them all up, and laugh loudly at the result.

DEFENDS CAPT. LORD.

Magazine Says He Was Made a Scapegoat in Titanic Inquiry.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 4.—The May number of The Nautical Magazine contains a defense of Capt. Lord, the skipper of the Leyland liner Californian, who was reprimanded by the British Court inquiry into the Titanic disaster for neglecting to answer that vessel's wireless calls.

The periodical maintains that several unidentified vessels were much nearer the Titanic than the Californian was, yet no steps were taken to trace them. Capt. Lord, it says, was made to suffer by innuendo, and did not have the opportunity of defending himself.

"In consequence of the finding of the court, Capt. Lord was asked to resign, and has been without employment until recently.

"The Board of Trade declined to hold an inquiry into his conduct when asked by him to do so after the Titanic inquiry."

MELBA SINGS TO 12,000.

London Audience Finds Her Voice as Wonderful as Ever.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 4.—An audience of 12,000 persons packed Albert Hall at Kubelik's concert this afternoon and welcomed Mme. Melba on her first appearance since her return to England. At least as many more persons were unable to obtain admittance to the hall.

The audience was enthusiastic and found the purity and flexibility of Mme. Melba's voice as wonderful as ever. She responded to several encores, while Kubelik's playing was less appreciated.

MASONS MEET TO-MORROW.

Annual Communication of Grand Lodge of State of New York.

Freemasons from all sections of the State are gathering in New York City for the 132d annual convention of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, which will be opened at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the Masonic Hall, West Twenty-fourth Street, near Sixth Avenue. The Grand Lodge is composed of the masters of the lodges in the State, which number more than 800, representing a membership of more than 175,000 Masons and the elected grand officers. The Grand Lodge will be called to order by the Grand Marshal at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, after which Charles Smith of Oneonta, the Grand Master, will open the session with the ancient ceremonies. The Grand Master will be assisted by George Freifeld of Brooklyn, the Deputy Grand Master, the Grand Wardens, and Col. E. M. L. Ehlers, the Grand Secretary.

Immediately after the opening ceremonies the Grand Master will read his annual address, giving a history of the craft in this jurisdiction since the last annual communication, and making recommendations for legislation during the present meeting. The rest of the afternoon session will be taken up by the presentation of the formal reports of the Grand Secretary, Grand Treasurer, the Trustees of the Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund, the Superintendent of the Masonic Home and School at Utica, and the standing committees. An adjournment will then be taken until Wednesday morning, when the work of the communication will be resumed at 10 o'clock. The election of officers for the ensuing year will be held either on Wednesday in the afternoon or on Thursday in the morning, and the proceedings will be brought to a close on Thursday with the installation of the newly elected officers.

Elaborate plans have been made for what promises to be the largest church service ever held by Masons in this country in connection with the annual session of the Grand Lodge. The service will be held in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Amsterdam Avenue and 112th Street, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, following the first day's business session. It is under the auspices of the Grand Lodge and will be attended by more than two thousand Masons. The sermon will be preached by Bishop Burch of this city, who is Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge.

Mrs. Chamberlain Doing Well.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

CANNES, May 4.—A bulletin issued this evening says that the condition of Mrs. Chamberlain (formerly Miss Endicott) is quite satisfactory. She seemed well on Thursday and went on an automobile drive with Mr. Chamberlain. On Friday she was seized with appendicitis and general septic poisoning developed.

To be sure of anything—do it yourself

¶ You may gather how we feel on this subject from the fact that we even make our own clothes.

¶ And when it comes to fabrics that have been cold-water shrunk before delivery—we shrink them again.

¶ Though they be marked cold-water shrunk in big type we nevertheless apply the water cure with a relentless hand.

¶ Not that we question the thoroughness of the original shrinking—but it is such a satisfaction to do a thing oneself.

¶ Particularly when a cold-water shrunk fabric invariably shrinks a little more per yard for us than it did for the maker!

¶ Is this an important consideration? It certainly is. It is just this important, that if we did not reshrink a fabric before you wear it, the first rain shower would shrink it on your back and we should be one customer farther away from the hundred thousand we are after.

¶ And obviously this reshrinking is one of the main factors accountable for that permanent retention of lines which is one of the superior features of Saks' clothes.

Threatened Tariff Reductions and increased competition by American manufacturers more economically and favorably located are forcing the manufacturers of Manhattan to reduce overhead charges to an absolute minimum, and to adopt every legitimate means to increase the percentage of production, or to see their profits dwindle to the vanishing point.

A considerable number of manufacturers have already moved into more modern quarters, and many more are trying to decide just where to go.

The Factory Terminal Building in Hoboken is filling up because of the tremendous advantages it possesses over terminals in Brooklyn and Long Island City, in the way of

REPUBLIC IN SYRIA URGED UPON RABBIS

But Prof. Schmidt Tells Them Jews Cannot Expect to Control the State.

EASTERN COUNCIL MEETS

Rabbi Harris in His Formal Message Says Jews, Reform and Orthodox, Must Work Together.

The second semi-annual assembly of the Eastern Council of Reform Rabbis was opened last night at a meeting in Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street. Rabbi Maurice H. Harris of Temple Israel, President of the council, read his message, and there were addresses by Prof. Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell University on "The Interest of Modern Judaism in an Autonomous Syria," and by Rabbi William Rosenau of Baltimore, whose subject was "The Present Significance of Ceremonies." The assembly will continue to-day and Tuesday.

A plea by Prof. Schmidt to the reform element among the Jews to do their part in bringing about the establishment of a republic in Syria was received with applause. He said he did not believe that the dream of a Jewish State in Syria would ever be realized. The Christian and Musselman held the land in too deep affection, he said.

"I look to the reformed Jews," he said, "to take an interest in the development of the resources, in the establishment of secular education as a basis of higher education and in the forming of a democracy. If it is possible to establish a Republic in a country like China then for Heaven's sake why not in Syria? This is a work which I think the Reformed Jews should take up."

In his message Rabbi Harris spoke of the growth of the council and emphasized the fact that it was the duty of all Jews, whether reform or Orthodox to work for the common good.

"One of the aims of the Council,' he said, "has been to clarify our status as liberal Jews. Most emphatically reform's purpose is not to oppose conservative Judaism, but to supplement it. No better illustration can be offered than our efforts to maintain the dietary laws—to which we ourselves do not subscribe—in our public institutions.

"Finally, we reformers reiterate that the Jew must not be our sole concern, and that indifference to the religious welfare of the world at large would be a mischievous heresy. Upon Jew and Gentile alike devolves the responsibility of promoting the protection of the laborer against occupational disease, insufficient wage, long hours, insanitary homes and food adulteration; ours equally the duty to safeguard women and children, to reinforce the sanctity of marriage, to isolate the degenerate, and to promote peace throughout the world.

"We realize that the unattached Jew is our greatest problem. Dwelling in the midst of a majority of a different faith, to be loyal to the Synagogue is to swim against the tide; to drift from it is to move on the line of least resistance. Effort has recently been made to obtain legislation to prohibit caricaturing the Jew on the stage. This is well, and the undertaking should be commended. But let us see to it that we do not ourselves unconsciously caricature the Jew in presenting to the world a picture of half-hearted observance and playing with religion and temporizing with great issues.

"Never since Jewish emancipation began with Moses Mendelssohn at the end of the eighteenth century has such interest been manifested in the Jew as to-day. Not merely fugitive periodical articles, but bulky books are written about him, some styling his influence as benign, others stigmatizing it as menacing. Political parties in great States are organized simply on the basis of their attitude toward the Jew. Yet comparatively few have the sympathetic imagination to understand him. He is the enigma of history. But it is our concern at least that the Jew should understand himself, and because of his varied gifts should realize to the full his tremendous responsibility toward the world."

In pointing out the growth of the Council, Rabbi Harris said that its membership was now drawn from twenty Eastern cities, and that it had been called upon in important public matters, one the effort to obtain the passage of a bill in New York State favoring a Federal marriage and divorce law. The most important achievement of the coming season, he said, would be the appointment of the chaplain at large to look after Jewish interests in New York. He announced that the Lewisohn lecturer for 1913-14 would be the Rev. Harry S. Lewis, formerly of Toynbee Hall, London.

The discussion following the address of Prof. Schmidt was led by Leo Mannheimer of Paterson, N. J. Rabbi Joseph Silverman, of Temple Emanu-El and a Vice President of the Council, attended. To-day there will be meetings with addresses at 10 o'clock and 2:30 o'clock, and a banquet at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Savoy in honor of the Rev. Dr. K. Kohler, President of the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati, Ohio.

BETH ISRAEL SCHOOL PLANS

Congregation Needs Funds for a Better Home for Its Pupils.

The Congregation Beth Israel is planning to erect a new school house on the west side between Thirty-sixth and Forty-second Streets. A meeting was held yesterday afternoon at 232 West Thirty-fifth Street for the purpose of illustrating the results which have been accomplished by the school conducted in temporary quarters at 307 West Thirty-sixth Street for the last year, and to discuss the raising of funds. It was announced that $8,000 had been pledged. It is hoped to bring that sum up to $20,000, so that the work on the new building may be started soon.

More than 250 children have attended the school. Examinations were held yesterday as a practical demonstration of the benefits derived. There were addresses also by Rabbi S. H. Glick, Philip Lieberman, President of the congregation, and Joseph Barondess, a member of the Board of Education. About 800 members of the congregation and their friends were present.

Mr. Lieberman said that with so many of the congregation living on the west side it should not be difficult to raise the money in such a cause. A modern building was needed where the proper equipment could be installed.

Rabbi Glick said the statistics showed that the children who attended the Jewish schools were in every instance trained to be useful and honest citizens. Every father and mother, he said, ought to be interested in the movement to open the new school and see that the best was provided for their children.

140,000 VIOLETS TO SINGER.

Farm Colony to Present Monster Bouquet to Mme. Dimitrieff.

On Saturday afternoon the 1,400 old men and women inmates at the New York City Farm Colony on Saten Island will hear Mme. Dimitrieff, the Russian singer, sing arias from "La Tosca," "I Pagliacci," "Rigoletto," "Carmen," "La Traviata," "Aïda," and other operas on the Farm Colony grounds. Mme. Dimitrieff, who was soloist with the Russian Symphony Orchestra on its recent transcontinental tour, will be assisted by the New York Police Band, which has been rehearsing for weeks in order to be able to accompany her. Mme. Dimitrieff, who is the daughter of the famous Russian soldier, Gen. Pheophan Dimitrieff, volunteered her services when Albert C. Fach, District Attorney of Richmond County, who has charge of the concert, told her of the efforts of himself and other Staten Islanders to add a little happiness to the lot of the city's aged wards at the Farm Colony.

The inmates appointed one of their number, Ivan Nikolski, to have a talk with Henry D. Flick, the Superintendent of the Farm Colony. And this is what the old Russian said:

"There are at least 1,400 of us here, Sir, men and women alike, willing and able to show our appreciation of Mme. Dimitrieff. And we were thinking of giving her a bouquet of violets. Violets, Sir, as you know, are as plentiful as blades of grass here on the grounds, and if each of us picked 100 violets, we'd have a bouquet of which she would be proud."

So when Mme. Dimitrieff sings on Saturday she will receive what is probably the largest bouquet of flowers ever given any one—a bunch of 140,000 violets.

Mr. Flick has several of the inmates who are expert carpenters building a rustic stage for the Police Band, and he plans to erect on it a bower of cherry blossoms for Mme. Dimitrieff.

PEACE CENTENARY DELEGATES ARRIVE

Great Britain Conferrees Come on Caronia to Make Plans for Jubilee.

WILL MEET AT HOTEL PLAZA

To Inaugurate Conference at City Hall This Morning — Greeted by American Committee.

The conferrees for Great Britain, who have come over to formulate a plan for the celebration of the centenary of the signing of the Treaty of Ghent, and of a hundred years of peace among English-speaking nations, arrived yesterday on the Cunard liner Caronia, and were met at Quarantine by an American Reception Committee, who went down the bay on the Dock Department tug Brooklyn.

Lord Weardale is the Chairman of the British delegation, and those who accompanied him were: Earl Stanhope, Sir Arthur Lawley, Sir Herbert Eustace Maxwell, the Hon. Neil Primrose, M. P.; the Hon. Charles Mills, M. P.; Arthur Shirley Benn, M. P.; James Allen Baker, M. P.; Henry Vivian, M. P.; P. S. Perris, M. A., and the Rt. Hon. Sir George Houston Reid, High Comissioner for Australia, who will represent the Commonwealth at the conference. Moreton Frewin, M. P., another British delegate, did not arrive on the Caronia, but is expected in a day or two.

On the Reception Committee which met the Caronia were George T. Wilson, Vice President of the Pilgrims Society of New York, and President of the Union League Club; Henry Clews, William Allen Butler, Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University; John A. Stewart, Chairman of the Conference Commitee; William C. Demorest, William H. Shaw, W. D. Forbes, William Saloman, William C. Osborn, and others.

After the British delegation had been photographed on the deck of the Caronia, together and again with their American colleagues, their baggage was passed through the customs and they went in automobiles to the Hotel Plaza, which will be the headquarters of the conference.

Lord Weardale, who is a radical peer about 55 years old, said that he had made many acquaintainces with Americans on the voyage, and had been pleased at their cordial sympathetic interest in the preparations on both sides of the Atlantic for the peace celebration.

"On every hand," Lord Weardale said, "feeling has been expressed that the celebration will do good and serve to remind the world at large, as well as our own nations, of the truth of Milton's dictum, 'Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war.'"

He added that during the voyage he was interested in noting the vigor and physique of the 1,805 immigrants on board the ship who were going to settle in the United States and be trained to grow up good citizens of that Republic.

When asked about the Panama Canal question, Lord Weardale replied that the National honor of the American people was so well known in England that thare was no doubt that the matter would be settled amicably and according to all traditions of honor and probity by the American Government.

With regard to the suffrage question, he said that the damage done to property had injured the cause in every part of Great Britain. The question of how to deal with the fanatical militant leaders was a difficult problem for the Government to solve. Lord Weardale added that with Lord Curzon he was the Chairman of the Anti-Suffrage League.

Neil Primrose, the younger son of Lord Rosebery, who is a member of Parliament and wealthy in his own right from the fortune left him by his aunt, Lady Rothschild, thought it was good of the Reception Committee to leave their beds at 5 o'clock in the morning to meet the British delegates. He has been in New York once before with Lord Rothschild's son, and said he liked America very much. "So far, we have had a splendid time on the voyage," said Mr. Primrose, "and my only regret is that I shall not be in London next week to vote against the suffrage question when it comes before the House of Commons."

Henry Clews invited the delegates to a luncheon at the Hotel Plaza to-morrow to meet ex-President Taft, Mayor Gaynor, Joseph H. Choate, Chauncey M. Depew, George F. Baker, Andrew Carnegie, Gov. Sulzer, Cornelius Vanderbilt, F. A. Vanderlip, Cardinal Farley, and Andrew D. White.

The visitors were left to themselves for the day to prepare for the coming week of festivities and conferences, which will begin this morning with a visit to City Hall to inaugurate the conference in the Governor's room, followed by a luncheon at 1 o'clock at the Waldorf-Astoria, given by the Pilgrims Society. At 3 o'clock the first session of the conference will be held at the Hotel Plaza.

Sir Edmund Walker, Charles A. Magrath, M. P., Travers Lewis, K. C., and Capt. Charles Frederick Hamilton, M. A., the conferrees from Canada, arrived by train yesterday and will attend the inauguration at the City Hall at 10 o'clock this morning with Eugene H. Outerbridge, the representative from the Crown Colony of Newfoundland.

CORNELL MEN AS COOKS.

Baseball Man and Glee Club Singer Take Housekeeping Course.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, May 4.—Nine Cornell men students are numbered among the most ardent members of Miss C. M. Browning's course in Domestic Science in the Home Economics course at Cornell University. They include C. M. Whitney, a member of the Glee Club, and S. H. Watson of the Cornell baseball team. These men attend the lectures of the course regularly, and on each Thursday they march to the laboratory, put on white aprons, roll up their sleeves and toil for an hour at mixing and kneading bread, studying recipes, baking, cooking, and cleaning up, and washing dishes.

Miss Browning says that the class is making excellent progress, and the men students are becoming proficient. This is the first year that this course has been opened to students of the male sex. In spite of the good natured taunts of their fellows, the nine manfully have stood by their guns. They are all registered in the School of Agriculture. Their idea is that a knowledge of cooking on camping trips and like expeditions will be useful. One or two are suspected of electing the course because it does not require a great deal of outside study and still gives a good university record.

The other men students of the class are: W. H. Hamilton, Somerville, N. J.; S. M. Thomson, Delhi, N. Y.; S. G. Updegraw, Newberry, Penn.; V. A. Acer, Medina, N. Y.; D. R. Meyer, New York; C. H. Ott, Waverly, and A. Millard, Ithaca.

CENTRAL PARK POLICE BUSY

They Hand Out Many Summonses for Violation of Park Rules.

The record crowd of the season, estimated by the police at 45,000, visited Central Park yesterday afternoon. Twenty persons were served by the police with summonses for violations of park ordinances. Most of the offenders were ball players, although some were persons who had violated ground rules.

They will have to appear in the Seventh District Court in West Fifty-fourth Street, near Eighth Avenue, to-day to explain why they violated the park rules.

YUAN WANTS TO RETIRE.

But While He Is China's President Let Conspirators Beware.

PEKING, May 4.—President Yuan Shih-Kai has issued a manifesto warning the people that although he has refrained up to the present from employing military force against plotters in the hope that conspiracies would cease, in the future he will not permit conspirators to stir up trouble.

He expresses the hope that after the next Presidential election he will be relieved from the cares of office.

MAN SHOT BY WIFE DIES.

Mrs. F. C. Moser Tells Police "Lying Women" Were Responsible.

Frederick C. Moser, who was shot in the head by his wife at 474½ Stirling Street, Newark, late Saturday night, died yesterday in the Newark City Hospital. Mrs. Moser was locked up at the Fourth Precinct Station after the shooting. A formal charge of murder will be made against her.

The husband and wife had been separated. Mrs. Moser went to call on her husband, and a few minutes after the two entered his room a shot was heard. The woman then hurriedly left the house.

Later she admitted she did the shooting, but said that it was done accidentally. She made many conflicting statements. Finally she said:

"Don't question me any more. Lying women's tongues have brought me to this trouble."

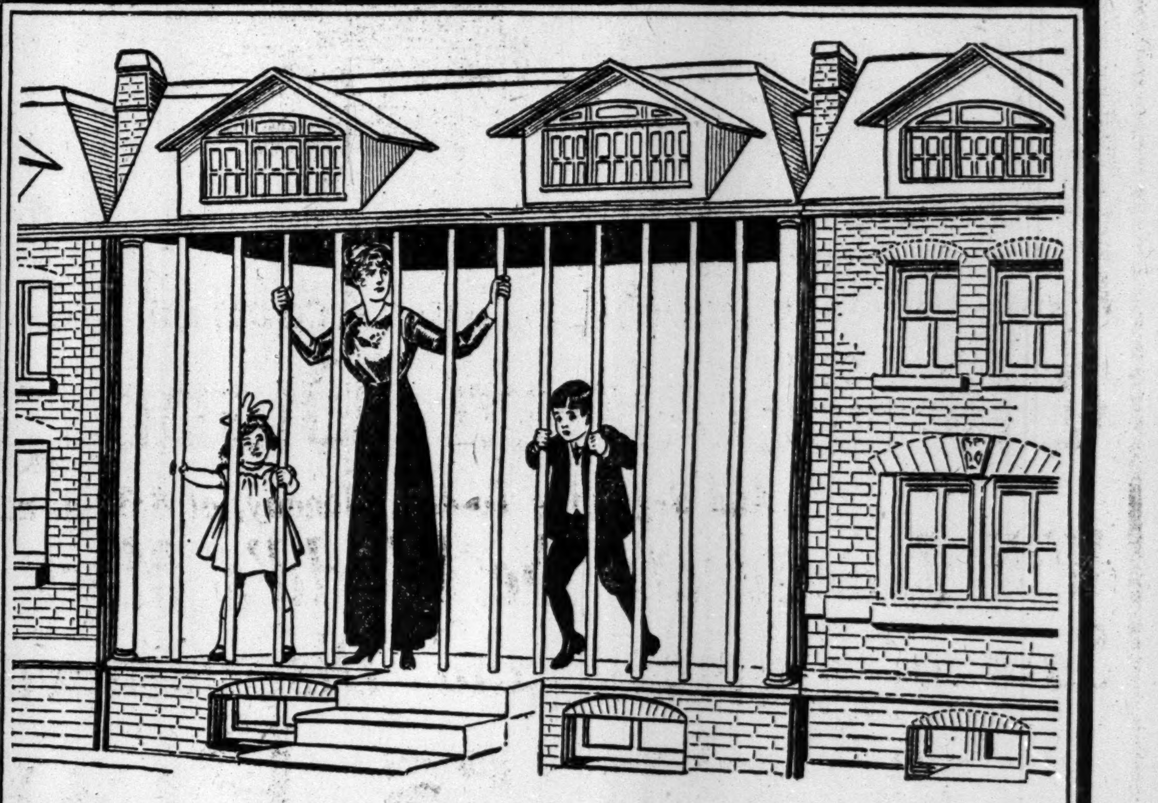
THE JUDGMENT HOUSE

"Had Gilbert Parker never written the admirable novels that have won him fame, his latest, 'The Judgment House,' must at once have placed him in the lead among the present writers of fiction."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"There is no doubt that Sir Gilbert's story will add to the already great reputation of Canada's most distinguished novelist."—Toronto Globe.

"I have been reading with entire pleasure and delight his new novel, 'The Judgment House.'"—Clement Shorter in The London Sphere.

A New Success By the Author of 'The Weavers"



Don't Cage the Wife and Children

THAT is what summer in the City means.

It is the right of your family to get out into the country—the lakes, the mountains—for at least a few weeks in the summer.

Mother will be more gracious the rest of the year—the children happier and keener at school, while you should know by this time that you can do more and better work in 48 weeks than in 52.

Our Travel Bureau knows the places in the Adirondacks, Catskills and Green Mountains, Thousand Islands, Niagara Falls, Saratoga Springs, Lake George and Lake Champlain, where the children may have the water or the woods—where the wife may find congenial company, music, dancing—where you may smoke your evening cigar without the head bookkeeper calling you up to tell you that last month was not as good as he thought it was going to be.

Let our Travel Bureau plan your trip

If you will tell our Travel Bureau in a general way the number in your party, about the amount of money you want to spend, what you most like to do, we will propose one or two trips for your consideration, with complete information, and send descriptive folders. Or, if you know just exactly where you want to go, let us know and the information will be sent you.

Figures That Tell Their Own Story

It has never been the policy of this Company to discuss publicly the amount of business done, but rather to develop the highest efficiency in the various departments called upon to render a service to the public.

Our first concern has always been how well we did that which we were called upon to do, and not how much.

We feel however, in placing before you the advantages of American Express Travelers Cheques, that the amount of business we do might be of interest to you, so give it, not only for last year, but every year, in order that you may see its growth.

The American Express Company originated the idea of carrying money in some form which could be conveniently converted without identification into the currency of any country in which you might be traveling. This was back in 1891, and was called a "Travelers Cheque"—the first ever issued.

The fact that this service has grown to its present proportions shows that it not only met an existing demand, but that American Express Travelers Cheques have become a necessity as well as a convenience, and what was an experiment has proved a success.

With exclusive offices in the principal cities of Europe, the American Express Company has become an international institution; it serves as the connecting link between home and abroad—with the Company's Travelers Cheques your credit is established wherever you go.

You never experience the inconvenience of getting money—you have it. Using American Express Travelers Cheques abroad is like spending a $10 bill at home. They are issued in convenient amounts ranging from $10 to $200.

Hotels, shops, steamship offices, railroads, etc., accept them without question or identification, in payment of accounts.

In arranging your funds for foreign travel, remember one thing—it is important to you that your Travelers Cheques are cashed abroad—not half the time or even most of the time, but any time.

ATTACKS RIDERS EXEMPTING LABOR

Merchants' Association Sees in Pending Measure an Attempt to Amend Sherman Law.

PROTEST SENT TO WILSON

Condemned Provisions Forbid Labor Prosecutions Out of Attorney General's Fund.

Asserting that the legislation proposed is "class legislation of the most vicious type," the Merchants' Association has issued a vigorous protest in behalf of its membership against the enactment by Congress of a provision of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill which would prohibit the Attorney General of the United States from using money appropriated for prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law in the prosecution of labor and agricultural organizations. It is contended by the Merchants' Association that these riders to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill are discriminatory and amend the Sherman law by indirection.

"These riders," the Bulletin of the Merchants' Association says in the issue to be made public to-day, "are inserted in the bill after an appropriation made for the use of the Attorney General in enforcing the law, and they prohibit him from using any portion of the money for prosecuting labor organizations or farmers' organizationse for violations of the law. They thus amend the Sherman law by indirection."

The Bulletin asserts that the opposition to the measure among the members of the association is most determined, especially because of "the method by which it is sought to give immunity to the organizations affected." It was in response to this feeling among the members that the Executive Committee of the association adopted resolutions to be transmitted to President Wilson and also to the Senate.

These resolutions, which have already been sent to the President, are as follows:

> Whereas, The spirit of our institutions and laws requires the impartial enforcement of law, without discrimination as between different factors of our citizenship; and
> Whereas, The Sherman anti-trust law is general in its terms and is applicable to all who may combine or conspire contrary to the terms thereof; and
> Whereas, The Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, now pending before Congress, contains provisions forbidding the Attorney General's Department from expending certain moneys thereby appropriated in prosecuting, under the Sherman anti-trust law, labor or agricultural organizations; now, therefore, be it
> Resolved, That the Merchants' Association of New York emphatically condemns the provision of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill prohibiting the Attorney General's Department from using any of the funds thus appropriated in prosecuting labor or agricultural organizations on the following grounds:
> First—Because it is class legislation of the most vicious type, creating discrimination and distinctions between different elements of the population;
> Second—Because the provision referred to constitutes an attempt, by indirect means, to amend the Sherman anti-trust law through the medium of a rider to a General Appropriation bill.
> Be it further resolved, That the Association use every effort in the endeavor to obtain the elimination of these provisions from the bill prior to its enactment.

In addition to the message to President Wilson, Secretary Mead of the association has also sent a telegram to Senator Martin of Virginia, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, stating the reasons why the association is so strongly opposed to the provisions of the bill affecting the use of the Attorney General's fund. Similar messages were sent to Senators Root and O'Gorman, the New York representatives in the upper house of Congress

Dinner to Wise on May 12.

More than 250 lawyers and merchants have accepted invitations to the subscription dinner to United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise, to be held on Monday, May 12, at the Waldorf-Astoria, in recognition of his services as a public officer and of the esteem in which he is held by the men with whom he has had legal and business connections during his four-year term as Federal District Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

EAST SIDE MAYORS PUT OUT TO SEA

All Join Mayor Newman of Avenue D in the Cruise of the Polar Bear.

FIRST FORMALLY NAMED

By the Dean of All the Mayors, with Appropriate Ceremonies and Oratory—Storm Threatened.

All the east side Mayors who amount to anything from a political point of view—and thanks to Tammany Hall there are very few who don't—received invitations a few days ago to journey out to the foot of Twenty-first Street, Sheepshead Bay, yesterday afternoon to attend the naming of Mayor Charley Newman's Polar Bear. Charley Newman is known to his brother executives as the Mayor of Avenue D. His Polar Bear wasn't known to any, except to Simon Steingut, the Mayor of Second Avenue.

"If I know him? Sure," said Mayor Steingut to his puzzled brother-Mayors. "I know him well, the Polar Bear. He comes from Poland. Charley often talked about him. But what he means about a christening, oser if I know."

But when the Mayoral convention foregathered at the foot of Twenty-first Street, Sheepshead Bay, yesterday afternoon they found that Mayor Steingut was mistaken as well as imaginative, for the Polar Bear was a fine new twenty-eight-foot motor boat which Mayor Newman had bought and which he was going to christen then and there. The boat lay at its stringpiece aflutter with flags as many-landed as the east side Mayors.

So they and others there assembled had the laugh on Simon Steingut, and he being the eldest of the east side executives, they chose him to perform the ceremony, dubbing him in mixed metaphor for the occasion "the Mayor and Mohel of Second Avenue." Then, while all the Mayors—Mayor Frank Dostal of Avenue B, Mayor Max Hohn of Grand Street, Mayor Carl Himmelman of Fourteenth Street, and Mayor Charley Newman himself, proud owner of the Polar Bear—stood admiringly around, Mayor Steingut thus spake his christening speech:

"I am glad to have the honor of performing this honorable ceremony in your honorable presence, and I thank you honestly one and all. It is the happiest moment of my life that I can be with you and so honored. Now all of you step closer—give me the bottle, Louie Zeltner,—but not too close, while I break this Flasch of wine over the good ship's bow (Mayor Steingut yielding to the association of ideas pronounced bow to rhyme with arrow.)

"Now, are you all ready. Get out of the way there, Yossel Madinski, do you want to get the wine in your face?"

Smash! Yossel Madinski dodged and the bottle of Szamorodni spread itself principally over the bow of the Polar Bear, with just a fragrant sprinkling of spray over the assembled mayorality of the east side. Then, nudged by the eager and anxious owner of the boat, Mayor Steingut remembered himself and said:

"I christen this boat the Polar Bear. May my friend the Mayor of Avenue D have good luck."

Thereafter Mayor Carl Himmelman of Fourteenth Street felt obliged to make a small speech, after which Mayor Newman, now Capt. Newman, invited all his brothers in office to board the boat with him and to put out into the bay for a trial spin. They piled in and put off, leaving only one, and that a broken bottle on shore behind them.

Towards evening, other cruisers on the bay heard from the innards of the Polar Bear a hilarious chorus of "So leben wir! So leben wir!" broken every now and then by an exclamation of nervous uneasiness from some of the more landlubbery of the east side mayors. who were in constant dread of a storm. But when the Mayors helped one another home towards eventide, the storm had not yet broken.

34-Year-Old Horses for Parade.

So many entries are being received for the annual work-horse parade, which is to be held on Memorial Day under the auspices of the New York Women's League for Animals, that it has been decided to accept no more after May 15. This closing date is fixed two weeks in advance of the actual parade in order to give the management time to make all necessary class arrangements. The old horse class, which is to be especially honored this year, is filling very rapidly. The oldest team entered so far is owned by E. M. Clancy, a produce merchant. Jerry and Joe are both 34 years old, and have been in service since Mr Clancy started in business twenty-nine years ago.

Bloomingdale Brothers Have Acquired Sole Ownership of

The Walters Piano Factory

And Beginning To-day, Monday, at 8:30 a. m.

Will Inaugurate the World's Most Stupendous Sale of Sample and Discontinued Styles of

Walters Pianos and Player Pianos

At Sweeping Price Reductions---And on Your Own Terms!!

Having purchased the entire capital stock and interests of the WALTERS PIANO MANUFACTURING COMPANY, BLOOMINGDALE BROTHERS occupy an unrivalled and unique position in the piano trade. As manufacturing retailers they now present to the New York Public the unusual opportunity to buy Pianos and Player Pianos minus the middleman's profit.

Think what a tremendous saving it means to you to purchase your Piano direct from the manufacturer.

Let Us Get Down to Sound Reasoning

Every dealer, of course, must pay a profit to the manufacturer from whom he buys his Pianos; therefore, if you purchase a Piano from a dealer you pay two profits—the manufacturer's and the dealer's. The question for you to decide is: "Shall I buy my Piano from a dealer and thereby make him a present of his profit—and get absolutely nothing in return for it?" or "Shall I save this amount and buy my Piano direct from Bloomingdale Brothers, who manufacture their own Pianos?" Our factory to home method will appeal to that large class of people who want pianos of quality at reasonable prices.

We Give You a Lifetime Guarantee which is unreserved and straightforward; it contains no ifs and ands. We now enjoy the distinction of being the builders of every Piano and Player Piano we sell, and, therefore, are in position to endorse, unqualifiedly the wearing qualities of our instruments. In the selection of workmen to build our Pianos, and materials to be used in their construction, we shall be guided solely by the one idea—to produce instruments of the highest quality that will give lifetime satisfaction. We say without any hesitation that we know of no other Piano to equal the WALTERS that can be purchased at within $100 of its price.

The rapidly increasing demand for WALTERS PIANOS AND PLAYER PIANOS necessitates extensive alterations and improvements in our newly acquired manufacturing plant. In order to make these changes we must quickly clean up the entire stock of instruments on hand irrespective of price. Therefore beginning to-day, the world's most stupendous sale of

THE GORHAM CO.

Silversmiths

By their silver ye shall know them.

It is the sure touchstone of good taste. Of old the family silver has been a source of pride. Possession of it is a certificate of cultivated ancestry.

It's no fault of yours if you have no such inheritance—many of us haven't. But it is your fault if, in these days of growing attention to such details, you fail to provide your table with a dinnerware service worthy of you.

"But," you say, "only a rich man can do that." No, a rich man can only buy more. The difference is in amount, not Quality.

Nothing so inexorably announces the family standard as the dinnerware you set before your friends.

Gorham's for eighty-two years has been making silverware for the present and for posterity. Its brilliant range of thirty different designs of complete dinner sets contains what you ought to have. It is a question of what design you prefer, and how many pieces of it you want.

Gorham's can provide you with $50 worth or less, or $50,000 worth or more.

Consistent adherence to a particular period is the keynote of enlightened silverware buying. We have period rooms, period furnishings, period silver. People who know would as soon think of mixing their metaphors as mixing their periods.

The thirty Gorham designs represent all the periods. You can take your pick of the cream of the centuries—rich and subtle Florentine; the regal and formal Louis XIV; the gay, capricious, unconventional Louis XV; the refined and magnificent Louis XVI; the more sober and restrained Jacobean, or Early Middle or Late Georgian, or the graceful, dignified Colonial.

Most popular of all the Gorham dinner set designs is a representative of the latter period—the Plymouth. It is graceful, refined and in decided contrast to the rich decoration of the Florentine Period. It is a masterpiece of simplicity. Its beauty of line and form thrills you like the perfect note of a singer, or a sudden flash of insight in literature, or a stroke of beauty in a painting.

After seeing all of the Gorham designs I was not surprised when they told me this was the leader of them all.

SARAH BERNHARDT COMES FROM COAST

Had a Fine Time in California, Except When Her Auto Was Wrecked.

A SUFFRAGE ENTHUSIAST

Would Give Clerical Places to Women and Make Men in Department Stores Soldiers.

Sarah Bernhardt arrived here yesterday afternoon, after a five months' tour to the Pacific Coast. In her apartment in the Hotel Marie Antoinette last night, Mme. Bernhardt, who wore a cream colored traveling dress and blue silk coat with hat and feather to match, talked with great vivacity of her long tour. The chief incident, the actress explained, was her automobile accident at Los Angeles, when her car was smashed in a collision with a wagon loaded with iron pipes, and she escaped with two sprained ankles.

"My star was in the ascendant still or I would have been killed," said Mme. Bernhardt, "but my ankles pained me excruciatingly when I went on the stage with them both swathed in surgical bandages. It was a martyrdom, but I had promised to appear next day at a benefit performance for the flood sufferers, and I could not disappoint the people, as the tickets had been sold.

"I have enjoyed the tour very much. It is easier for me to appear in vaudeville, as I give only one act or perhops two each performance instead of a whole play. In addition to my matinée and night shows in the theatres I have written 228 newspaper articles. Work pleases me and never tires me, and, besides, I am well paid for my articles.

"The moving pictures are very enterprising in this country," said Mme. Bernhardt. "When I went for a walk in Cleveland I turned one corner and read a big poster, 'Sarah Bernhardt in Tosca.' Further on I saw that I was in 'Elizabeth' at another theatre and in 'Camille' at a third, so that with playing in 'Une Nuit de Noel' myself I was appearing in four theatres at the same time in the same city.

When asked for her opinion on the big suffrage parade on Saturday she said:

"I ahink it is a shame that women do not have the vote. They are educated and capable of understanding politics and the proper methods of government. I read that women in London are burning down houses and blowing up castules. Well, why not let them have the vote? If they are capable of controlling and operating commercial undertakings it is only just that the woman proprietor who has 50 or 100 men working for her should have a vote in the affairs of her country as well as the men she employs in her business.

"I do not mean," Mme. Bernhardt continued, "that I believe women should be appointed Mayors of cities or Governors of States, but the clerical work that is done by men in the Government bureaus should be performed by women."

"What would you do with the clerks when they were discharged?" she was asked.

"Why, they could be made into soldiers or sailors and be of use to their country. That is quite simple. Also the men who measure silks and satins and ribbons in the big stores, they, too, would be more useful as soldiers."

"What do you think of a French repertoire theatre to give classical and modern French plays in New York?"

"I believe it would be a good idea, as it would each the young American actors and actresses a great deal about their art and encourage students to practice speaking French. There is one now in London, and I am told that it has been quite successful."

After her engagement at the Palace Theatre here Mme. Bernhardt will sail for France on the Lorraine of the French Line and spend three months resting at her picturesque summer home, Belle Isle, and then go to Paris to rehearse a new play which has been written for her by Tristian Bernard. At the present time she is reading a play by an American woman which deals with the marriage of an American millionaire and is full of dramatic interest, the actress said.

Her first act on reaching the hotel last night was to send to the nearest florist for bunches of flowers of all kinds and plants in bloom to decorate her apartment.

WILL END CO-EDUCATION.

Boys and Girls of Horace Mann School to Study Separately.

After long years of experiment the authorities at the Horace Mann School of Teachers College, Columbia University, have decided to abandon co-education. The adoption of this policy of separation will present many problems for the Trustees, and not the least is to find the necessary facilities for the resulting increase in classes.

The first definite step in effecting this change was made at a meeting of the Trustees of Teachers College last week, at which $190,000 was voted toward the expense of erecting new buildings on the property which was acquired some time ago by the school opposite Van Cortlandt Park. The plans provide for a school building of the most approved type and an apartment house or dormitory for the use of the teachers and their families. It is estimated that the entire cost of erecting these buildings will be $250,000, leaving $60,000 to be raised by subscription.

The boys will be moved into this branch of the school. There they will have their own gymnasium, athletic field, and classrooms, far removed from the girls, who will remain in the present home of the school on Morningside Heights.

One of the features of the change is the rearrangement of the course of studies for the girls, so that there may be two curriculums, one for the girls intending to go to college and the other for those who do not.

ADMITS SHOOTING COUSIN.

Barber Dangerously Wounded in a Quarrel Over Money.

With a bullet wound in his neck and two in his chest, Orazzio Simone, a barber, lies at St. Vincent's Hospital, and at the Elizabeth Street Station the police held his cousin, Giuseppe Lionte, to await the result of the wounded man's injuries.

Lionte was caught running away from 190 Elizabeth Street, where his cousin was shot early last evening, and, according to the police, he confessed to having done the shooting. The members of the Simone family say there had been a quarrel over money. Lionte is a peddler and lives at 241 Elizabeth Street.

Resinol Soap does what cosmetics are supposed to do.

WHEN you wash your face do you realize that it is not enough to remove the dirt—that your skin needs a soothing, healing influence to keep your complexion fresh and free from blemish?

Ordinary toilet soaps do not assert this influence. Many of them contain free alkali which dries the skin and destroys its delicate texture. Even the best of such soaps can only clean, they cannot protect the skin. Resinol Soap, besides being an absolutely pure toilet soap, contains the Resinol balsams, the soothing, antiseptic properties of which are known throughout the medical profession. That is why Resinol Soap does for the skin what cosmetics are supposed to do—it insures not only a clean skin, but a healthy skin, and a fair, clear complexion.

Resinol Soap 25c. per cake wherever toilet goods are sold. For guest-room size cake free, send to Dept. 3 F, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Make Your Old Car a 1913 Model with the Hartford Electric Starter

Bring your old car right up-to-date in efficiency by equipping it with the Hartford Electric Starting and Lighting System.

The car that is not self-started these days is lacking in the most important of all motor car improvements. Women must have it on cars they drive.

The Hartford Electric Starting and Lighting System is the only system that can be applied successfully to any car already built and in use—as well as installed easily in any new car without structural changes in the chassis.

It spins the largest motor fast enough to start on magneto with.

Expert automobile engineers who have examined the Hartford Electric Starter declare it to be the best starter and lighting system ever shown.

It has everything to commend it to the motorist. Light in weight—simple in construction—simple and sure in operation—powerful and durable—occupies small space—is unfailing for starting and lighting—and can be attached easily.

You can have the Hartford Electric Starting and Lighting System installed on your car—no matter what model or make—quickly and easily at our equipping stations in New York or Jersey City.

See it at 1700 Broadway where we will be glad to demonstrate to your satisfaction that you should have the Hartford Electric Starting and Lighting System—whether you are about to buy a new car or continuing with your old model.

THE Jeffery Company considers that every Cross Country owner is a stockholder in the service organization. His dividends are paid in the increased satisfaction he enjoys through the service such an organization provides.

A stock of duplicate parts, amounting in value to one-half million dollars, is maintained by us at the factory and branches, while all distributing dealers also maintain stocks.

WE have all the original patterns, dies, jigs and tools for every part of every Rambler car ever made. This stock is carried that we may assure to owners quick delivery of parts even of old models.

The price of Jeffery parts is one-half to two-thirds lower than that of parts for other cars.

THE Jeffery service organization not only includes an efficient department at the factory, but it is supplemented by a corps of experts on the road and by nearly five hundred branches and distributing dealers. The branches maintain a complete stock of parts, while the larger distributing dealers have all those for which there would ordinarily be any demand.

The clock faces show the time it would ordinarily require for the owner to get a part after his order reaches one of our distributing points.

A beautiful four-color reproduction of the Cross Country, from an oil painting by R. Philip Brainard, is ready for mailing. See the Cross Country by all means, at any Jeffery branch or dealer's display room, but send for the picture anyway.

ST. LOUIS PULLS CUBS FROM LEAGUE LEAD

Cardinals Win Farcical Game with First Baseman Konetchy in the Pitcher's Box.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Chicago lost the farewell game prior to their departure for a long Eastern trip to-day, when the St. Louis team batted the ball for a total of twenty hits and won, 10 to 8, after thirteen innings.

The game was more or less of a farce. The visitors ran out of pitchers and called on First Baseman Ed Konetchy, who pitched far the better game of any of the St. Louis slabmen. Cathers, an outfielder, was also called on for the pitching department.

Richie opened for Chicago and held the visitors at his mercy until the eighth inning, when he weakened, and the visitors made two runs by bunching hits behind Zimmerman's error. Richie lost control of the ball in the ninth inning, and, after filling the bases with one out, was relieved by Humphries, who was hit hard, the visitors scoring six runs.

Cathers opened the ninth inning for St. Louis and through his wildness and bunched hits was responsible for the locals tieing the score. Konetchy came to the rescue, and the locals were unable to make progress.

Two singles and a triple gave St. Louis two runs and the game in the thirteenth. The score:

Adams Wins Pitchers' Battle.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 4.—Adams and Fromme took part in a great pitchers' battle to-day, the former gaining the decision and Pittsburgh defeating Cincinnati by a score of 1 to 0. Only three hits were made during the game, Adams allowing two of these and Fromme one. It so happened that Adams obtained the only hit that was made off Fromme, a triple that followed closely upon a base on balls, and thus enabled the visitors to tally the only run. Fromme allowed three bases on balls, one of which proved costly, while Adams wavered only once. Adams struck out three men and Fromme five. The fielding was good. The only run was scored in the third, when Kelly drew a base on balls and scored a moment later on Adams's triple. The next three men were retired easily. The score:

Timely Hitting in Last Two Innings Gives St. Louis 4 to 3 Win.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—Hitting the ball when hits meant runs in the last two innings this afternoon gave St. Louis a victory over Cleveland by 4 to 3. A pass, stolen base, wide throw, and another single in the first inning started Cleveland's scoring and netted the visitors one run.

In the first inning, after Mitchell walked two men in succession, he was relieved by Steen. A bunt down the first-base line which the pitcher threw wild gave St. Louis its first run. Lajoie's error counted another run for the home team. Mitchell went ahead in the fourth inning, when a double, a single, and a three-base hit netted them two runs. A single, a sacrifice, and another single in the seventh tied it for the locals. The winning run was scored in the next inning on an error, a sacrifice, and a hit.

Easterly's Error Loses Game.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Easterly's error enabled Detroit to check Chicago's winning streak to-day, and the visitors won, 2 to 1. A single, a sacrifice, and a triple gave the visitors their first run, and a single following a fielder's choice, in which Easterly threw wild to Lord in an attempt to catch Crawford between home and third, netted the other run. Dubuc was opposed by White, and he pitched masterly ball, holding the locals to six hits, only two of which came in one inning, when two singles and a fielder's choice netted their lone run. One of the largest crowds of the season was present to welcome Chicago home from their short trip on the road. The score:

BRILLIANT POLO BY DEVEREUX MILBURN

International Four Show Good Form in Practice at Cedarhurst.

Nine of the polo players who are aiding in the upbuilding of the team which is to defend the Westchester Polo Club (Newport) trophy in the international matches with England on the Meadow Brook field next month took part in two matches yesterday on the grounds of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, after having been divided into two teams, the Whites and Blues.

In the first battle with the Whites, made up of L. E. Stoddard, J. M. Waterbury, Harry Payne Whitney, and Devereux Milburn, and the Blues of L. Waterbury, Rene La Montagne, Foxhall P. Keene, Harold C. Phipps, and R. L. Agassiz, the result was a tie at 4 goals all. Two reconstructed teams were played in the second match, with Agassiz, Stoddard, Whitney, and Milburn arrayed against the Waterburys, Keene, and Phipps, with the first named quartet the winners by 7 goals to 2.

A number of society folk viewed the matches from the clubhouse porch, and among those who enthused over the plays were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. A. Butler Duncan, Mrs. Emily Ladenburg, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hazard, Mrs. Frank Curtis, and Miss Inez Milholland, who was in the forefront of the suffragette parade on Saturday.

Keen play marked the progress of both matches, in which the Internationalists apparently contented themselves with feeding the supposedly weaker members of their squads most of the time. For the Blues in the first game Foxhall Keene, the oldest player on the field, made his presence felt by his ability to anticipate the placing of the sphere by the opposition. He showed deftness of stroke, and made many a pretty drive to the forward men on his team. Keene played on the 1886 team, which lost the cup to England, and in each of the subsequent matches prior to the cup being retrieved by Messrs. Whitney, Milburn, and the two Waterburys in 1909.

The feature of both games was the all star play of Milburn in the second match, in which he made all the goals for his side, being forced time and again to leave his back position in order to protect the fortunes of his side. In all he tallied seven goals as against two by the opposition, which were accounted for by Monte Waterbury, one in each of the third and fourth periods.

This player starred in the first match when, in the second period of that match, he picked the ball from the midst of a scrimmage, getting it into hitting position with a near-hand stroke. This occurred a bit past the centre of the field, and after he had gently started the ball on its way toward the opposition goal he got in a mighty drive which had speed and direction enough to send the sphere hurtling 150 yards to and through the goal posts.

Yesterday marked the first of the series on the Cedarhurst grounds, which will be the scene of further play to-morrow, Thursday, and Saturday of this week. The summary:

STAHL IN BAD SHAPE.

Leader of World's Champion Red Sox to Undergo Serious Operation.

BOSTON, Mass., May 4.—Manager "Jake" Stahl of the world's champion Red Sox team will be operated upon in Boston to-morrow for a bone growth in his foot, which has kept him out of the game at first base for practically the entire season thus far. Stahl will be unable to go with the team this week on the first Western trip.

President McAleer of the club will look after the business end of the trip, and Captain Wagner will direct the men on the field. It had been feared that Stahl would be out of the game permanently, but physicians who have examined him said to-night that the operation ought to relieve the trouble so that he could get back to playing form before mid-season.

KING GREETS POLOISTS.

English Team to Play Americans Next Month "Received."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, May 5.—Following the precedent established when he received the English polo team before its departure to America in 1911, King George to-day received this year's team at Buckingham Palace.

His Majesty thus pays a gracious compliment to international sport and to a game which he thoroughly understands and a game he excelled in when he was a Lieutenant serving in the Mediterranean.

It is well known that the King followed the fortunes of Capt. Lloyd's team with keen interest in 1911 and caused reports of the progress of the international matches at Meadow Brook to be telegraphed to him period by period.

KRAMER SHOWS THE WAY.

Cycling King Wins Mile Race at Newark by Narrow Margin.

Frank Kramer, world's bicycle sprint champion, was again the centre of attraction yesterday before a crowd of about 8,000 people at the Newark Velodrome. The sensational sprinter, coupled with Frank Cavanagh as a partner, accounted for the honors of the feature event, a one-mile professional team race, and then Kramer, after a hard-fought contest, finished second in the five-mile professional race. The victory of Kramer and Cavanagh in the special team race came in straight heats and showed the champion at his best when called on for the final sprint for the tape. Three teams made up the field, the others being Jackie Clark and Alf Grenda and Joe Fogler and Alfred Goullet, who finished in the order named.

Although taking the victory in straight heats, neither one was won by much of a margin, as the contesting teams set a hard pace and the opening one was thought to be a dead heat by many of the spectators. In this event Goullet made a desperate fight for the honors on the bell lap, and, after closing up a good-sized gap on Kramer, finished less than half a wheel behind him. The second and deciding heat was not as exciting as the opening one. Cavanagh pulled the champion out of a tight place after the half mile was passed, and put him in a commanding position when the sprint began, with the result that he made his own pace to the wire. In the last fifty yards the trailers closed up on Kramer, but were unable to overhaul him, the trio finishing almost abreast.

The two-mile amateur handicap, with the largest field of the day—thirty-five—was more like a free-for-all scramble. When the gun was fired the riders stretched out all over the saucer, and it was only by the keenest observation that the officials could keep tabs on them. The distance men got away with the bulk of the honors, although Donald McDougall of the New York A. C., a scratch man, finished third. Fred Weber of Newark, with 110 yards, was first; George Paull of New York, with 210 yards, was second, and Frank Whitney, with 210 yards, was fourth.

The summaries:

Quarter-Mile Open, Amateur.—Won by Donald McDougall, New York A. C.; W. Hanley, San Francisco, second; C. Smith, Baldwin, L. I., third. Time—0:29.

Two-Mile Invitation, Professional.—Won by E. Root, Boston; J. Bedell, Lynbrook, L. I., second; M. Bedell, Lynbrook, third; F. Krebs, Newark, fourth; A. Manzo, Jersey City, fifth. Time—4:38 2-5.

Five-Mile Invitation, Professional.—Won by A. Goullet, Australia; Frank Kramer, East Orange, second; J. Clark, Australia, third; P. Hehir, Melbourne, fourth; A. Grenda, Australia, fifth. Time—10:16 2-5.

Two-Mile Handicap, Amateur.—Won by F. Weber, Newark, (110 yards;) G. Paull, New York, (210 yards,) second; L. McDougall, New York A. C., (scratch,) third. Time—4:04.

Ten-Mile Tandem Paced Race, Professional.—Won by Elmer Collins, Lynn, Mass.; Percy Lawrence, San Francisco, second; C. Carmen, Jamaica, third. Time—20:20.

Half-Mile Novice, Amateur.—Won by G. Smith, Newark; H. Weedner, Newark, second. Time—1:01 1-5.

Half-Mile Handicap, Professional.—Won by F. Hill, Boston, (10 yards;) Gorden Walker, Melbourne, (20 yards,) second; E. A. Pye, Australia, (45 yards,) third; P. Hehir, Melbourne, (scratch,) fourth; F. Krebs, Newark, (30 yards,) fifth. Time—0:59 2-5.

One-Mile Team Match Race, Professional.—First Heat—Won by Kramer and Cavanagh; Goullet and Fogler, second; Clark and Grenda, third. Time—2:35. Second Heat—Won by Kramer and Cavanagh; Clark and Grenda, second; Goullet and Fogler, third. Time—2:04 2-5. Kramer and Cavanagh, first; Clark and Grenda, second; Goullet and Fogler, third.

English Pair Win at Racquet.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Charles Williams, who lost the world's championship racquet title to "Jock" Soutar of this city yesterday, and Peter Latham, a retired undefeated world's champion, both of England, defeated George Standing of New York, a former National champion, and Soutar in a four-handed racquet match to-day at the Racquet Club, 4 games to 1. The visitors gave the greatest exhibition of racquet playing ever witnessed on the local courts. The results by games:

Latham and Williams	15	17	15	13	15
Soutar and Standing	6	15	2	15	9

S. R. O. for Frank Chance Day.

CHICAGO, May 4.—President Charles Comiskey of the local American League Club announced to-day that every reserved seat in the park has been sold for the game between the New York Americans and the White Sox, to be played here May 17, known as "Frank Chance Day." Manager Chance of the New Yorks, former manager of the Chicago Nationals, has many admirers here, and the demand for seats has been as great for this game as it had been for a world's championship series, Mr. Comiskey said.

GIBBONS TO BOX HERE THIS WEEK

St. Paul Boy in Feature Bout After Extended Rest from the Ring.

Plenty of good boxing in the form of all-star shows is promised to the followers of the game in Greater New York during the coming week, the usual number of cards having been announced by the various clubs. There is nothing on the week's bill which will attract the attention accorded to the bout between Luther McCarty and Frank Moran here last week, but the week's bill cannot be said to lack notables of the ring.

The real feature on the week's card is the show to be staged at the Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club, which has been closed to boxing for the past few weeks. It was intended to reopen this club to-night, but a postponement was found necessary, and the show arranged for to-night will be put on Friday night. The star event of the card will bring together Mike Gibbons of St. Paul and Dave Kurtz, the rugged middleweight of Newark. Gibbons has not boxed here since his unsatisfactory affair with Eddie McGoorty at Madison Square Garden several months ago.

This will be his first bout in any ring since that time, and the St. Paul boy figures that the long rest has done him much benefit. He has been working out at a local gymnasium since last Tuesday, when he arrived to act as a second for his brother Tom against Joe Borrell at the Fairmont A. C. Kurtz has figured in several bouts at local clubs, and his ability is well known to local boxing enthusiasts. He cannot class with Gibbons for cleverness, but he is more rugged and generally forces his opponent to show all he has.

In the ten-round semi-final at the same show Tom Gibbons, who made such an impression in his two recent bouts here, will test his speed and skill against Antoine Pollet, the Canadian light heavyweight, who won two bouts by the knockout route at the New Polo A. A. Another ten-round bout will complete the card.

The St. Nicholas A. C., at Sixty-sixth Street and Columbus Avenue, will be in the field again this week with another high-class bill, featuring with ten-round bouts between boys of three classes. The main event will show Johnny Lore of the west side against Sam Robideau, one of the best lightweights which Philadelphia has turned out in some time. Robideau has had considerable experience, and is regarded as one of the most promising boys of his class. In the ten-round semi-final the contestants will be George "Knockout" Brown of Chicago and Leo Houck of Lancaster. These two middleweights have been figuring in bouts with the top notchers of their class for the past two years. In the opening ten-round bout the principals will be Kid Black of the west side and Tommy Houck of Philadelphia.

The Atlantic Garden A. C. will also put on an all-star show at its clubhouse, Canal Street and the Bowery, to-morrow night. In each of the ten-round bouts a New York boxer will oppose a Jerseyite. Frankie Burns, the Jersey City bantamweight who has fought all the leading boys of his class, including the champion, as well as two featherweight champions, will oppose Jimmy Murray in the main event. Battling Hurley of Passaic and Young Frank of the west side will come together in the ten-round semi-final, and the opening bout will show Young Gradwell of Newark vs. Gene Gilvey, a local 133-pound boy.

Three ten-round bouts will be put on to-morrow night at the Brooklyn Beach A. C. of South Brooklyn. Jack Hanlon and Al McCloskey, heavyweights, will be the headliners. The other bouts will bring together Jack O'Donnell vs. Young McGowan, and George Frazer vs. Jimmy Jarvis.

The New Polo A. A., 129th Street and Park Avenue, will put on its regular weekly show Friday night. On Saturday night the usual programmes will be put on at the Fairmont, St. Nicholas, and Atlantic Garden Clubs of New York, the Irving, National, and Gowanus Clubs of Brooklyn, and the Liberal A. C. of Staten Island.

A. A. U. WRESTLING FINALS.

Championships to be Decided To-night at Bronx Church House.

The final bouts in seven of the eight classes in the National A. A. U. wrestling championships will be decided to-night at the Bronx Church House, 171st Street and Fulton Avenue. A majority of the titles are assured to New Yorkers, as only two of the fourteen who will compete to-night belong in other cities. The exceptions are in the 125-pound class, in which Thomas O'Hara of the Boston Y. M. C. U. will be one of the contenders, and in the 145-pound class, in which another Bostonian, Archie Jeannett of the Clapp Memorial Association, has survived to the finals.

Only two of the seven champions who won titles in the 1912 championships defended the honors. In the 108-pound class George Taylor of the National Turn Verein, Newark, retained his title in the only final which has been finished to date. In the 158-pound class J. Waldo Smith of the New York A. C. has survived the elimination tests, and he will defend his title to-night.

Prentice and Pell Victors.

In the invitation tennis tournament of the Greenwich Country Club yesterday Bernon S. Prentice and Theodore R. Pell defeated Karl H. Behr and F. C. Inman in the finals by the scores of 7—9, 2—6, 11—9, 6—4, 6—3. Superior team work won the last match. The matches were witnessed by a large gallery.

MORE CYCLISTS START.

Second Team in Transcontinental Race Leaves for San Francisco.

George McAdams and Ernest Higgins, members of the Century Road Club Association and the second team to start on the transcontinental handicap bicycle race, left this city for San Francisco yesterday afternoon. The start was made from the corner of Murray Street and Broadway, just as the hands of the City Hall clock reached the hour of 1. The first team, made up of Walter Wiley and Fred J. Scherer of the Caribou Club, departed from the same place at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. All four are west side boys and they will attempt to cross the continent in forty-eight days. They plan to make their expenses by the sale of postal cards along the route.

The route taken by the cyclists yesterday was the same as that taken by the first team on Saturday. They crossed Murray Street to West Broadway, thence to Fifth Avenue, to Twenty-third Street and up Broadway. At 120th Street the riders turned to Riverside Drive, but came back to Broadway about a mile further on and followed along Broadway until outside the city. About fifteen members of the Century Road Club Association accompanied the ambitious cyclists for some distance, a number going as far as Yonkers, and a few to Tarrytown.

The cyclists carried a message from Mayor Gaynor to the Mayor of San Francisco and letters of introduction from the Century Road Club Association and the National Cycling Association. They were started on their long journey by President Paul Thomas of the C. R. C. A., who accompanied them for several miles in his automobile.

Poughkeepsie is the first stop on the schedule and the riders planned to rest there last night. They expect to reach Schenectady to-night and the stops for the next few days will be Utica, Auburn, Batavia, Buffalo, Erie, Penn., Cleveland, Ohio, Norwalk, Ohio, and Toledo, Ohio. They are due in the last named city on Tuesday night, May 13. They expect to reach Chicago on May 16, and Omaha on May 22. The Scherer-Wiley team is following the same schedule of stops, but is one day ahead of the other team. The schedule calls for the arrival of the first team in San Francisco on June 20, and the second team on June 21, but McAdams and Higgins declared yesterday that they expected to overtake the early starters before many days are passed. The schedule calls for about seventy miles of riding each day.

MOTORCYCLE SPEED TRIALS

Twenty-two Riders Willing to Compete at Brighton Track.

In response to an invitation from Manager W. H. Wellman of the Brighton Beach Stadium Motordrome, twenty-two motor cyclists met yesterday morning at the Brighton Beach track and signed preliminary papers to ride at the track during the coming season. Most of the riders are from New York and all have had considerable experience. In the absence of Mr. Wellman, who was unexpectedly called to Chicago Friday, George Keller made known to the riders the plans for the season. Another meeting will be held next Saturday afternoon at 2 oclock, at which time the riders will be subjected to an elimination process in the form of speed trials. Only those who prove themselves capable of maintaining a certain average speed will be retained.

The survivors in the elimination tests will be signed up for the season, in addition to Arthur Chappelle, Johnny Cox, Mike Costello, Hartley Thomas, McLean, Vanderbury and the other speed marvels who were at the track last season.

The track will be in shape for riding by the middle of the present week and the cyclists will begin their season's training next Friday. Several riders from other cities are expected to arrive here to-morrow and Wednesday. Manager Wellman will return from Chicago on Wednesday.

Tigers Lose Best Oarsmen.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 4.—The Princeton crew, which was to have met Harvard and Penn on the Charles River next Saturday, received a serious set-back to-day through the definite announcement by the doctors that "Ted" Briggs, who has been rowing No. 5 all Fall, and was the "gem" of the eight, will be kept out of the race by a festered hand, which has resulted from delayed attention to a sore received while rowing.

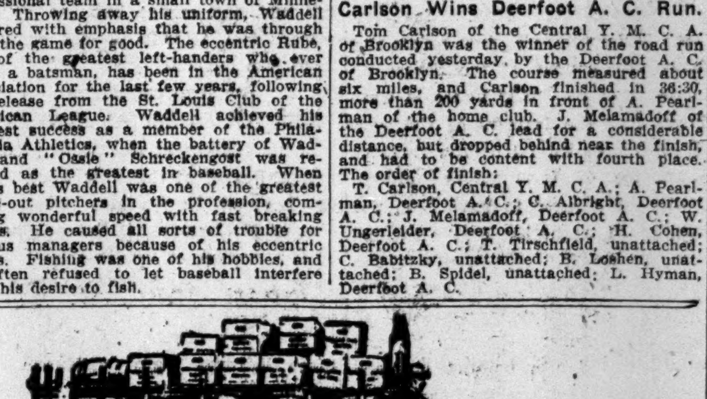
Briggs was conceded by all authorities to be the best of the Tiger oarsmen, and his absence will have to be filled by a general rearrangement of the seating of the eight. The change has come so late that the new crew will hardly be effectually broken in before the race.

The shift as planned by Dr. Spaeth, the coach, will take Chester from No. 3 to No. 5, Curtis, a veteran at bow, to No. 3, and Bunzell, the bow man on the second crew, to fill the same position on the 'Varsity. The Tigers will go to Cambridge on Wednesday, in order to get a few days' practice spins before the race, but the greatest disappointment prevails here over the unexpected weakening of the eight.

Rube Waddell Quits Game.

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 4.—George Edward Waddell, generally known in baseball circles as Rube Waddell, dramatically retired from organized baseball to-day after fifteen years of service and signed to pitch for a semi-professional team in a small town of Minnesota. Throwing away his uniform, Waddell declared with emphasis that he was through with the game for good. The eccentric Rube, one of the greatest left-handers who ever faced a batsman, has been in the American Association for the last few years, following his release from the St. Louis Club of the American League. Waddell achieved his greatest success as a member of the Philadelphia Athletics, when the battery of Waddell and "Ossie" Schreckengost was regarded as the greatest in baseball. When at his best Waddell was one of the greatest strike-out pitchers in the profession, combining wonderful speed with fast breaking curves. He caused all sorts of trouble for various managers because of his eccentric habits. Fishing was one of his hobbies, and he often refused to let baseball interfere with his desire to fish.



PEERLESS TRUCKS
For Sales Promotion

THIS Peerless Truck has opened up new selling territory for The Cobb-Hersey Co. by enlarging the radius of deliveries in Boston and vicinity.

It has displaced the teams formerly employed in the transfer of heavy merchandise between stations, warehouses and stores, and has also proved profitable in making direct deliveries to customers with a notable saving in time.

Long life and low maintenance expense are insured by scientific heat treatment of all vital steel parts used in Peerless Trucks.

KOLEHMAINEN WINS WORLD'S TITLE RACE

Wonderful Finnish Runner Does 1:20:14 for 15 Miles in Face of Heavy Wind.

Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finn who is the holder of most of the records over a distance of ground, yesterday won a so-called world's championship race at fifteen miles over the Celtic Park oval, under the auspices of the Monument Club, when he defeated a field of nine before a crowd of probably 7,500 persons. Billy Queal of Alexandria Bay finished second, Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, third, and Ted Crook of Fall River fourth.

The winner traveled the distance in 1:20:14, which, while being nearly two minutes worse than the best on record of 1:18:15, made by A. E. Wood in the Monument Club race last year, was conceded by most of the experts present to have overshadowed the best mark by many seconds, in view of the unfavorable conditions which prevailed for yesterday's event. A chill wind, which took the nature of a half gale when the runners faced it on the backstretch, caused an appreciable change of pace when the athletes had to meet it, as they did throughout the sixty laps of the quarter-mile track.

From the ninth mile on Kolehmainen had little or no opposition, as he began to dispose of Queal, who had run almost aligned with him, 100 yards beyond that distance. With no one to force him, the Finn made no attempt to bid for the record, but an idea of how much he had in reserve may be gathered from the fact that he ran his last quarter mile in 1:14 2-5, but 4 2-5 seconds slower than the fastest lap in the race, the first. His time for the final 100 yards was 14 1-5 seconds, and he finished like a lion.

Each of the other men to get into the prize division was, in the language of the talent, "all in," with the result that Queal, Longboat, and Crook staggered across the finish line at the expiration of their exertions. Queal was clocked in 1:23:21, Longboat in 1:24:36, and Crook in 1:26:02 2-5. Kolehmainen did not run in last year's race, in which Queal was second in 1:21:02 1-5, and Crook fourth in 1:26:02 2-5.

After Harvey Cohn, a former amateur distance champion, had shown the way for half a mile in 2:26, Kolehmainen assumed command at 1,000 yards, trailed by Queal. Longboat jumped into third place at about seven eighths of a mile, and the order at the mile was Kolehmainen in 4:56 1-5; Queal, Longboat, Jimmy Lee, and Cohn, as far as the first five were concerned.

At a mile and three-eighths the first named trio drew away from the rest of the field, and at 1¾ miles Kolehmainen and Queal pulled off from the Indian, who was third, and whom they led at two miles by 60 yards in 9:57 4-5. The leading pair continued their great pace and three miles found Longboat an eighth of a mile to the bad, with Crook and Lee fourth and fifth.

At five miles Kolehmainen and Queal were running as a team, with the time 25:34 1-5, with Crook 400 yards behind, and Longboat 30 yards further back.

Passing ten miles in 52:10 4-5, Kolehmainen was 110 yards to the good of the American, with Crook nearly three-quarters of a mile to the bad, and the Indian that distance back of the leaders. There was no change in the positions of the field up to the hour, during which Kolehmainen had run 11 miles, 760 yards.

At thirteen and a quarter miles Kolehmainen lapped Queal, and at thirteen and three-eighths miles Longboat ran into third place by passing Crook. All this time Kolehmainen had never varied an iota in his pace. Running the last half-mile in 2:38 2-5, and the other fractions of the latter part of the race as told above, the Finn came home the easiest of winners by a lap and three-quarters, with Queal 350 yards ahead of Longboat and the latter a like distance to the good of Crook.

The times of the intermediate miles were as follows, with Kolehmainen the leader at each: 4:56 1-5, 9:57 3-5, 15:07 4-5, 20:19 3-5, 25:34 1-5, 30:51 3-5, 36:13 3-5, 41:34, 46:49 2-5, 52:10 4-5, 57:40, 1:03:17 3-5, 1:08:53 4-5, 1:14:44 4-5, 1:20:14. Up to four miles, inclusive, the times yesterday were faster than in the record-breaking race of last year.

Pares Wins Sheridan A. C. Run.

C. Pares of the Sheridan A. C. was the winner of the eight-mile road run along Broadway and Fifth Avenue, conducted yesterday by that club. Pares's time was 51:40, which betters the old mark for the same course, held by Al Rosander of the Morningside A. C. For four miles S. Silverstein of the home club was in the van, but he fell behind and finally finished third. The first fifteen to cross the line in the order of finish were as follows: C. Pares, Sheridan A. C.; V. Doins, Ozanam A. A.; S. Silverstein, Sheridan A. C.; H. Jacobson, Irish-American A. C.; H. Griffin, St. Bartholomew's A. C.; M. Greenberg, Sheridan A. C.; S. Dannans, Ozanam A. A.; J. Vallacqua, Ozanam A. A.; L. Heydt, St. Bartholomew's A. C.; J. Hughes, Ozanam A. A.; R. Jacobson, Sheridan A. C.; B. Cooper, Sheridan A. C.; P. Scossa, Ozanam A. A.; J. Laura, Ozanam A. A., and J. Flynn, unattached.

Carlson Wins Deerfoot A. C. Run.

Tom Carlson of the Central Y. M. C. A. of Brooklyn was the winner of the road run conducted yesterday by the Deerfoot A. C. of Brooklyn. The course measured about six miles, and Carlson finished in 36:30, more than 200 yards in front of A. Pearlman of the home club. J. Melamadoff of the Deerfoot A. C. lead for a considerable distance, but dropped behind near the finish, and had to be content with fourth place. The order of finish:

T. Carlson, Central Y. M. C. A.; A. Pearlman, Deerfoot A. C.; C. Albright, Deerfoot A. C.; J. Melamadoff, Deerfoot A. C.; W. Ungerleider, Deerfoot A. C.; H. Cohen, Deerfoot A. C.; T. Tirschfield, unattached; C. Babitzky, unattached; B. Loshen, unattached; B. Spidel, unattached; L. Hyman, Deerfoot A. C.

CREW CAPTAIN TO QUIT.

'Varsity Oarsmen Threaten Revolt Against Coach Vail at Wisconsin.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., May 4.—The threatened resignation of Capt. Jack McLeod and Bruce Tasker of the 'Varsity crew is the talk of the camp. Piqued because Coach Vail saw fit to replace the veterans of last year's 'Varsity eight by a crew of sophomores, McLeod and Tasker have, according to a well-founded rumor, decided to quit crew work. The other four of last year's eight threatened to join Capt. McLeod.

The action on the part of two of the best of the men at the university comes as a climax to a long series of strange doings in the crew department this year. First came the unavoidable resignation of Capt. Sjoblom, who was forced to quit the shell by university physicians. Eddie Samp, who was acknowledged the logical candidate for the position, handed in his resignation shortly afterward and reported for baseball practice in the place of crew work.

Kling to Join Reds Here.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—John Kling, former catcher of the Chicago National League team, and last year's manager of the Boston Nationals, left to-night for Cincinnati, whence he will proceed at once to New York to report to Manager Joe Tinker of the Cincinnati team. Before leaving Kling once more said this would be his last year in baseball. "I am in good shape," he said, "and I expect to end my career in a blaze of glory."

You'd be a pretty sight with the back of your coat cut out, yet how cool and comfortable you'd be.

Next best thing's to make up suits without any backs to the linings.

We have.

A good many of our Spring suits are made up that way, though of course we've nearly as many "full-lined" for men who prefer the added protection across the small of the back.

NEW YORK, MONDAY, MAY 5, 1913.

A PRETTY POOR LEGISLATURE.

The adjournment of the Legislature on Saturday was, in effect, a recess until such time as the Governor deems best to call an extra session. The issue between Mr. SULZER and his party majority is the Direct Primary bill. It is not a question of great importance, and the "fight" over it has more of opera bouffe than of political principle in it. On the face of the matter the Governor is standing for what are currently believed to be "popular" rights. In all reasonable likelihood the professional politicians could, if they had to, run his plan as easily as they run the present law. The only way to get real control for the people is for them to secure few and important elections—"the short ballot"—when it will be worth while for men to vote because they can accomplish something. In the interval before the extra session the Governor will "go to the people" after what he thinks to be the way of Gov. WILSON and Gov. HUGHES. We beg to suggest to him that he devote what time he can get before he begins his series of appeals to devising a "short ballot" platform. On that he could win. On the one he has in mind he is very likely to fail.

The Legislature has passed a great many laws, so many, in [illegible], that it will take a long time to find out what they are and what their effect will be. Competent observers say that there is a lot of "jokers" concealed in them. Those which can be understood are not, as a rule, good. Many of them are bad. The home rule law is loosely drawn, has had to be twice amended, and will yield a tedious and costly amount of litigation. The bill creating a "Board of Public Welfare" to take over the scandal-breeding functions of the police is absurd and is bound to prove michievous if any serious attempt is made to carry it out. The Legislature has specialized—to use current sociologic slang—in labor laws. Some two dozen acts have been passed extending powers of inspection and regulation or creating new agencies. Some of them, honestly and sensibly executed, would do much good. But there is a strong tendency to use them for purposes of patronage and to break down the tests required by the civil service law. So far as this obtains the acts will do more harm than good. There is one thing far worse than insufficient legal regulation, that is, regulation for the profit of the regulators instead of for the benefit of workers. We are in great danger of getting this result.

At the last moment the Legislature passed a bill for an election in June on the question of a Constitutional Convention. Senator BROWN is quite within bounds in describing it as "a "purely political measure to serve the "interests of Tammany in the mu"nicipal election in the City of New "York." The cunning politicians reason that it will prevent the Republicans from joining with other opponents of Tammany, because they will insist on Republican delegates to the Convention if one is ordered. We are persuaded that the politicians greatly underestimate the anti-Tammany sentiment in this city. It will not be affected by any such trifles, and the attempt to baffle it by trickery will only intensify it. As time discloses the real work of Tammany for Tammany in the session just closed, this sentiment will be strengthened. Fortunately we have a fair approach to the "short ballot" principle in this city, and when the votes for [illegible] or [illegible] are counted in November next we are confident that all the chicane of the Legislature will be seen to have been of no avail.

The Workmen's Compensation bill passed finally is a fair one. Its success is credited to the influence of the casualty insurance companies. We see no reason why these companies, directly under the control of the State Insurance Department, should not be permitted to do business under the law. The defeat of the plan for a practical monopoly by a State Insurance Board is a good thing for all concerned. It was crudely devised and was bound to be clumsy and costly and probably mischievous. It was, moreover, the entering wedge for the principle of State socialism to which some of the labor leaders are inclined, though we believe that the mass of workingmen will oppose it when they see what its real effect would be on their own interests.

The financial showing of the Legislature is a little ludicrous. It had set out to avoid a direct tax. At one time the Governor persuaded the leaders that this could be done by dipping into the sinking fund, which was said to be excessive. On examination this device was found to be risky. The Legislature dodged the question by authorizing a direct tax in case the Governor thought it unsafe to divert the sinking fund. The simple plan of reducing appropriations, of spending less, does not seem to have attracted serious attention. The taxpayers, however, are not likely to ignore it. Neither the Legislature nor, we regret to say, our "reform Governor" can be regarded as emerging from their long and apparently bitter quarrel with much credit.

THE OLD ASTOR HOUSE.

A sigh of regret at the announcement of the early abandonment and destruction of the old Astor House is both inevitable and proper, but the regret must be tempered by the knowledge that the famous hotel has survived its own era and retained a share of popularity through eras clearly not its own. It antedates the St. Nicholas, once the most fashionable of Manhattan's hostelries, and the Metropolitan, accounted in its day the most splendid. These long since disappeared, and the present generation knows them not. Lesser but perfectly respectable neighbors of the Astor, like the Carlton House, French's, the International, and the Merchants', renowned as comfortable abiding places for commercial visitors, vanished in the dim past. Among its later contemporaries the Fifth Avenue, which was not built until the Astor House had become middle-aged and acquired mellow traditions, the Clarendon, the Everett House, and the Windsor departed long ago, leaving it in the enjoyment of prosperity.

The Astor House has been a landmark through many of New York's brief generations. When it was built the substantial New Yorkers who had not removed to the exclusive quarter off the lower Bowery dwelt in its neighborhood. It was contiguous to the homes of such wealth and such fashion as the bustling little city possessed. The leading theatre was, speaking roughly, across the way. It was for some years New York's best hotel, for many years among the best, and it has been unique in retaining a distinct individuality and an appreciable measure of prestige to the last. But it has not lately been reckoned with among the hotels of a huge city renowned the world over for the splendor and luxury of its houses of public entertainment.

ADMINISTERING THE TARIFF.

Under any protective tariff as much oppression can be inflicted by the methods of assessing and collecting duties as by the excessive burden of the taxes themselves. The tariff will only be half reformed if the old persecuting and vexatious and hindering methods are retained. According to the representations of Messrs. E. H. VAN INGEN & Co., an old and honorable house of importers, this is the case with the administrative features of the Underwood bill, now before the Democratic caucus of the House of Representatives. This house is convinced that the framers of the new bill have been misled by the Denison Committee of Inquiry, the object of which is alleged to have been the transfer of authority and influence from the Board of Appraisers to the various officers of the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice. However this may be, the defects and faults pointed out are well known and serious and the changes they propose are sound, fair, and practical.

The first of these is: "Let duty be "assessed upon actual cost, without "any regard to the price at the "time of exportation, allowing no "reduction from cost and requiring "no addition to cost." The present law requires a tedious and generally ineffective inquiry as to the market price of goods and in the country from which export is made. Often there is no such thing in existence as an open-market price, and the inquiry, which involves delay and cost, proves practically futile. In any case, it is the actual cost that concerns the Government. If there be evasion or misrepresentation as to this, let it be severely punished. No honest importers would object, but let the honest importer know what he has to pay, ascertained simply by reference to a concrete fact easily established. The second proposition of Messrs. VAN INGEN & Co. is:

> Let the rate of duty be established upon the merchandise itself, not including the value of "cartons, cases "* * * and other containers or cov"erings * * * and all other costs, "charges, and expenses incident to "placing the merchandise in condition, "packed ready for shipment to the "United States. * * *" Also, make commissions non-dutiable.

The teasing exactions here referred to have in the past been intolerable. Most of them are accompanied by penalties, leading to demands for reappraisements and endless bother, delay, and cost. The whole process is worse than useless, because the revenue secured does not begin to offset the numerous items of cost in the collection. About the only tangible result obtained is the hindrance to importation, which, of course, is the real object. It is an object with which the present majority in Congress can have no possible sympathy.

Other suggestions are:

> Provide strict penalties, by confiscation, imprisonment, or both, against any importers undervaluing merchandise. Permit no private settlements or "compounding of felonies," but, by exposure and trial in open court, make such practices unprofitable.
> Let all customs authorities, here and abroad, get into close touch with importers of unquestioned character and credit, for the establishing of real and honest values, the detection of undervaluation, and the stern punishment of the criminals.

These are essential. They go to the efficient, honest, and intelligent enforcement of the whole system. No one doubts that the greater part—the great body—of importers are honorable and law-abiding men, just as the great body of manufacturers are. A relatively small portion of the latter have allowed themselves to sustain an organization of professional protectionists, whose business it has been to secure the most exacting and burdensome administration of the provisions of the tariff. These latter have been persistent, ingenious, unscrupulous, and they have from time to time secured an amount of consideration and co-operation from officers of the Treasury Department to which they were in nowise entitled. The whole spirit of tariff administration should be changed. A candid effort should be made to work in harmony with "importers of character and credit" and to secure their aid, which would gladly be given to suppress evasion and to punish adequately all real offenders. It is to be hoped that this matter will be considered very carefully before legislation takes its final shape. It is second in importance only to the just revision of the duties.

THE COST OF FEAR.

M. YVES GUYOT, in THE SUNDAY TIMES yesterday, gave the details of military expenditures for the six great Powers of Europe which compose the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente. The total runs up to the amazing figure of two billion dollars a year. To this must be added the loss of production by the 2,500,000 young men in the prime of life and vigor withdrawn from industry for service in the armies and navies. Estimating the average value of the productive power of these young men at the moderate rate of $400 annually, we have the total cost of the fighting forces of Europe three billions of dollars.

All the expenditure is practically not for actual war, but for preparation for war. The rise of the Balkan Allies, a powerful military combination on the flank of Austria-Hungary, has deeply moved Germany, so that still larger sums are being devoted to arming, and France has felt it needful to follow her example. Probably the total cost for Europe for the next five years will reach a much greater height. As M. GUYOT says, even the special student can hardly grasp the full significance of these figures any more than one can really grasp the distance between the sun and the earth; but the toiling masses feel, if they do not comprehend, the burden.

SCHOOLS AS SOCIAL CENTRES.

In his address at the twenty-fourth annual dinner of the New York Public Lecture Corps last week Dr. HENRY M. LEIPZIGER, the originator of the system of public school lectures, and their supervisor, dwelt on his favorite idea of the school house as a social centre. In 1889, when these lectures were instituted, the public school buildings were used only for their carefully restricted educational purposes. Many of them are now open day and night the year round as places for the instruction and intelligent diversion of the old as well as the young, where the beneficent influence of music and the fine arts is exerted, where political discussion is encouraged and the intellectual requirements of the people sanely ministered to.

Under Dr. LEIPZIGER's supervision lectures on literature, science, art, and history have been given in the public schools for nearly a quarter of a century, and discussion of the subjects by the audiences has been stimulated, with great benefit to the community. The value of this branch of our system of popular education has probably never been thoroughly realized. It is said that 1,200,000 persons have attended these lectures within the last school year. Dr. LEIPZIGER's efforts in this field deserve earnest recognition. His plan to utilize such of the high schools as have organs for occasional concerts of good music should be encouraged, too, and if he can develop a popular taste for choral music strong enough to lead to the formation of many choral societies he will further increase our debt of gratitude.

THE CONSULAR SERVICE.

The effort of certain Southern Senators and Representatives to overthrow the present system of appointment to the consular service and to minor offices in the diplomatic service, which was instituted by President ROOSEVELT and maintained by President TAFT, has not received the attention it deserves. Senator JOHNSTON of Alabama introduced a resolution requiring the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations to ascertain the relative representation of States in the recent appointments. This was accompanied by a table indicating that the Southern States had no Ambassador and few Ministers, and still fewer Consuls. There is no reason, however, why the Southern States should not be as well represented in the consular service and the lower grades of the diplomatic service as any of the other States if their candidates are able to pass the necessary examinations. The merit system has never been applied to appointments of Ambassadors and Ministers, though both Mr. ROOSEVELT and Mr. TAFT frequently promoted diplomatic officers who had served their country well.

The movement of the Southern members of Congress looks to the abandonment of a plan which has greatly improved the quality of our consular service. This plan has never been supported by law. Executive orders of the two Presidents have sufficed. The Constitution intrusts to the President the appointment of all diplomatic and consular officers. Various bills for the extension of the merit system to those services have been defeated, some members of Congress contending that they were unconstitutional. But there has always been a large and influential party in Congress anxious to return to the old bad way of appointing men to consulships in payment for political service.

The activities of this party could be suppressed, it seems, only by an amendment to the Constitution providing for a permanent diplomatic and consular service, but that would be a radical measure and would require some years for its institution. Meanwhile much depends upon President WILSON. It is not likely that he will be influenced by specious arguments to return to the old custom of filling consulships with worn-out politicians and the poor relations of party leaders.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Welcome Soon Worn Out.

In the years just before the Japanese waged their wars with China and Russia the common American opinion of them was almost altogether favorable. It had been formed chiefly from books written by men of the school most notably represented by LAFCADIO HEARN and PIERRE LOTI—men particularly sensitive to the poetry and art they saw in Japanese life and character, and so impressed by the Japanese virtues of patriotism, courage, and courtesy as to be quite blind to Japanese vices and weaknesses. Then came the wars to prove that the Japanese could stand, better than well, comparison in an ultimate test with Europeans as with Asiatics. There was more to them evidently than a queer and pretty ingenuity and a love for cherry blossoms.

In short, they had come to be respected and liked throughout the Western world, and not least, but perhaps most, in the United States. Even at the height of their popularity they were too distinctly and obviously alien to be accepted as full equals, but we did not feel obliged to assert any superiority.

This American admiration for the Japanese waned rapidly as soon as they began to immigrate here in large numbers, and wherever they settled in considerable colonies it turned first to suspicious dislike and then to such open and fierce hostility as has recently been manifested in California.

The constantly repeated charge against these strangers is that they cannot be trusted in any sort of business—that they have no regard for contracts and too successfully seek unfair advantages over their neighbors. This is one of those "indictments of a nation" which the thoughtful always view with incredulity, for it is the commonest of human tendencies to invent sweeping accusations as an excuse for a dislike based wholly or largely on racial dissimilarities. That there is something, however, in the charge of untrustworthiness, or, to speak bluntly, of dishonesty, in the Japanese is to a certain extent confirmed by the fact that even their friends have felt obliged to recall the low esteem in which the trader, as distinguished from the soldier and the farmer, has always been held by the Japanese, and to offer this as an explanation of the observed fault. It isn't much of an explanation in the present case, since it is to Japanese engaged in agriculture to whom California most hotly objects.

Nobody denies the intelligence or the industry of the Japanese, and certainly not all of them are dishonest. Their one real crime, probably, is the lower standard of living that contents their peasant and commercial classes.

Why Teachers Are Not Trusted.

Recurring to the subject of teachers and the curiously mitigated respect in which, as a class, they are held by other people, it may be worth while to note what may be, and probably is, the underlying reason for the general refusal to see in them the safe guides which unquestionable superiority to ordinary folk in knowledge and morals ought to make them.

That the teacher suffers from too much association with those to whom he speaks on all subjects, if not as a final authority, at least as one not to be contradicted, has often been admitted by members of the teaching profession. What they almost never confess, however, is that they suffer still more from an imagined necessity to establish for and maintain over their pupils a "discipline" that utterly confuses right and wrong, treats trifles as momentous, violates natural laws of growth and development, transposes ends and means, and, unconsciously but effectively, serves the teacher's convenience at the child's terrible cost.

The notable "disciplinarian" is one who has banished from his classroom all signs of the physical restlessness which is characteristic of normal youth, who has suppressed all initiative except his own, and who commands the "unquestioning obedience" which is the truly horrible thing of which fatuous parents as well as fatuous teachers so frequently boast as if it were a noble achievement. Unquestioning obedience in armies is admirable, because necessary to the attainment of purposes compared with which even the soldier's life is negligible. In schools, the children themselves are the objects of all action, and the more automatic their behavior, the more their impulses and behavior are forced into compliance with an arbitrary, artificial and despotic code, the more seriously are they injured.

And always the upholder of such a code is himself among its victims. He loses the sense of proportion, the appreciation of relative values, the ability to discriminate between the trivial and the important. He becomes, in short, "academic," at best a somewhat comic figure, out of touch with reality—about the last person to whom anybody goes for advice when confronted by a serious difficulty. More often than not he commits the ultimate absurdity of boasting that he is behind the times—is an observer of tradition. It will take something very different from the attainment of the Presidency by a teacher to change this situation and to win for "the professor" something better than a kindly smile.

Reflections Upon a Desecration.

All who are not obsessed by sentimentality must doubt the existence of an adequate excuse for all of the horror and indignation that is finding voice, just now, over the sale of the Browning letters.

One notes, first, that though the virtuous Britons are paying enormous prices for curios of various kinds, more or less ancient and artistic, none of them has been sufficiently enraged by the marketing of these sacred documents to buy them up at the price of half a dozen good old chairs or a set of apostle spoons, and with a single match to make them forever safe from desecrating eyes. Again, never an excited protestant remembers that both BROWNING and his wife, neither of whom was an unsophisticated person, simply must have known that, sooner or later, unless they themselves destroyed these letters, just what has happened would happen. If the prospect had really and deeply alarmed them, is it not probable that they would have taken the easy and decisive action required for making the "outrage" impossible?

It would be unjust, presumably, or at best an exaggeration, to say that the letters were consciously and intentionally written with the likelihood of posthumous publication in mind, and yet—and yet—well, consciously and intentionally they did take the risk, and they hardly would have done so had they held it as appalling as these critics, generous of exclamations, but sparing of money, pretend to believe.

Many of the letters, and no doubt the best of them, have already appeared in print. The chances are that the famous dead will not be much disturbed by any publicity that the rest may get. In the circumstances it is a rather plausible theory that most of the British pain comes from the knowledge that these "secrets of the heart" appealed most to an American collector.

TRY TO ENCOURAGE BOYS.

"Big Brothers" Do Not Seek to Reform Criminals, Secretary Says.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was with great surprise that I read in Saturday's TIMES a letter from a Mr. Sirovich criticising the recent dinner of the Big Brothers. That dinner, at which the President of the Big Brother Movement was toastmaster, was for the entertainment of the boys in whom we have been interested for the last seven or eight years. Mr. Sirovich is evidently entirely misinformed as to the work and purposes of this movement.

Boys are coming to us daily for help and guidance, chiefly in securing employment; some of their own initiative, some brought by their parents and friends, and some through the Children's Court, the victims of improper environment or guardianship. It matters very little to us what the boy has been. His gang, his poor home surroundings, the court, are seldom if ever mentioned. The boy is encouraged to look up and ahead.

To the best of my knowledge, not one of the boys present at the dinner is on probation. Mr. Sirovich misses the entire spirit of the Big Brother Movement and of the Children's Court work when he writes: "There is nothing that so discourages the reform of the criminal as the fact that others know of his past." We are not engaged in reform work among criminals.

There is no occasion for secrecy. Our little guests have done well; they have made good. We are proud of that, and of them. We trust that Mr. Sirovich will get better acquainted with us and become a Big Brother—and we promise his letter of criticism will never be mentioned!

R. C. SHELDON, General Secretary.

IS CHOCOLATE HARMFUL?

Habitual Users Are Worried About Its Ultimate Effects.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May we ask your anti-coffee correspondents if there is anything harmful about chocolate? We drink neither tea nor coffee, but we have what might be called the chocolate habit. We nibble milk chocolate during the forenoon, drink a cup of hot chocolate at noon, nibble some more in the afternoon, and some more on the way home at night, and in very cold weather we drink a cup of hot chocolate before retiring.

All this chocolate seems to agree with us, but we are worrying about its ultimate effect upon the system—whether it will shorten life, darken the complexion, turn the blood to water, or what. We have been told that it may do one or more or all of the three.

Now, notwithstanding that chocolate is our comfort and standby during working hours—we never touch it on Sundays or holidays—if any of these things are likely to happen we will drop it at once. Any information that can be given us on this point will be much appreciated.

Riverside Drive Roadway.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noticed an article in THE SUNDAY TIMES, together with a cut showing the surface roadway of Riverside Drive at about 150th Street, and to me, knowing the conditions, it appears an unfair criticism of Park Commissioner Stover. In the immediate vicinity of this location there is considerable building operation, and, owing to the steep incline or grade of the streets, it is next to impossible for heavy trucks loaded with brick and tons of steel to come down the street grades from Broadway. They are compelled to come through the unpaved street, 151st Street from Broadway, and then down the Drive to the location of these building operations, one at 150th Street, one at 149th Street, just finished, and one at 148th Street, in the course of erection. Thus the roadway at this particular location has been somewhat cut up.

I merely make this statement with the idea that you may not have known the reason, and it would be only fair to Commissioner Stover if the facts were properly stated, so that the reading public would understand the true situation.

FEATHERS OF GAME BIRDS.

Their Exclusion by Tariff Bill Declared Unwarranted.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A glaringly inconsistent, unjust, and unnecessary provision in the proposed new Tariff bill is the following:

> That the importation of aigrettes, egret plumes or so-called osprey plumes and the feathers, quills, heads, wings, tails, skins or parts of skins of wild birds, either raw or manufactured, and not for scientific or educational purposes, is hereby prohibited; but this provision shall not apply to the feathers or plumes of ostriches, or to the feathers or plumes of domestic fowls of any kind.

In the matter of the "aigrettes, egret plumes, or so-called osprey plumes" few object to their prohibition. But why—in the name of common sense, why prohibit the importation of feathers from game birds killed for food and sport, or the feathers of pestiferous birds killed to save crops? The hunting of these birds will continue—why not use their feathers?

The millinery trade will suffer irreparable injury if this provision becomes a law; nevertheless no representative of the feather trade was allowed a chance to speak a word against it before it was inserted in the schedule.

The committee judged the case after hearing one side of it only, and by inserting the prohibition the Audubonites asked they have done what they could do to force scores of men out of business and thousands of employes out of work; thus the method of adopting this provision was unfair, unreasonable, unjust, and indefensible.

Feathers of game birds and pestiferous birds constitute a most important part of all importations. Paradise birds come from the Island of New Guinea, the Government of which amply protects the birds, forbidding their taking or shipment during half the year, the breeding season; so important a source of revenue are they, both in their sale and export duty, that they are carefully conserved, and in no danger of extinction. Nor does the millinery trade oppose any reasonable conservation. Rather it favors it, for obvious reasons.

Furthermore, the several States are taking care of the matter, as is proved by the laws in many of them prohibiting the use of native birds. Even if this were not so, the Democratic Party is tackling enough of a job in adjusting the tariff without dragging in the question of conserving bird life in foreign countries. Again, it would be better to hold an international congress of bird conservationists before taking action having international effect. What would we say if Great Britain, Germany, or France passed a law to protect birds in the United States?

POOR SUFFRAGE ARGUMENTS.

Money Spent by the Women Is Earned by the Men.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mrs. La Follette is reported to have said before the Senate Committee, in her argument for woman suffrage: "Women do the buying; 90 per cent. of the $10,000,000,000 paid out annually * * * is spent by women."

It is interesting to note that Mrs. La Follette does not refer to the fact that probably 90 per cent. of the above-named $9,000,000,000 was earned by the men, and that women act only as men's agents in spending this money, and that as it is a trifle more difficult to earn than to spend money it might be fairer to allow those whose earning capacity is affected by legislation to have more say in framing the laws than those whose spending capacity only is affected.

As for Dr. Anna Howard Shaw's remarks, if she is quoted accurately, they cannot fail to injure the "cause," and might, on that account, be ignored, but at the same time they are so insulting that it seems to me they should not pass unnoticed. She is reported to have said in speaking of the women opposed to suffrage: "They are just enough in number so that by holding out their skirts they can make a screen for the men operating dens of vice and iniquity to hide behind."

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw talks a lot about morality and the uplifting influence which will be insured when women have the vote. I presume Dr. Shaw includes accuracy of statement in her list of these moral attributes. Very well, then, let her name these leaders of anti-suffrage behind whose skirts are hiding men operating dens of vice. Freedom of speech is one thing, but libel is another.

It would seem that the diminishing number of those who believe in suffrage are growing desperate indeed when they resort to insult and slander as a substitute for the few threadbare "arguments" with which they attempt to uphold their "cause."

EVADING THE TARIFF.

Penalties Urged for Factories That Move Abroad.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have heard and read that several of the representative manufacturing concerns of this country have stated through their officers that, in order for them to continue in business under the Tariff act now pending in Congress, it will be necessary to move their factories to the other side, so that they may have the advantage of the cheap labor that can be obtained over there. Investigations have shown us that any such statements are merely threats which would never be put into operation, and which are made with the idea of having pressure brought to bear on our legislators to ease up in their tariff activities, for, as has been shown in the investigations of the past few years, every one of these representative manufacturing concerns is returning a profit on its investment the size of which makes every holder of its stock rub his hands in glee. Any attempt to move their factories to foreign climes would be prompted only by the greed of their stockholders to keep their profits at high-water mark.

Provision should be made that if any company operating in this country should, after the passage of the present law, move its factories to foreign parts, the amount of the duty on the goods which it shall ship here should be increased to such a figure as to make it prohibitive, thus excluding its products and leaving the field to others who would be willing to accept smaller profits. Furthermore, provision should be made declaring criminal, and punishable as such, any attempts made to evade the operation of this plan by having the goods shipped here through any dummy foreign concerns.

I am sure that if one of our statesmen who has the good of his country at heart would accept the idea and work it into a law, the possibilities of a repetition of the sad scenes of 1893 would be greatly lessened.

Women's Tailor-Made Suits.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wanted to buy a suit for myself and went to the various good stores and found the same condition in all. The tailor-made suits of the present style—narrow, short skirts and tight coats—surely do not require as much material as in former seasons, when long and full skirts were worn, yet there is no difference in price. There is less cloth in the suit, much less than formerly, and surely less workmanship. Who is getting the profit—the manufacturer or the storekeeper? At any rate, the public pays as usual.

MR. BRYAN AND WINE

Diplomats Knew Late Findings of Science Favored His Course.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Bryan, in serving grape juice instead of wine at his recent dinner to the Diplomatic Corps at Washington, showed himself to be cognizant of and in sympathy with the latest teachings of science as to the nature and effects of alcoholic drinks. The old ideas of wine and other alcoholic liquors were that these were useful as food, as refreshers, as aids to digestion, and as stimulants to conversation when wit and humor lagged. As it is the nature of these drinks to create a decided liking for themselves they long ago obtained an established place in social entertainments. Science has learned, through modern instruments of precision and through careful experiments, that the old ideas of the usefulness of alcohol in the human economy were delusions due to its narcotic action, and that alcohol is a poison to the cells of the body in proportion to the amount consumed. It takes courage of a high order to break with established social customs, especially in the withdrawal of that which so many have formed a habit of taking with meals, and miss because of the desire for it which is the result of that habit. The country should be proud that its new Secretary of State is possessed of this brand of courage. It may mean much yet in other lines.

At one time America led the world in opposing the consumption of alcoholic beverages, and it was then considered "bad form" to thrust total abstinence ideas upon foreigners of note who might be guests in this country. That day has passed. Every civilized country is now fighting alcohol, and several European countries are now doing more than America in educating the public in the scientific objections to indulgence in alcohol. Every diplomat at Mr. Bryan's table would know that he was better without wine than with it; the day of ignorance is gone for men in such position, hence they would be more likely to admire than to condemn Mr. Bryan's action.

There are no men to whom clear brains are more essential than those in the diplomatic service. The experiments of Kraepelin, a careful German investigator, show that very small quantities of wine interfere with the highest functions of the brain; judgment is not so reliable, and memory is more or less confused. It has been said that but for the inflaming power of wine upon the brain and its perverting of judgment some of the bloody wars of the past might have been averted. One of the more recent discoveries of science is that alcohol, like ether and chloroform, has a tendency to dissolve the lipoid material of the blood cells. There is more of this delicate lipoid material in the brain than in any other part of the body, hence the brain is very easily disturbed by alcohol. When this finding of science becomes generally known, astute business men will not allow a perverted palate to occasion impairment of the brain. Trade competitions are too keen.

As considerable adverse criticism of Mr. Bryan's action has been published, it may not be out of place to refer further to what recent medical science says of alcohol. One very strong objection to indulgence in wine, beer, whisky, etc., is the fact that alcohol impairs the natural resistance of the body to the inroads of disease. Metchnikoff found that even very minute doses of alcohol will paralyze the defenses of the body so that they are unable to do full duty in destroying dangerous microbes. Laitinen of Helsingfors, Abbott of Pennsylvania, and Welch of Johns Hopkins, all learned by careful experiments that animals to whom alcohol was given day after day succumbed to infectious diseases much more readily than animals to whom no alcohol was given. Dr. Welch says: "This lowered resistance is manifested both by increased liability to contract the disease and by the greater severity of the disease."

Knowing the well-attested objections to alcohol, as Mr. Bryan undoubtedly does, for he has been an interested student of temperance matters for years, how could he serve to his guests beverages discredited by the leading medical investigators of the world? Instead of weakly bowing to foolish custom which has come down from days of ignorance and debauchery, he dared to begin a new custom at diplomatic dinners.

Park Playground Attendants.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you kindly give this a little space in your valuable paper? It seems to be the only means of obtaining our rights, as I understand Commissioner Stover detests the press notoriety. I think the Bureau of Recreation in the Park Department acts in a very unfair manner to some of their playground attendants. Those fortunate to be detailed get full time no matter how the weather is, and those who do the actual work are laid off if the weather is cloudy or a little damp in the morning and lose the day's salary.

The question is this, Why don't they open the grounds and keep the children off the streets and from the moving picture neighborhoods? The children who go to the playgrounds are out in all kinds of weather, and that is well known to Mr. Stover. What I would like to know is, who gets the money the teachers are deprived of, as there is an appropriation to pay them for every day in the year?

THE LOVE LETTERS.

Cursed be he that moves my bones.
—Shakespeare's Epitaph.

My Shakespeare's curse on clown and knave
Who will not let his ashes rest.
—Tennyson.

So England's last great bard in bitter song
Scourged those who raised "the scandal and the cry"
And would not let a poet's ashes lie
In peace, but tore his heart before the throng!
On such he launched his curse and Shakespeare's, strong!
And now again the greedy vultures fly
To tear two poets' hearts 'neath English sky;
Again the "irreverent doom," the shameless wrong!
But deeper—caused by greed—the wrong
by far,
Than that which winged the Laureate's wrath and scorn.
The Brownings' love was orbed like a star
Which shone undimmed, but now, love letters torn
From reverent keeping, to the crowd are cast—
The Brownings' hearts to auction come at last!

MATTHEWS'S BOOK ASSAILED IN SOUTH

Alabama Woman Says Columbia Professor Isn't Fair to Literature There.

WOULD BAR IT FROM SCHOOL

She Puts Longstreet with Franklin, Cooke with Irving and Simms with Cooper—No Use for Whittier.

The use of Prof. Brander Matthews's text book, "Introduction to the Study of American Literature," in high schools in the Southern States, has been assailed vigorously by Mrs. Townes Randolph Leigh, State Historian of the Alabama Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, on the ground that the author has made but an insignificant presentation of Southern literature, with the result that thousands of children are leaving the high schools in that section of the country each year without a fair knowledge of the true place of Southern writers in American literature. Mrs. Leigh's criticism of Prof. Matthews's book, the title of which she calls a "misnomer," has been received with a good deal of serious consideration, especially by the Principals and teachers in Alabama High Schools, who have supplemented the "Introduction to the Study of American Literature" with more complete studies of Southern literature.

In her appeal to the Boards of Education in the South, Mrs. Leigh says:

"There are 9,045 pupils in the High Schools of Alabama, 1,400 of whom are candidates for graduation this season. Most of the pupils who finish will never go to school again, and will live their allotted time without knowing the great treasure of Southern literature which Prof. Matthews has made insignificant in his presentation. To our children has been given a concoction, marked strawberry jam, not unlike that jam recently condemned by the Government Bureau of Chemistry after analysis had disclosed that it contained boiled turnips as a base, grass seed as a substitute for those of the real berry, glucose as a sweetening, aniline dye as a coloring, and artificial flavoring. The Government called a halt, not because the jam was injurious, but because it was falsely labeled. I consider that the mental food for our children should receive as rigid inspection as their physical. For that reason I call a halt on the use of Prof. Matthews's textbook, in that it is not what its title purports it to be.

"If the book is American, why bring in selections from Halleck and Drake and give not one single quotation from Poe's poems? If American, why does Prof. Matthews mention Seton Thompson and forget to speak of Audubon? Why neglect to mention Thomas Nelson Page, who ranks side by side with Lowell, who is lauded through eighteen pages?

"Prof. Matthews's book contains twenty-eight portraits of literary men, and of this number only two Southerners are represented—Edgar Allan Poe and Joel Chandler Harris. The picture of the latter is so small it may be covered with the thumb. Though the book contains 269 pages, only two short sentences are devoted to that inimitable Georgian, whose unforgettable figure of Uncle Remus will sit by the fireside on Winter nights and entertain countless children and grown-ups, years after moths have devoured the 269 pages written by the partisan Professor, who gives a list of 288 literary contributions by Americans, among which are found only 24 from the pens of Southerners.

"Nowhere in Prof. Matthews's textbook appears the patrician countenance of Sidney Lanier, although Lanier's and Poe's writings form the highest course given in the English departments of some of America's and England's greatest universities. Not a single poem of that gifted Lanier is called by name. His genius is completely concealed when he and Henry Timrod are both disposed of in a single breath, 'Both died before their allotted time, partly because of weakness brought on by exposure while they were fighting for the lost cause.'

"On the other hand, seventeen pages are devoted to the plebeian, Whittier, whose clumsy pen so often stumbled and fell as he mixed indifferent verse with abolition ribble with such rancor that his own fellow-citizens rose up as an indignant mob and sacked and burned his printing office. Prof. Matthews, after using seventeen pages of written notes, says: 'It is the hard fate of nearly all writing done to aid a cause that it is killed by its own success—so interest in these polemic writings is now mainly historical.'

"He thereby acknowledges Whittier to be a minor poet, and yet, to be brief, he has given more space to this political writer, who 'threw himself into the abolition movement'—and 'poetry had become a weapon in a good fight'—than he gave to all the sweet-voiced Southern poets taken together. In fact, with the exception of Poe, who, Matthews claims, was born in Boston, all mention made of Southern literature may be written on one page. Yet Matthews calls this book American literature!

"Mr. Matthews says Benjamin Franklin and Jonathan Edwards were the first Americans known abroad. Why does not Matthews mention more fully Capt. John Smith of Virginia, who, in 1624, published his 'Generall Historie,' an amusing and picturesque account of America, and whose story of the Indian Princess, Pocahontas, is related in United States histories?

"With Benjamin Franklin should be compared the author scientist of Mississippi, William Longstreet. Washington Irving should be followed by John Esten Cooke, both writers of the same type of classic humor, though their characters are divided by geographical lines. James F. Cooper is not greater than Simms, William Cullen Bryant than Wilde, Emerson than Beverly Tucker who wrote the wonderful novel, 'The Partisan Leader.' Halleck and Drake cannot compare with Hayne and Timrod, nor Hawthorne with James Lane Allen. Only Poe equals Sidney Lanier, as does Longfellow Father Ryan.

"Evidently Matthews's book was written with the hope of selling it to Northern school children, and of having it published by Northern syndicates whose agents would then place it in Southern schools through the indorsement of Boards of Education and Textbook Commissions in compliment to a Southern author. Therefore the slavery question is used to color our American nation, the paint skillfully applied by a Southern man who has become a Northern extraction of a Southerner.

"Boards of Education, I fear your selection of Matthews's textbook is unfair to the land of your fathers. I beseech you, save our Israel, our Southland, through the coming generation, our children from the bitter partisan school books!"

ORESTE HAITI'S PRESIDENT.

Rioting Signalizes the Election—Gunboat Nashville on Guard.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, May 4.—The Haitian Congress to-day elected Michel Oreste President of the Republic to succeed Gen. Tancrede Auguste, whose death occurred Friday night. Oreste was a Senator.

Both before and after the election serious disorders occurred, in which there was much rifle firing. The rioting began during the services at the funeral of Gen. Auguste, which were held at the Cathedral. Several fusillades were fired in different parts of the town, and a panic ensued among the great assemblage in the Cathedral. Many women and children were trampled upon and seriously injured in the rush to escape from the building.

Troops which were in readiness for such an emergency were called out and temporarily re-established order. The firing for a time ceased, and the funeral ceremony was brought to a close without further incident.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—To be on hand for any possible contingencies in connection with the accession of a new President of Haiti, the gunboat Nashville, one of the naval watchdogs of the West Indies, sailed to-day from San Domingo City for Port-au-Prince. The gunboat was ordered to the Haitian Capital upon the announcement of President Auguste's death.

VOICE OF THE STAGE HEARD FROM PULPIT

Rev. Dr. Reisner Quotes Answers of Managers to Questions of Morals and Purpose.

CITY IS AMUSEMENT MAD

New York Needs to Laugh to be Saved, He Says—Much Good as Well as Evil in Theatre, He Adds.

The tightly housed residents of New York are in need of amusement more than any other people on earth, according to Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, 104th Street, between Amsterdam and Columbus Avenues, who preached last night on the subject, "Is It Wrong to Go to the Theatre?"

In order that the members of his congregation might understand more fully the relation between the Church and the theatre, Dr. Reisner at the close of his sermon read a series of answers from some of the leading theatrical managers to whom he had propounded such questions as these:

> Why should the theatre expect the sympathy and co-operation of the Church?
> How can the Church aid the theatre?
> Does the theatre aim to uplift as fully as it does to amuse?
> Do most players have a religious faith?

"Theatres do good, but they also do much harm," said the Rev. Dr. Reisner, "and they must awake to that fact or they will sink into deep disgrace and meet another time-deserved malediction. There are entirely too many easy divorces among actors and actresses. The drama treats immoral acts too openly and naturally.

"When the stage consents, under any plea, to make it more difficult to blush over immorality, then it helps tear down character, and so becomes a menace. A recent investigation in Kansas City showed that of the 250,000 people there on an average each contributed $20 a year to the theatre. That average probably will hold in New York. The tightly housed residents of this city need amusement more than any other people on earth. But the mere popularity of the theatre is no sign of its righteousness. People are amusement mad in New York. That is why they permit the cabaret, so often disgustingly lewd

"The theatre has a great responsibility, and a wonderful opportunity to lift and better our citizenship."

Replying to the first question of Dr. Reisner, "Why should the theatre expect the sympathy and co-operation of the church?" Daniel Frohman gave as a reason that "the theatre illustrates by means of the drama the lessons of good triumphing over evil." George M. Cohan said: "The theatres produce plays not only for entertainment but many with good morals." Marcus Loew believed that the theatres had made families happy by drawing fathers from the saloons, and H. H. Frazee thought that theatres provided a moral as well as a theatrical premise in addition to entertainment.

As to "How can the church aid the theatre?" practically all the managers were agreed that a great service could be done by commending good and wholesome plays to the congregations.

In answer to the question, "What is the mission of the theatre?" Mr. Frohman said:

"To show the tendencies and temptations that human nature is subjected to; its tendencies to obtain happiness sometimes by means of that which is wrong; and to prove that real happiness in life comes from the exercise of noble qualities of self-sacrifice and in obeying the laws of God and of man. The drama is a conflict between the human mind and the will."

Mr. Cohan felt that the mission of the theatre was "to entertain the public," while Mr. Loew confessed frankly that with him it was a "matter of business, conducted, however, in a very respectable and honorable manner."

The question, "Does the theatre aim to uplift as fully as it does to amuse?" was answered in the affirmative by Messrs. Cohan, Loew, Frazee and Albee. Mr. Payne said:

The reasons "Why the stage produces so many plays that deal with sex problems" were summarized by Mr. Frohman as follows:

"First, because love is the greatest factor in human life; second, marriage problems and experience result from mistaken notions of life and love; third, dramatic philosophers or writers aim to dissect these problems; fourth, the effect upon human character developed from perverted ideas and unhappy experiences resulting from those mistaken ideas of love or of marriage based on passion, ambition or other impulses are thus utilized to show results of modern tendencies."

All the managers were agreed that there was an improvement in the morals of plays.

According to Mr. Frohman, some of the reasons "Why Shakespearean plays failed to pay" were, "inadequate interpretation," "unauthoritative artists," and probably a "lack of taste for the poetic form of drama." He was corroborated by Messrs. Loew, Frazee, Payne and Albee. Mr. Cohan suggested that the public had seen Shakespearean plays so often that it had tired of them.

Mr. Frohman answered "yes" to the final question put by Dr. Reisner, "Do most players have a religious faith?" Mr. Cohan also answered "yes," while Mr. Loew asserted: "Among those players with whom I am acquainted, I find that the majority have religious faith."

SIR TATTON SYKES IS DEAD.

He Was the Owner of Vast Estates and Was Well Known Here.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 4.—Sir Tatton Sykes died in London to-day after a long illness.

Sir Tatton Sykes was in his eighty-eighth year. His vast estates in Yorkshire, 34,000 acres in extent, now descend to his only son, Lieut. Col. Mark Sykes, who served with distinction in the South African War.

Sir Tatton and Lady Sykes were well-known in the United States, to which they had made frequent visits. Lady Sykes, who died in 1912, was the eldest daughter of the Right Hon. George Augustus Cavendish-Bentinck, a grandson of the third Duke of Portland.

PAUL A. SORG DEAD.

Widely Known Horseman Succumbs to Heart Disease After Short Illness.

Paul Arthur Sorg, 34 years old, widely known as an owner and exhibitor of show horses, died yesterday at his home, 12 East Eighty-seventh Street. His death was due to heart disease, which followed a heavy cold contracted three weeks ago. Mr. Sorg was born in Middletown, Ohio, on July 22, 1878, the son of Paul J. Sorg, one of the largest tobacco manufacturers in the world. He was educated in the Middletown public schools, the Kenyon Military Academy, the Westminster School at Dobbs Ferry, and at the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale, from which he was graduated in 1901.

Mr. Sorg's first attempt for honors in the show ring was in 1901 when he entered a road four at Madison Square Garden. In 1905 and 1906 he again exhibited his horses, this time at Pittsburgh as well as New York. At both exhibitions he won blue ribbons. Thereafter Mr. Sorg established a stable and entered his horses at all the large exhibitions. His most prominent winners were Heather Bell and Black Rose, My Lady and Lady Grayce, His Majesty and His Highness, and the road four, Daylight and Dawn and Midday and Sunset.

Mr. Sorg was married on June 22, 1904, to Miss Grayce Aull of Pittsburgh. He was a member of the Queen City Club of Cincinnati, Ohio; the Dayton City Club of Dayton, Ohio; the New York Athletic Club, the Larchmont Yacht, the New York Automobile Club, and the Chi Phi Fraternity. He was interested in several large enterprises in Middletown, Ohio.

Edwin K. Martin Dead.

Edwin K. Martin, 68 years old, President of the American Real Estate Company until his retirement five years ago, died yesterday from arterio-sclerosis at his home, Overcliff, in Alta Avenue, Park Hill, Yonkers. He was born in Millersville, Penn., in 1844. At the outbreak of the civil war he joined the Pennsylvania Volunteers. He served throughout the war, and for six months was a member of Gen. Sherman's staff. After the war he practiced law in Lancaster, Penn., later coming to Yonkers, where he entered the real estate business. Mr. Martin was a graduate of Phillips Andover Academy, Amherst College, and the Columbia Law School.

A FRENCH THEATRE TO BE OPENED HERE

Persons Prominent in Society Have Agreed to be Patrons of the Venture.

COMPANY INCORPORATED

Actors from Paris Will Be Engaged to Give Classic Plays and Those by Modern French Authors.

Plans are under way to found a French theatre in New York. The matter has reached the stage where a detailed announcement of the scope of the venture is to be made by the Directors in a few days, together with a list of patrons. The project will be carried out by a company which has been incorporated and which will be called Le Theatre Francais Company, Incorporated.

It is not a commercial venture, but had its beginning among French-speaking persons in New York who wished to have a place where they could hear French, classical and modern, drama performed by French actors and actresses. Many persons prominent in society have accepted invitations to be patrons and patronesses, and it is said that when the list of these is complete it will include names which will make it second in importance only to the Metropolitan Opera boxholders' list among similar activities. The managing directors of the organization are Alfred Baldwin Sloane, the composer, and Georges Raoul Vtober. Their office is at 500 Fifth Avenue.

It is expected that the first plays will be presented next season, and the players for the company are now under consideration. The actors will be brought from Paris. The theatre for the company has not been decided upon. The Directors want an auditorium seating some 800. If a theatre meeting this need can be leased, it is believed that it will be used for the first season. Eventually it is expected that a theatre will be built to house the company.

A novel feature of the plan calls for the performance in French of successful American plays. The purpose is to adapt them here and perform them, so as to prepare the way for a production in France that will be calculated to show the American dramatist at his best.

The present plan of the promoters is to present some twelve plays in the first season. The authors who will be represented are Moliere, Corneille, Racine, Beaumarchais, Scribe and Sardou. At the end of the season the most successful play of the year in Paris will be produced.

In the season there will be two subscription nights, Monday and Wednesday, when it is expected that the audiences will be restricted to those who have been invited to be patrons and patronesses of the theatre. There will be other performances open to the general public, and probably some special arrangements will be made for performances of the standard works for the benefit of school children and students of French literature.

PLANS MASSAGE CLINIC.

New Society Proposes to Work Under Medical Supervision.

At a meeting of the New York Society of Graduates in Medical Gymnastics and Massage, held yesterday in the Academy of Medicine, 17 West Forty-third Street, it was decided to open a clinic for the administration of treatments. The site of the proposed clinic has not been decided, but it is expected that one will be chosen in time to open the clinic in August or September.

The clinic will be under the supervision of the Medical Advisory Board of the society, and only those patients will be treated who show a prescription signed by a duly licensed physician stating the particular massage treatment or medical gymnastics advisable in the case.

The Society for Medical Gymnastics and Massage was organized less than a year ago. Its policy is to include only persons of good moral character, who thoroughly understand the application of medical gymnastics and massage, and to put this form of therapeutics under the supervision of the medical societies of the State.

DR. CHASE IN "SOUL TRIO."

Physician to Join Wife and Dennett in Their Country Retreat.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 4.—Dr. H. Lincoln Chase, agent of the Brookline Board of Health, has resigned and will retire to the East Alstead farm, where his wife, Margaret Chase, and her "soul mate," Hartley Dennet, are living with the Chase children.

The physician, who has a lucrative practice here, will practice in the New Hampshire community which holds in such high regard the principals in this astonishing romance. There, by his actual presence, he will sanction openly the friendship between his wife and Dennett.

Up among the New Hampshire hills, shut off from conventional society, this trio of soul mate, husband, and wife will put to a test their uncommon theories of life.

John T. Terry, Banker, Dead.

John Taylor Terry, 91 years old, head of the banking house of E. D. Morgan & Co., died at midnight on Saturday at his home, 75 Park Avenue. He was born at Hartford, Conn., on Sept. 9, 1822, and was educated at private schools in Hartford, Westfield and Ellington. He came to New York in 1841 as a clerk in the banking house of E. D. Morgan, and in 1883, when Mr. Morgan died, Mr. Terry became head of the house. He has been a leading figure in financial affairs for nearly sixty years and was connected as a Director, Vice President, or Trustee with many large corporations, chief among which were the American Exchange National Bank, Commercial Union Assurance Company, Limited, of London; International Ocean Telegraph Company, Manhattan Railway Company, Mercantile Trust Company, Metropolitan Trust Company, Wabash Railroad Company, and the United States Telegraph Company. For nearly thirty years Mr. Terry has been a Trustee of the New York Institution for the Deaf. He was a member of the Union League Club and many patriotic societies.

A CHOLMONDELEY HEIRESS.

Washington Girl, Once Centre of Scandal, Gives Birth to Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Notice was published in a local paper to-day of the birth of a daughter to Lord and Lady Cholmondeley on May 3 at Cholmondeley Castle, England.

Lady Cholmondeley was formerly Clara Elizabeth Taylor, and is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Taylor of Cleveland Park, a suburb of Washington. She was one of the chorus girls who went to London several years ago in "Dolly Varden," of which Mabel Gilman, now Mrs. William E. Corey, was the star.

In London she married John Alexander Stirling of Edinburgh, then a Lieutenant of the Scots Guards, and they seemed very devoted for a time. But in 1909 Stirling brought suit for divorce, the case attracting much attention on both sides of the Atlantic.

Stirling named as corespondent Lord Northland, whom he had supposed to be a friend. Mrs. Stirling brought a counter suit, naming Mrs. Mabel Atherton, a noted beauty, with whom she and her husband and Lord Northland had traveled.

Lieut. Stirling won the suit, and his divorced wife returned to the stage. She was playing at George Edwardes's Gaiety Theatre in March, 1911, when she was married to Lord George Hugo Cholmondeley, second son of the Marquis of Cholmondeley, at the Registry Office in London. The daughter, just born, is their first child.

Jamieson Brings In Philadelphia.

The American liner Philadelphia arrived yesterday from Southampton by way of Cherbourg with 350 first cabin passengers and mails under command of John C. Jamieson, the Commodore of the fleet, who relieved Capt. Mills, who is taking a vacation. The St. Louis, which is the Commodore's regular ship, was to have started in the service in April, but the repairs in her engine room were not completed. She will probably sail from Southampton on May 31.

Dinner to Wise on May 12.

More than 250 lawyers and merchants have accepted invitations to the subscription dinner to United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise, to be held on Monday, May 12, at the Waldorf-Astoria, in recognition of his services as a public officer and of the esteem in which he is held by the men with whom he has had legal and business connections during his four-year term as Federal District Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

Children's League to Meet.

The Children's League No. 1, of the Children's Educational Theatre, will hold an open meeting at the Harris Theatre next Sunday afternoon. A programme of dramatic and musical numbers will be presented, there will be some solo dancing, and an address by Eleanor Gates, author of "The Poor Little Rich Girl." Mary Shaw will present "Francis Wilson's Idea," and Curtis Burnley will be seen in impersonations of child life.

To Present Three Short Plays.

The Educational Players will present three short plays under the direction of Emma Sheridan Fry at the Adolph Lewisohn Auditorium of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls, Second Avenue and Fifteenth Street, on the evenings of May 15 and 17. The plays to be given are "In Far Bohemia," by Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland; "The Aulis Difficulty," by Maurice Baring, and "An Oak in a Storm." Among those who will appear are Anna Goldstein, Sonia Zinberg, Jack Delmonte, Sarah Silberg, Morris Fein, Minnie Nemetsky, Isidore Shapiro, and Celeste Danes.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

John Mason, by arrangement with Charles Frohman, will appear under the management of the Shuberts in Augustus Thomas's "As a Man Thinks" for an eleven weeks' tour to the Coast, beginning June 16.

The one hundredth performance of "Romance" will take place at Maxine Elliott's Theatre to-morrow night.

"The Whip" enters upon the last two weeks of its engagement at the Manhattan Opera House this evening. The piece reopens in Chicago on Aug. 30.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

Notwithstanding that this is a day of comparatively large returns in the field of investment, it is none the less necessary for investors to discriminate in making selections. With conservative investment bonds yielding from 4½% to 6%, there is no occasion to sacrifice safety for the sake of liberal income. However, even among conservative investment bonds, some are more attractive than others, and for this reason prudent investors seek the advice of those who can be depended upon to guide them along the right lines. We are always ready to give investors the benefit of our knowledge and experience in selecting security issues.

Nobody Can Expect

to buy at the bottom or sell at the top, but shrewd investors at the present time are buying sound bonds because they are cheap. Their prices are affected by the only influence which depresses sound bonds, and that is, high rates for money.

As the recommendation of a bond by this organization has invariably been reliable evidence of its dependability, and as our current offerings are made on the basis of the present high rates for money, investors would seem wise in taking advantage of present opportunities. We offer municipal, railroad, and public utility bonds adapted to every requirement.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION IN AMERICA AND EUROPE

There can be no doubt that more saving and less spending would quickly begin to cure some of the conditions which have been finding reflection in the adverse movement of security values. The accumulation of capital has not been commensurate with the degree of prosperity which the country has enjoyed, and the effect of this is seen in many directions. The need of saving is as great in the case of Governments and of corporations as it is of individuals, but while some are not saving because they do not care to there are others in this three-fold group which would save more if they could. The railroads are in this class. It happened rather appropriately that on the same day last week on which the executives of the Eastern trunk lines announced their decision to apply for a general increase in freight rates they also made known their refusal to allow an increase in wages to the conductors and trainmen. Doubtless the railways would gladly purchase an increase in freight rates at the cost of granting an increase in wages to one or two more groups of railway employes, but no final solution of the problem would be suggested in such a course. So far as the railroads themselves are concerned wages could be advanced indefinitely if rates were raised proportionately, but at some stage or other the point would be reached at which it would be necessary to travel in the opposite direction. There are many who feel that no better time than the present could be found to check the constant recurrence of demands for increased wages by the railroads adhering absolutely to the refusal which they announced last week. In many directions the effort has been to make income fit expediture rather than to make expenditure fit income. A market influence of wide consequence is suggested in the outcome of the problem presented in the present effort of the railroads on one hand to obtain higher rates and on the other to resist further increase in wages. The experience of the railroads in the recent past has been that they have been compelled to raise wages while being refused an increase in rates. The public may choose to accept one alternative or the other, but it is plain that the rule that has prevailed in the past cannot be applied indefinitely. Those who are freer than the railroads to adjust outgo to income are put under caution by the railroads' experience as well as by experiences in some other directions to do so.

That there is need of this is plainly enough indicated in the present condition of the capital market. It was forcibly suggested in another direction last week in the summary of the returns of the National banks under the call of April 4 issued by the office of the Controller of the Currency. It is clear from those returns that the banking facilities of the country have been taxed somewhat severely to meet the demands which have been made upon them. This, of course, is in part due to the inevitable effect of this country's great volume of business, but it is also due in part in a more special sense to the manner in which some of this business has been done. The Controller's figures showed that the percentage of reserve was smaller than at the corresponding date in either 1906 or 1907. In the period of relaxation which followed those years the percentage of reserve rose to 23.94 per cent., which it reached in May, 1908. There has been a pretty steady recession in the percentage since then until it now stands at 20.44. This is the lowest reported at this season in many years, and is only a little above the low percentage reported on the call of Nov. 26 last, when the great amount of money needed in marketing the record crops of last year had not yet returned to the banks. While this movement has been under way in the rerserve percentage, and while the actual cash holdings of the banks have decreased, loans have largely increased. Compared with the figures for March, 1911, the April 4 figures of the National banks this year show a decrease in cash holdings of over $19,000,000, while loans have increased during this period by more than $600,000,000. Finding this to be the condition of the National bank position, it hardly gives cause for surprise that those who have had appeals to make to the capital market have found supplies small and rates relatively high.

We have been doing a great deal of business this year as these figures attest, but we are beginning to do a little less. During the first four months of the year bank clearings, according to the figures compiled by The Financial Chronicle, showed an increase of 1.3 per cent. During April they showed a decrease of 4.7 per cent. This is indicative of the fact that readjustments are under way, and a similar suggestion is contained in the commercial failures for the past month and for the first four months of the year. They have been larger in number and in amount of liabilities than in any year since 1908. It is necessary in order to value in their true light and also to avoid any unwarranted inference from the facts here suggested to bear in mind the vital difference between the present situation and that which prevailed during 1906 and the early part of 1907, with which periods current bank returns are comparable. Then there was very active and at times violent speculation in securities. Of late there has been relatively little of that. The Stock Exchange record and the experience of brokerage concerns is sufficient attestation of this fact. In recent weeks, at least, and the same might fairly be said of a considerably longer period, most of the speculation has been on the short rather than on the long side of the market. On whichever side it is conducted speculation almost inevitably runs to extreme, and so bear speculation seemed last week to have carried selling to excess. It was this, principally, which paved the way for an advance on Thursday last, which was more vigorous than any witnessed in the market since the close of March. But that advance, though it found its chief foundation in an overbeared position, was prompted by the more hopeful aspect which the European political situation assumed on that day. It cannot be questioned that there is still more or less concern in high banking quarters regarding the European position, for the possibilities of that situation are too grave to be dismissed entirely until all immediate opportunities for differences among the great powers in respect to the Balkan situation have been removed. On the other hand it is plain that there are many and very good reasons for assuming that the problem presented, knotty as it is, will be solved satisfactorily. The Ambassadors of the powers reassemble in London today, and out of their deliberations it is hoped will come a programme acceptable to all the powers for the handling of the immediate questions raised by the Montenegrin hold on Scutari, and of the broader but less acute problems connected with the re-establishing of peace between the Balkan States and Turkey. The position of the capital market and of the credit situation as a whole has its origin in more fundamental factors than those immediately connected with the unsettled state of European politics, but the latter may well serve to exaggerate the real effect of the underlying influences. On this ground it is possible to hope that a very different complexion would be put upon the whole financial situation, including the position of securities, by a happy settlement of the matters which are now giving Europe concern. If a satisfactory outcome be assumed the acuteness of the present situation may be welcomed as promising a much speedier adjustment than was indicated by the conditions which prevailed up to the time when Austria began to prepare for independent action against Montenegro.

Our own interest in a speedy settlement of the European situation is by no means remote. The position here would be very greatly helped by a return of normal European interest in American securities and by the re-establishment of conditions which would favor the employment of European funds in this market during coming months when the demand for them will be very large if hopes reasonably entertainable in respect to the crops are realized. Large crops this year would go far toward offsetting such temporary adverse influence as may be exerted by the coming change in the tariff, and their favorable effect will be much increased if it is possible to do on comfortable terms the financing which big crops will call for. The chance of doing it on such terms will be greater with than without the assistance which Europe will be likely to give only in the event that its own peace of mind has been re-established. Considering the matter from a nearer point of view the early establishment of peace in Southeastern Europe and the assurance of complete harmony among the powers would add largely to the chance of European investments in this market. Under those conditions such an offering as the $45,000,000 issue of New York City 4½ per cent. bonds would be most likely to be welcomed on the other side as an unusual investment opportunity. The bonds, as it is, are quoted at a premium which would be much higher, however, if the chance of the foreign markets participating in the issue was greater. The success of the issue seems assured, but the fact that New York City is again putting out 4½ per cent. bonds is suggestive of the condition which prevails at present in the market for securities even of the highest grade.

BERLIN'S HOPES DASHED.

The Montenegrin Imbroglio Sent Last Week's Prices Down 5 Points.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 4.—The Börse began the week in a manner giving hope of general betterment, but the increasing acuteness of the political situation, following Montenegro's provocative action, brought disappointment, and general losses resulted. The closing prices averaged about five points below those of last week throughout the list.

As a result of the critical political situation money again stiffened, private discount rates reaching the abnormal rate of 5⅛ per cent.

The most important industries report conditions generally unsatisfactory, and the result is uncertainty. This was particularly noticeable in Canadian Pacific's aimless movements. Imperial 4s lost another ½ point, and Russians ¾.

PARIS TAKES COURAGE.

Alarmist Reports of Austria's Intentions Are Now Discredited.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, May 4.—Irregularity and panicky conditions prevailed on the Bourse during the week. The numberless unfounded reports of Austria's imminent action against Montenegro and the coming liquidation day resulted in tightness of money. The increase in contango is putting speculators to a severe strain. The Thursday holiday, however, brought a respite. The Friday opening, stimulated by the Wall Street spurt of the day before, witnessed a general rally which was further strengthened by the belief that Monday's conference in London would dispel the nervousness concerning Austria's intentions as to Scutari.

The alarmist reports freely circulated are no longer taken seriously. A feeling of optimism prevails on the Bourse, which, given a healthy condition of the market, is looking forward to a renewal of activity in the near future.

SLUMP IN LONDON MARKET.

Underwriters of New Issues Loaded with Unwanted Securities.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 4.—On what was regarded as the very eve of the conclusion of peace in the Balkans the fresh complications in the political situation raised by the action of Montenegro caused another spasm of apprehension and a slump in quotations. The public is still abstaining from business, leaving the speculators in possession of the field. New issues continue to be monotonous failures, and underwriters in most cases are left with a great proportion on their hands.

The undertone of the markets remains good, and as soon as the long-awaited peace is actually concluded no doubt a burst of activity will follow. American stocks have puzzled the City. Taking every adverse factor into consideration, experts here find it difficult to explain the underlying weakness of Wall Street. One of the features of the week was the strength of Marconi stocks, the result of the favorable report of the technical committee. The market now looks for a substantial dividend.

MILLIONS GO TO ASH HEAP.

Fire Loss of $225,000,000 Here and in Canada in 1912.

ALBANY, May 4.—In his annual report Superintendent Emmet of the State Insurance Department, makes some remarkable statements concerning fire losses in this country.

"The annual ash-heap of the country," he says, "can be reduced to much smaller dimensions than at present, within a reasonable time, with even a partial elimination of arson insurance, so-called, with stricter building laws rigidly enforced, and with the means of fire defense in all communities brought up to the most efficient standard possible."

Superintendent Emmet estimates that the "ash-heap" of this country and Canada, accumulated during 1912, represented a fire loss of approximately $225,000,000, about $9,000,000 less than in 1911, and $2,000,000 less than the average for the last five years.

"Certainly it is self-evident," he says in his report, "that any measures that will result in materially reducing the physical and moral hazards of the fire insurance business must operate toward lower premium rates.

"A large percentage of the National fire loss is due to gross carelessness and negligence, and if it were possible to punish by law all such proved offenders as is done in some European States, it would be of great benefit, not only as a matter of example to others, but in its ultimate results as a money-saver to the community at large.

"Another matter that deserves more than passing attention is the lesson taught by the conflagrations of the past which shows that a recurrence of similar conditions is liable to be met at any time and in the natural course of events is sure to be presented some time. It therefore stands the companies in hand so to conserve their resources by careful writing and economy of administration that when the call comes (as it surely will) they may be in a position to successfully withstand the financial strain that will be necessarily placed upon them."

According to the report, the fire insurance companies in this State during 1912 wrote $5,835,715,118 of insurance, an increase of more than $218,500,000 over the amount written in 1911. The excess of fire premiums received over fire losses incurred and estimated expenses of New York State business for the year was $5,561,000. The fire premiums received increased $2,600,000, while the incurred losses decreased about $1,000,000. The marine and inland risks written in the State during 1912 by fire and fire-marine companies show an increase of $629,000,000.

A summary of the business of fire, fire-marine and marine insurance companies operating in this State during 1912 shows that at the close of the year the 234 fire, fire-marine and marine insurance companies had $679,659,784 of admitted assets, not including assets held abroad nor the premium notes of mutual companies, an increase of $51,517,662 as compared with the financial returns of the companies for 1911.

The liabilities other than capital were $363,019,144, an increase of $26,634,468 over those of the preceding year. The total income was $381,724,687 and disbursements $344,258,738, an increase as compared with 1911 of $27,477,920 in income, and $23,944,418 in disbursements. The premiums written increased $26,500,000.

The losses paid show an increase over the previous year of about $7,000,000; the unpaid losses being somewhat in excess of those outstanding on Dec. 31, 1911. The total insurance in force at the end of 1912 was slightly more than $52,374,000,000, an increase over the previous year of about $4,300,000,000. The underwriting gain as shown by the underwriting and investment exhibits filed was about $19,000,000, while the total net gain in surplus from all sources was $12,378,225, a decrease from 1911 of nearly $3,000,000. Twenty-one more companies reported in 1912 than in 1911.

BANKRUPTCY LAW OF PROVED VALUE

Present Measure Has Stood 15-Year Test Successfully, Says Frank S. Flagg.

ITS PROVISIONS NOT KNOWN

Never Intended to Serve the Purpose of Collection or Adjustment Bureau.

Ignorance of its provisions and the lack of interest shown by the average creditor in the administration of insolvent estates are more responsible for the criticism of the present bankruptcy law that has been heard of late than are the shortcomings of the law itself, according to three well-known New York credit men regarding the law.

"Any bankruptcy law is a business necessity," said Frank S. Flagg, credit manager for Morse & Rogers, several days ago. "It has never been intended that the Bankruptcy act should serve the purpose of a collection or adjustment bureau in mercantile business. It is, however, intended to be utilized in cases where other means of settling business troubles prove inadequate. The great bulk of business disasters never reach the bankruptcy stage, but are adjusted by amicable methods through co-operation on the part of debtors and creditors, sometimes with the assistance of attorneys acting in advisory capacities for one side or the other. Very frequently the entire negotiations are conducted by the affected parties themselves. Many worthy business men are saved from disaster through the intervention and guidance of their creditors. These cases seldom come to light, but through all cases requiring the services of a commercial 'doctor' there is always at hand for use in any extremity, as the result of developments of a serious or desperate nature, the operation and administration of the bankruptcy law. It is, in a sense, a court of last resort to the business man, and should be so regarded. The present law has stood the test for fifteen years, and with the amendments enacted in 1903, 1906, and 1910 has been made as perfect an instrument as the requirements of this great Nation can reasonably hope to possess.

"That abuse and dissatisfaction accompany its administration now and then goes without saying. This is true of any law that has ever been enacted, and it is my impression that even this evil, if it can be so termed, is susceptible to almost complete elimination if the business fraternity will take a serious interest in the bankruptcy cases with which they are concerned. Failure to do this results in the proceedings drifting into the hands of a coterie of men who are interested more in the fees to be made out of the estate than in the dividend to be paid creditors. You can no more conduct a successful or satisfactory administration of a bankrupt estate without personal interest and support of the creditors than you could conduct a successful prosecution without witnesses. To my mind personal and individual interest on the part of creditors will produce better results toward remedying present shortcomings, which are not of the law but of the operation of the law, than further legislation."

William M. Kennard's Opinion.

William M. Kennard of Graupner, Love & Lamprecht, is of much the same opinion.

"Adopted in 1898, the fact that it has been subject," he says, "to but few amendments proves the bankruptcy law to be a marked example of well-matured legislation. Nearly all contingencies having been provided for, it has so far escaped attacks that would doubtless succeed on a less carefully prepared measure. Criticisms, sincere or captious, are becoming fewer as the community learns to appreciate the underlying principles of the law, which are rapidly being incorporated in commercial life and becoming established factors in the creditor and debtor relation. Practice under the statute is improving, and the efforts of the courts and the legal profession are contributing strength to the proper and sensible enforcement of its provisions and nullifying attempts to defeat or subvert them.

"The advantage of the present uniformity of practice over the former confusion and conflict caused by the different laws of the different States needs no argument, and the doctrines of better business ethics which are inculcated in the minds of those affected by it mark an advance in commercial standards. In 1824, Daniel Webster said in Congress that 'in a country so commercial, with so many States, having almost every degree and kind of connection and intercourse among their citizens, true policy and a just view of public utility require that so important a branch of commercial regulation ought to be uniform throughout all the States, and ought to be established under the authority of the Government.' This is truer now than it was then, and the present law is far more adequate than any that has been placed on the statute books prior to 1898. I believe it should be preserved and left undisturbed, excepting so far as the test of time may point the way to such amendment as will still more improve its already large efficiency."

Helps Scrupulous Creditors.

"Before the present act became operative," said Edward D. Flannery, Secretary-Treasurer of A. Steinhardt & Brother, yesterday, "not only was the opportunity for fraudulent failures greater, but the condition was availed of by certain creditors with whom it was not uncommon when they obtained knowledge of a debtor's insolvency, to seize his estate and dispose of it at such sacrifice as would obtain immediate and sufficient funds to cover his indebtedness to them, leaving but scant salvage to meet the claims of their more scrupulous fellow-creditors. In those days of fraud and chicanery the creditor with a conscience seldom, if ever, received a proper dividend from estates of insolvent debtors. To those who endured under the conditions which governed before the present act became operative it must seem that, while not flawless, the act is beneficial and tends largely to solve the question regarding the proper administration of insolvent estates. Criticisms of the act are mostly unsupported by evidence, largely due to ignorance on the part of the critics, and may be answered by quoting from an eminent authority, who says, 'The present bankruptcy act is the most democratic of all laws, inviting, as it does, the creditors themselves at every step to participate in its practical administration.' Yet this invitation is not understood by business men, nor do they avail themselves of the abundant opportunities afforded them for bringing about just, proper and economical administration of insolvent estates. This is due, in great part, to their actual ignorance of the law. They do not know that the law was framed for them, and so framed as to enable them in great measure to control its right administration."

Investment Requirements of the Time

Never before have investors realized so keenly as at present the desirability of obtaining securities representing full intrinsic value, earning capacity that bears but a minimum of relationship to trade and tariff influences, and obtainable on an income basis that already meets the higher rates to which all classes of investments are gradually seeking adjustment.

We will forward on request a new pamphlet describing Public Utility securities selected with the view of meeting these requirements.

"Safer Than First Mortgage Bonds"

No Railroad can operate without Cars, Locomotives and general rolling stock Equipment.

Therefore Railroad bonds or notes secured on such Equipment are paid, principal and interest, when the Mortgage bonds are in default.

You should buy Railroad Equipment Bonds, because they are absolutely safe, can be quickly converted into cash, yield from 4.60% to 5.75%, permit you to choose your own maturity, and even in times of panic and severe depression depreciate but very little.

We have been specialists in Railroad Equipment Issues for a number of years, and know of no security which we can more confidently recommend to the investor.

Write for our new booklet, "More About Equipment Bonds," and list of current offerings.

Astor Trust Company

As a Financial Secretary

this company takes care of its clients' stocks, bonds and mortgages, collects dividends and coupons, mails advice of each collection and sends a monthly statement of account. The income is subject to the owner's cheque immediately on collection.

Our monthly reports, filed in connection with the owner's cheque book, provide a continuous record of all receipts and disbursements, usually rendering personal bookkeeping unnecessary. The comparatively small cost of this service makes it available for many who do not wish to employ a private secretary.

Our officers will be glad to furnish specimens of the forms used and to explain our service in detail.

TWO GENERATIONS OF BUSINESS

The Bank of the Metropolis has been in business on Union Square continuously for 42 years. Two generations of business men have come and gone since its doors first opened in 1871. Its growth is shown by the increase in its capital and surplus from $500,000 to $3,100,000.

Its officers will be glad to show merchants and manufacturers locating in the uptown district the banking facilities which the Bank of the Metropolis can offer them.

OFFICERS:

CORSELLUS H. HACKETT, Chairman

Accounts of Banks, Corporations, Estates, Firms, Trustees and Individuals received, on which interest at current rates will be allowed.

Issues Letters of Credit and Drafts, available in all parts of the world.

Designated Depositary for Court & Trust Funds

Acts as Executor, Trustee, Administrator, Guardian and Agent.

The Union Trust Company of New York (established in 1864) has for many years made a specialty of Personal Trusts—under Will or under Agreement—and maintains a carefully organized department for handling them.

Many millions of dollars' worth of property—real and personal—have been entrusted to the company by conservative people, residents not only of New York State, but of other states in which the Union Trust Company is authorized to transact business.

Correspondence or interviews with persons considering the formation of trusts of any kind—for themselves or for others—are solicited.

TO FINANCE POWER PLANT.

Corporation Desires to Issue $8,500,000 in Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—Permission to execute a mortgage for an amount to be determined hereafter, and to issue at present $8,500,000 in 5 per cent. bonds, has been asked of the Public Service Commission by the New York and New Jersey Power Corporation. A hearing on the application will be given by the commission in this city on Tuesday.

The commission at the same time will consider an application of the company for permission to increase its capital stock from $100,000 to $5,000,000, of which $2,000,000 is to be preferred.

This money is to be used for the construction of a hydro-electric plant on the Neversink River, near Monticello, which will distribute electricity in the towns of Fallsburg and Thompson. The river is narrow at the selected point, and a dam 144 feet high is to be built, backing up the waters and forming a lake nine miles long. The plant of the Orange County Power Company will be flooded partially by the new lake, and this plant it is the intention of the company to purchase for $1,215,000.

$3,000,000
The Interlake Steamship Company
First Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds

Dated May 1, 1913. Due serially November 1, 1914 to 1925. Interest payable May 1 and November 1. Coupon bonds of $1,000 each, which may be registered as to principal. Callable in whole or in part at 105% and accrued interest on any interest date on two weeks' notice.

THE GUARDIAN SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANY, CLEVELAND, OHIO, TRUSTEE

Authorized and Outstanding, $3,000,000

From a letter of Mr. H. G. Dalton, President of The Interlake Steamship Company, we summarise the important features in regard to this issue of bonds as follows:

Bonds are secured by an absolute first lien on thirty-nine steel vessels, the replacement value of which was recently appraised by independent steamship authorities at over $9,000,000, equal to three times the amount of bonds authorized and outstanding.

Net income for current (1913) year available for interest charges on these bonds is conservatively estimated at over $1,000,000, equivalent to more than 5½ times the yearly interest charges and about 2½ times annual interest and redemption requirements.

Bonds are followed by $5,782,486 stock, representing cash equity.

By redemption of $250,000 bonds annually (which in effect amounts to a yearly sinking fund of 8.3%) the security of the remaining bonds, both as to principal and interest, constantly increases.

Company has no funded or floating debt other than this issue of bonds, and has a working capital which is considered sufficient for all purposes.

Mortgage contains exceptionally strong insurance requirements providing an initial insurance fund of $250,000 cash, and annual cash payments thereto of approximately $470,000, the insurance fund to be held in trust for the benefit of the bondholders.

Permanency of earnings and able management are regarded as assured, as those interested in the capital stock of the Company have connections which will insure a permanent tonnage for the fleet, and the vessels are managed by Pickands, Mather & Co.

All legal details in connection with the issue of these bonds have been approved by Messrs. Hoyt, Dustin, Kelley, McKeehan & Andrews, Cleveland, O., and by Messrs. Strong & Cadwalader, New York.

Price, 100 and Accrued Interest, Yielding 6%

Temporary negotiable certificates will be delivered pending issue of definitive bonds

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Brokers' Men Elect E. H. Taylor.

The annual meeting of the Customs Brokers' Representatives at the Appraisers' Stores, held at their clubrooms on Saturday, resulted in the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: President—Edward H. Taylor; Vice President—Samuel Stewart; Treasurer—W. P. G. Whitney; Secretary—H. A. Reynolds; Financial Secretary—John Kolb. The Advisory Committee is composed of Daniel Bryan, Samuel Stewart, and John O'Donnell, while the Entertainment Committee includes F. H. Bennett, J. O. Schoonoven, and S. Woodruff. The Treasurer reported the finances of the organization in excellent shape to meet demands on the benefit fund.

Drug Price Changes Few.

Few price changes were shown in the drug market last week, and of these there was none that had great bearing on the strength of the market. Porto Rican bay rum advanced to $1.60 a pound, and nux vomica went up to 3 cents. Russian ergot, Sumatra benzoin gum and chemically pure glycerine, in bulk, supplied the downward changes. These drugs were held respectively at 90, 30, and 20 cents a pound. An improved movement of fertilizer chemicals was the feature in that market, which showed an advance of domestic sulphate ammonia to $3.35 a hundredweight.

Crude Rubber Prices Unsettled.

While there was more of an inclination toward steadiness in the local crude rubber market last week than for some time, several prices in the list showed weakness to the extent of a cent a pound at the close. These changes, however, were confined principally to the Brazilian and Central American grades. Near midweek there was a slight upturn here due to the better feeling abroad, but continued inactivity on the part of buyers soon took the edge off.

Printcloth Trading Improved.

There was some improvement in the movement of printcloths in the local market last week, and while in some cases the price list showed downward revision, the tone became slightly firmer toward the end. Most of the business was done on goods for immediate or nearby delivery. Buyers continued to show conservatism when it came to contracting for the future. There was some bidding for 27-inch, 64-60s, at 3⅛ cents, but none of the mills seemed willing to meet this figure. Wide goods supplied the bulk of the week's trading, there having been some good sales of 38½-inch, 64-60s, at 4¾ cents; of 39-inch, 68-72s, at 5¼ cents, and of 72-76s in the same width at 5¾ cents. On contract, 39-inch, 80 squares, could be had at 6¾ cents. The week's comparative prices follow:

	Open.	Close.
27-inch, 56-52s	2 15-16c	2 15-16c

BALTIMORE'S BIG WORKS.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers to Inspect Them.

Members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, will assemble in Baltimore on May 20 for a session of five days, at the invitation of the Engineers' Club there. The visitors will find several important engineering works in progress, including the newly completed sewerage system and the sewage disposal plant at Back River, which is said to be the largest and one of the most modern in the world, and of especial interest to the New York members at this time, because of the efforts of New Jersey and New York to solve the harbor pollution problem.

Among the chief papers and subjects to be presented by the New York members are "Life Hazard in Crowded Buildings, Dut to Inadequate Exits," by H. F. J. Porter; "Allowable Height and Area in Factory Buildings," by Ira H. Woolson; "Present Condition of the Patent Law," by Edwin J. Prindle, and the "Cost of Horse-Drawn Vehicles, as Against Electric Vehicles," by W. R. Metz.

Gov. Goldsborough will give a reception to the engineers in the State House at the close of the meeting on Friday, May 23. Admiral H. I. Cone, Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, U. S. N., will tell the visitors all about the United States Experimental Station at Annapolis. It is expected that the officers and men of the United States Aviation School will give hydroaeroplane flights and there will be evolutions of the submarine boats at the Naval Academy, after which the Governor and visitors will review the midshipmen.

TO SETTLE THE SILK STRIKE.

Mayor of Paterson Names a Committee to Restore Peace in the Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 4.—Mayor Andrew F. McBride made public this afternoon a letter which he sent to twenty-five prominent men of this city asking them to serve on a committee which will attempt to settle the silk strike which has been in progress in this city for the last ten weeks. The committee will consist of John W. Griggs, ex-Attorney General of the United States, who will be Chairman; G. A. Hobart, son of the former Vice President of the United States, Rabbi J. F. Isaacs, several clergymen, and a number of professional men, but no manufacturers or silk workers.

The Mayor in his letter to the members of the committee suggests that they meet as soon as possible so that a speedy settlement of the strike may be attempted. President Samuel McCollom of the Silk Manufacturers' Association would make no comment upon Mayor McBride's plan to settle the strike, saying that the matter would be taken up at a meeting of the manufacturers tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—There will be no Federal investigation of the big silk strike at Paterson, N. J., if Representative Robert G. Bremner, who represents the Paterson district in the House of Representatives, can persuade the manufacturers and workers to reach a settlement of their differences without resort to National interference.

After a series of long-distance telephone conferences with representative men in Paterson late this afternoon, Mr. Bremner said to-night he felt that it would be possible to settle the controversy, which has lasted ten weeks, through the appointment of a committee to be appointed by Mayor McBride of Paterson.

NATION'S BANKERS CONFER.

Members of American Association Meet at Briarcliff Manor.

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., May 4.—The Spring meeting of the Executive Council of the American Bankers' Association will open to-morrow mornig at the Briarcliff Lodge and will last all the week. In the association there are ninety-one members of the Executive Council, representing between $14,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000.

A special train from Chicago, bearing members from the South and West, arrived at the Scarborough Station of the New York Central Railroad to-day. The bankers were driven in automobiles from the station to the lodge. Later they were taken on sight seeing trips about the country, and then several of them played golf.

To-morrow morning the business session will begin with a meeting of the Administration Committee.

AUTO LAMP MAKERS OUT.

Demand $24 a Week for Best Men and 50-Hour Working Week.

A general strike of automobile lamp makers was reported yesterday, to enforce demands for a new wage scale and a fifty-hour working week. The strikers demand a minimum wage of $24 a week for first class workers, $21 for second class workers, and $18 for third class workers. This is said to be the first strike in this trade in this city.

The strikers belong to Auto Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 137, which is affiliated with the United Hebrew Trades. M. J. Wolpert, Assistant Secretary of the United Hebrew Trades, who addressed a meeting of the strikers at Metropole Hall, 160 East 112th Street, said that two firms had made settlements, and their employes would return to work to-day.

HATMAKERS MEET HERE.

Delegates Report Peaceful Trade Conditions Throughout the Country.

Thirty-five delegates from fifteen States attended the biennial convention of the United Cloth Hat and Cap Makers' Union of America, which began yesterday at the Astoria Assembly Rooms, 62 East Fourth Street, and will last for eight days. The thirty-five delegates represent locals of the organization in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, New York, and sixteen other cities.

Reports were made by the delegates from the different locals to the effect that the trade was in good condition all over the country. No strikes were going on and none was in sight, and in many cases the members of the locals were working under agreements with the employers, the delegates asserted.

WHOLESALE PRICE CHANGES

The Declines in Dun's List Nearly Doubled the Advances Last Week.

Last week the declines shown in Dun's list of wholesale commodity prices lacked but little to double the number of advances. The revisions for the week numbered fifty-one, and of these thirty-three were downward. Nearly half of the changes were confined to the market for foodstuffs, and there the advances and declines numbered ten and twelve, respectively. Provisions and dairy products showed the greatest weakness. Not a market in the list showed more upward revisions than downward. Hides were easier, and showed five declines against no advances; in metals the changes were six and one, respectively. In the latter market the fluctuations were largely confined to raw materials.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale price quoted at New York last week, unless otherwise specified, of forty-one leading commodities, together with those of the previous week and last year:

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Painted Silk Banners Classed as Paintings, Not Silk Manufactures.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has sustained a protest, by O. G. Hempstead & Son of Philadelphia, relating to the classification, under the act of 1909, of painted silk banners. The Collector returned the flags as manufactures of silk at the rate of 50 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 403. The importers asked for a rate of 15 per cent. under Paragraph 470, as paintings.

The United States Court of Customs Appeals has affirmed the Board of Appraisers in the protest case of the Chicago Watchman's Clock Works, dealing with the classification of watchmen's time detectors. The clocks were assessed at $1.35 each, their cases at 40 per cent. each, and the accompanying keys at 45 per cent. ad valorem. It was asserted that the articles should have been regarded as entireties and duty taken under Paragraph 192. The board upheld the Collector's return on the merchandise, and this action is now affirmed by the court of last resort.

The board overruled a protest filed by Abrams, Roman & Co. and George C. Heimerdinger & Co. of New York, relating to the rates to accrue on robes and dresses ornamented with glass beads.

It was decided that steam engines imported by Didier, March & Co., New York, were properly dutiable at 30 per cent. under the specific provision in the law for such articles, and not at 45 per cent. as manufactures of metal, as returned by the Collector.

FORECLOSURE SALES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.—New York Life Insurance Company, Plaintiff, against Wesley Thorn et al., Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled action, and bearing date the 28th day of December, 1911, and orders of resale, entered in the above entitled action, on the 1st day of April, 1912, the 6th day of August, 1912, the 31st day of October, 1912, the 22d day of January, 1913, and the 21st day of April, 1913, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment and orders named, will sell at public auction at the Exchange Salesrooms, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 20th day of May, 1913, at 12 o'clock, noon, on that day, by Bryan L. Kennelly, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment and orders of resale to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that lot of land in the City and County of New York, with the buildings thereon, bounded and described as follows:

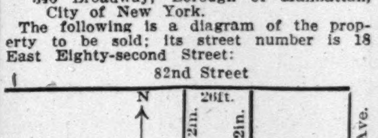
Beginning at a point in the southerly side of Eighty-second Street distant one hundred and nineteen feet, westerly from the intersection of the southerly side of Eighty-second Street, and the westerly side of Madison Avenue; and running thence southerly parallel with Madison Avenue, and part of the way through a party wall, one hundred and two feet two inches to the centre line of the block, thence westerly along said centre line of the block, twenty-six feet; thence northerly again parallel with Madison Avenue, one hundred and two feet and two inches to the southerly side of Eighty-second Street; and thence easterly along the southerly side of Eighty-second Street, twenty-six feet to the point or place of beginning; said premises being now known as No. 18 East Eighty-second Street.

Dated, New York, April 25, 1913.

ALFRED STECKLER, JR., Referee.

GEORGE W. HUBBELL, Attorney for Plaintiff, 346 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street number is 18 East Eighty-second Street:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above described property is to be resold, is one hundred and three thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight dollars and sixty cents ($103,758.60), with interest thereon from the 3d day of November, 1911, together with costs and allowance amounting to three hundred and twenty-six dollars and fifteen cents ($326.15), with interest thereon from the 28th day of December, 1911, together with expenses of the sale and resales. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments and water rates or other liens which are to be allowed the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the Referee, is twelve thousand four hundred and thirty-five dollars and sixty-two cents ($12,435.62), and interest.

Dated, New York, April 25, 1913.

ALFRED STECKLER, JR., Referee.

LEGAL NOTICES.

PUBLIC SALE OF RAILROAD PROPERTY.

Under and by virtue of a decree of Tattnall Superior Court, rendered April 11th, 1913, signed by Honorable Walter W. Sheppard, Judge, in the case of Henry Talmadge & Company vs. The Perkins Lumber Company et al., pending in Tattnall Superior Court, the undersigned will, on the first day of July, 1913, at eleven o'clock A. M., Central time, at the front door of the Court House of Tattnall County, in Reidsville, Georgia, put up and expose to sale at public auction to the highest bidder and purchaser:

The railroad known as the Register & Glennville Railroad, extending from Register, Georgia, to Glennville, Georgia, including the rights of way, locomotives, cars and equipment, and all things appurtenant thereto, as described in the petition filed in said cause.

No bid will be received unless at the time of making the same the bidder shall deposit with the receivers the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) as a pledge that he will make good his bid if, upon being reported, the same is accepted by the Court.

Sale to be made subject to confirmation by the Court, and the right is reserved to accept or reject any bid.

Upon confirmation of the sale by the Court the purchaser shall pay to the Receivers in cash such sums of money as the Court may direct.

For further details regarding the terms and for more specific description of the property to be sold reference is had to the petition and decree now of file in the Clerk's office of Tattnall Superior Court at Reidsville, Georgia, or information may be had by application to the undersigned.

W. V. DAVIS,
W. B. STILLWELL, and
GEORGE W. TIEDEMAN,
Receivers, Savannah, Georgia.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—LEON KRONOLD, Plaintiff, against ALICE KRONOLD, Defendant.—Action for divorce.

To the above-named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated New York, February 15th, 1913.

LOUIS B. WILLIAMS, Attorney for Plaintiff, 19 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

To Alice Kronold, the above-named defendant:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of the Hon. Vernon M. Davis, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated the 25th day of March, 1913, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, at the County Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, on the 27th day of March, 1913.

Dated New York, March 27th, 1913.

LOUIS B. WILLIAMS, Attorney for Plaintiff, 240 Broadway, Manhattan Borough, New York City, State of New York.

MAINE MONUMENT PLANS.

Gen. Wilson and Committee Decide on Decoration Day Ceremonies.

The Maine Monument Committee, of which Gen. James Grant Wilson is Chairman, held a meeting in the Plaza Hotel yesterday afternoon to complete the arrangements for the dedication of the monument on Decoration Day. At the meeting, besides Gen. Wilson, were Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, Commander in Chief, and Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, commanding the First Division of the Atlantic Fleet; Commander Richard M. Hughes, Chief of Staff to Admiral Badger; Commander Richard H. Jackson of the staff of Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, commanding the Third Division of the Atlantic Fleet; Lieut. Rufus S. Zogbaum, U. S. N., and Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith.

At the meeting details of the unveiling ceremonies were gone into, and the programme for the parade that will precede the ceremonies at the monument completed. Four thousand sailors from the Atlantic Fleet, 3,000 Spanish war veterans, the National Guard of New York, regular army troops from the posts in and near New York, the Naval Militia, and other organizations will take part in the parade.

The parade will form at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue shortly before 2 P. M., and will swing into line at 2:30 P. M. sharp, the line of march being north on Fifth Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street, and west in Fifty-ninth Street to Columbus Circle, where the unveiling ceremonies will take place. Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, Commander of the Second Division of the Atlantic Fleet, will be the Grand Marshal, and the reviewing stand will be at Fifty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue.

The Atlantic Fleet will arrive in the Hudson the morning of May 29, and will depart on the 31st. While the ships are at anchor they will be open to the inspection of the public.

At the conclusion of the meeting yesterday the committee visited the monument. They were met by Atillio Piccirilli, the sculptor who designed it.

RESORTS. NEW ENGLAND.

Two weeks of JOY-O'-LIVING

Forest Lakes of MAINE

IT'S the vacation you're ACHING FOR. You go 'way down in Maine woods. You leave civilization far behind. By canoe and carry you come to one of those great that are scarcely known to the outside world.

You put up at one of the log-built permanent camps whose comfort and good fare are one of the wonders of this country.

Or you set up your own camp with an Indian or white guide, sleep in a tent on hemlock boughs, eat campfire cooking with an appetite that's a joy, breathe air that makes your pulses tingle.

You will catch big fish, canoe, explore, watch the moose and deer, get back to Mother Nature.

In two weeks you will come out brown, hard, clear-eyed, steady-nerved—and with memories you wouldn't sell.

The expenses of the trip are small.

ABANDONING FOREIGN DRESS

Chinese of Swatow Are Going Back to Native Raiment.

Shortly after the revolution of 1911-1912 in China there was a marked tendency among the middle and better classes of Chinese to adopt European dress. Most of those who could afford to made the change, but the bulk of the people, laborers, artisans, and small shopkeepers, could not afford it. However, there was a large demand for all sorts of foreign wearing apparel. But lately, according to Consul C. L. L. Williams, stationed at Swatow, a reaction has set in and about 60 per cent. of those who adopted foreign dress last year have gone back to native clothing. Silk, which declined greatly in price about a year ago, has lately made up 20 per cent. of this loss. This in itself is definite proof that the Chinese are tiring of alien raiment.

The Chinese generally wear tailor-made shirts, according to Mr. Williams, for the most part made of thin material which costs from 25 to 40 cents (gold). The making-up costs about 30 cents. Flannelette material costs about 70 cents a shirt. A few white linen starched shirts are sold at about $1 to $1.50, but these are used to fill the limited foreign demand. Linen collars retail at about the same price as in the United States. Those on sale in Swatow show no makers' names and are probably purchased in small lots at Hongkong. Soft collars are worn generally by the natives and foreigners, which the Chinese usually make up at a cost of about 5 cents each.

FINDS MANY SUFFOLK MEN.

Major Horsfield Already Sure of 50 at His Dinner.

Major George William Horsfield of the Essex and Suffolk Royal Garrison Artillery, who crossed the Atlantic for the main purpose of gathering together all Suffolk County Englishmen and former members of Suffolk regiments now living in and around New York and giving them a dinner, announced yesterday from his apartment at the Hotel Schuyler that the dinner would be held next Saturday evening at Mouquin's restaurant, Sixth Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street.

"Almost fifty men have written to me notifying me of their desire to be present," he said. "Strange to say, although Suffolk is a purely agricultural county, I have learned of only one Suffolk farmer living near here. The occupations of the others include a lawyer, a heavyweight boxer, a real estate dealer, a manager of a drug house, a professional singer, a reporter, a locomotive engineer, a hotel manager, a manager of a publishing house, and a janitor.

"The invitation is still open to Suffolk men who will write to me. If we can raise the number at the dinner to 100 I shall be all the more pleased. I intend that they shall have a splendid time, and I have no doubt there will be reunions of friends who have not seen one another in years."

Although the invitation is for men only, several Suffolk women have written. Miss Ella M. Horsfield, Major Horsfield's daughter, who accompanied him here, said that before she left America, at the end of this month, she would ask those who had written to have tea with her.

WANTS GOLF IN PORTUGAL.

Government Has Laid Out 18-Hole Course—Chance for Supplies.

A new golf course, prepared by the Government of Portugal, and under the direction of the National Automobile Club, will be opened this year. It is an eighteen-hole course, located at Belem, a few minutes ride by trolley from Lisbon. This will be the second course in Portugal, the other having nine holes and being near Oporto, in the northern part of the republic. The fact that none of the stores in Lisbon or Oporto carries golf supplies of any description suggests a good market for American manufacturers of this equipment. This has additional importance from the fact that the Portuguese Government has furnished the ground, paid the expenses of laying out the links, and has appropriated $10,000 for a clubhouse in order to attract tourists to that country. The course will be one of the finest in Europe, and lies around the famous chapel of Vasco da Gama, at Belem.

A list of the dealers in sporting goods at Lisbon and Oporto, furnished by Consul General W. L. Lowrie of the first-named city, may be had from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington.

JERSEY ROADS GOOD FOR EARLY TOURING

Runs to Lakewood and Atlantic City Lure the Motorist—Some Road Warnings.

When the roads in other sections are soft and rutty, the main routes to Lakewood and the Jersey coast resorts are, as a rule, in good condition, according to the Touring Club of America. Now that the roads are settled and the last vestige of frost is out of the ground, the motorist need not hesitate about taking a tour to any point along the New Jersey coast, or with Lakewood or Atlantic City as an objective point. Macadam, in good condition, and gravel, also well groomed, are the prevailing roads, with only occasional stretches of sand. Even these short stretches are likely to be in better shape at this early season than later in the year.

From New York to the Jersey coast there is a choice of two direct routes. One of these is by way of Newark, Elizabeth, Rahway and New Brunswick or Perth Amboy to Sea Bright; the other leads across Staten Island to Perth Amboy, and then to Red Bank and Sea Bright. The Staten Island route is a little shorter, and, at this season, affords better road conditions. From Sea Bright south the tourist will find good macadam boulevard most of the way along the ocean front to Atlantic City. Good accommodations are to be had all along the route.

If a longer trip and more varied scenery be desired, an excellent road may be taken to Lake Hopatcong, and then on through beautiful farming country to Somerville, Princeton and Trenton, from which point Philadelphia or Atlantic City may be reached readily. A trip, using the longer route on the outward journey and the shorter on the homeward one, or vica versa, makes a delightful short motor outing for this month.

From Atlantic City the tour may be continued to Cape May over good roads only occasionally marred by stretches of sand. The distance from New York to Lakewood by way of Newark and New Brunswick is about seventy-four miles, and from Lakewood to Atlantic City seventy-one miles. The run from this place to Trenton is about ninety miles, and back to New York, via the shortest route, an additional seventy miles. The round trip covers from 290 to 340 miles, according to the variants selected.

After carefully investigating road conditions along the routes from New York to Tuxedo and Newburg the touring department of the Automobile Club of America advises motorists to make the trip by way of the Forty-second Street Ferry and Hudson County Boulevard to Ridgefield. From that place the course is north, along Grand Avenue to Englewood, thence by way of West Englewood, New Bridge, River Edge and New Milford, connecting with the main route at Paramus Road just before reaching Ridgewood. Although there are some worn spots on this route it affords the best available going. On the most popular route, by way of 130th Street Ferry, Fort Lee and Bogota to Hackensack, the road is under repair between Leonia and Teaneck Road. This stretch is passable only at the driver's risk and should be avoided. It is not probable that work will be completed there until next Autumn. Along the Little Ferry-Teaneck Road route the surface is considerably worn, especially just before reaching Hackensack. From there on, however, there is good going.

There will be another invasion of "Automobile Row" shortly, this time in the form of a spring wheel. This wheel, known as the Seaton, consists of an inner and outer rim, connected by a series of tension springs set with their axes parallel to the axis of rotation of the wheel. The outer rim carries a solid tire. The ends of each spring are fitted with hardened steel ball-and-socket joints to allow free movement in any direction and prevent cross strains, each joint being lubricated with hard-oil, packed, about once a year, under close fitting steel caps. Road shocks produce a slight movement of the inner and outer rims with reference to each other and increase the tension of the springs by elongation. Each spring is put under an initial tension of about five hundred pounds. The riding qualities of the wheels on pavements and cobbles are fully as easy as those of pneumatic tires. It is said that a mileage of 47,500 has been obtained with one set of the spring wheels.

How can YOU or YOUR business and YOUR office be distinguished in a city of nearly six million people?

MAINLY:

By getting and giving a sense of location which in itself identifies you, and your business unconsciously above your competitors.

No location in New York City can be so instantly placed as

"Times Building Times Square"

When you make that statement on your letter-head, or over your telephone, six million people know exactly where you are located.

State of New York.
BRANCH OFFICE OF
Banking Department.
60 BROADWAY
New York, N.Y.

Geo. C. Van Tuyl, Jr
Superintendent

Dear Sir-

The Banking Department of the State of New York, as liquidator of the Carnegie Trust Company and the Northern Bank of New York, is largely interested in the property formerly known as the Morris Park Race Track, located in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, extending from about the line of 175th Street to Pelham Parkway.

This property, consisting of about 3000 lots, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder on May 31st, 1913, and succeeding days.

The property is high ground, many of the streets are on grade. The City grew up to the property years ago and this great tract has stopped its developement in a northeasterly direction.

There are five railroad stations on or in the immediate vicinity, a number of trolley lines come to and along its borders, and this Department is advised by the Manager of the Interborough Railway that two of the lines of rapid transit recently adopted by the City will have stations adjoining or near the property, and that it is expected one of these lines will be in operation within the next two years. This property will then be in direct communication with all parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn for a five-cent fare.

Your attention is respectfully called to this proposed sale.

Very truly yours,

Geo C Van Tuyl Jr

State Superintendent of Banks; in charge of the Carnegie Trust Co. and the Northern Bank in liquidation.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The weather will be generally fair and warm the first part of the week in the Eastern States, followed by unsettled weather by Wednesday and local rains thereafter, the forecast announced. There will be frequent showers during the first half of the week in the great central valleys and the Southern States, while genarally fair weather will prevail for some days over the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions. There will be frosts the first half of the week in the Northwestern States and the Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions.

Pressure continues high over the Eastern States and low pressure over the Plains States and the Middle Southwest. This pressure distribution has resulted in fair and warm weather over practically all districts east of the Mississippi River, except along the North Atlantic Coast, where the winds off the ocean have caused a considerable fall in temperature.

The winds along the New England Coast will be moderate southerly; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate easterly and southeasterly; South Atlantic Coast, light moderate variable; East Gulf Coast, moderate easterly; West Gulf Coast, moderate to brisk southerly; on the lower lakes, moderate to brisk southerly and southwesterly; upper lakes, moderate variable.

Steamers departing to-day for European ports will have moderate variable winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND TUESDAY.

Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, and New Jersey—Fair Monday; Tuesday unsettled; moderate southeasterly and southerly winds.

Southern New England—Fair and somewhat moderate Monday; Tuesday increasing cloudiness; moderate southeasterly winds.

Western New York—Cloudy Monday; probably followed by local showers Monday night or Tuesday; not quite so warm Tuesday; moderate to brisk southerly and southwesterly winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1912.	1913.		1912.	1913.
3 A. M.	54	72	4 P. M.	61	68
6 A. M.	58	73	6 P. M.	56	67
9 A. M.	59	69	9 P. M.	53	60
12 M.	65	70	11 P. M.	53	59

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 68 degrees; for the corresponding date last year it was 58; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 55.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 66 degrees; at 8 P. M. it was 59. Maximum temperature, 76 degrees at 12:02 A. M.; minimum, 59 at 10 P. M. Humidity, 62 per cent. at 8 A. M., 76 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 33.30 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.40 inches.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

STATE OF NEW YORK, PUBLIC SERVICE Commission, Second District.—Case 3557.

A petition, under Section 9 of the Railroad law, and Section 53 of the Public Service Commissions law, having been filed with this Commission by the HUDSON RIVER CONNECTING RAILROAD CORPORATION for a certificate that the provisions of Section 9 of the Railroad law have been complied with by said petitioner, and that public convenience and a necessity require the construction of said petitioner's railroad as proposed in its certificate of incorporation and for permission to begin the construction of its railroad and exercise its franchises and rights as a railroad company,—Notice is hereby given that a public hearing on said petition will be held by this Commission, at No. 19 Washington Avenue in the City of Albany on Tuesday, May 20, 1913, at 2 o'clock P. M.

The kind of railroad proposed to be built is a standard gauge railroad to be operated by steam or other suitable power and its route is proposed to be from a point of connection with the railroad of The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, at or near Stuyvesant, in the County of Columbia, running from Stuyvesant in a northerly direction to a point on the east bank of the Hudson River, opposite Upper Schodack Island, thence running westerly to a point of connection with the railroad of the West Shore Railroad, at or near Feura Bush, in the County of Albany, which said Stuyvesant and Feura Bush will be its termini; with two branches: One, a branch from a point upon its line about 2½ miles south of Feura Bush, and running thence southerly a distance of about two miles to a point of connection with the railroad of the West Shore Railroad Company; Two, a branch from a point upon its line about a half mile east of the Hudson River, running thence in an easterly direction to a point of connection with the railroad of the Boston and Albany Railroad Company at a point a short distance north of the dividing line between the Counties of Rensselaer and Columbia. The villages or towns in and through which it is to be constructed are: the Village of Stuyvesant, the Town of Stuyvesant, in the County of Columbia, the Village of Schodack Landing, the Town of Schodack, in the County of Rensselaer, the Town of Coeymans, in the County of Albany, and the Town of Bethlehem, in the County of Albany. By the Commission.

CLEANERS TO START WORK ON MAY 12

Organization Perfected for Task of Removing Rubbish from Houses and Stores.

600 MEN TO BE EMPLOYED

They with 200 Wagons Will Take Away Waste Material Removed from Premises by Tenants.

Definite dates for the first big Spring clearing in this city were announced yesterday by Commissioner Lederle of the Health Department. The preliminary steps in the movement have been taken by the Babies' Welfare Association and other private organizations, which are co-operating in the campaign. The actual work of removing rubbish and dirt will be done by a force of men under the direction of the Street Cleaning Department. The Department of Health, the Police Department, the Tenement House Department and the Fire Department will furnish men to distribute notices and inspect premises this week. The work of cleaning the city will start on May 12 and continue until May 16.

The Boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx have been divided into districts for the cleaners. There are sixty of these districts in Manhattan, embracing some six blocks. Fourteen of these districts will be cleaned each day. The Bronx has been divided into nine large districts, three of which will be cleaned each day. In Brooklyn, there are forty districts and eight of these will be cleaned daily.

A force of 200 wagons and 600 men will be employed in this work. In addition to this force, 300 men will be used to distribute the official notices of the house cleaning campaign. It is expected that each of the five city departments engaged in the work will furnish sixty men each for this force. The notices will direct all house owners or tenants to clean up all waste matter on their premises and have it piled within the stoop line, or put in bundles or receptacles ready for removal. They are directed not to collect waste for removal until the day designated in their notices.

Those living in Manhattan and the Bronx will receive their notices twenty-four hours before the day on which the cleaners will call for the rubbish. In Brooklyn the notices will be sent out four days before the rubbish is removed. The work of cleaning Queens and Richmond Boroughs will be in charge of the officials there. In telling of his plans for the cleaning campaign, Commissioner Lederle of the Board of Health said yesterday:

"I suppose it has seemed to many persons that it has taken us a long time to get around to this last stage of the clean-up. In the last month we have had many inquiries as to what had become of the campaign. I take this opportunity to say that it has been moving along steadily all the time. We finished our first stage, that of organization and preliminary inspection, in March. Ever since then in all parts of the city lectures on the movement have been delivered, either by members of the city departments or by representatives of private organizations. These lectures were illustrated by lantern slides or moving pictures showing the need of cleaning the houses. Such district organizations as the Gramercy Neighborhood Association conducted in their localities a house-to-house campaign.

"This week, private organizations will distribute pamphlets prepared by the Central Committee. These pamphlets will explain the most important provisions of the Sanitary Code in simple language. We have printed 700,000 of these pamphlets, and 150 organizations are distributing them. The folders are printed in three languages, English, Italian, and Yiddish. Brooklyn organizations are distributing 150,000 copies, and Manhattan 490,000. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has offered to distribute 275,000 copies throughout the city. It has prepared special literature, which it will distribute. The Housewives' League has posted 22,000 clean store placards in stores throughout the city.

"In addition to this unofficial work, all of the city departments have done their part. All departments having Inspectors have enforced ordinances pertaining to the 'clean-up' with the utmost firmness. The Police Department has been especially active in making arrests for violations of the Sanitary Code. The courts have been full of such cases for the last month. The Street Cleaning Department has done creditable work. I think it is safe to say that the streets have never been cleaner before in the history of the city. It now remains to get into the hidden places and carry off all the surplus matter found there.

"With the arrival of the hot weather of the last few days, the need of this campaign has been shown by the increase in infant mortality. The infant mortality rate has been disappointing so far this year, but members of the Babies' Welfare Association expect that as a result of cleaning the tenement houses we will show another big decrease this year over the year before. I hope that the committees of private organizations formed for this campaign will be made permanent, and that the movement for education in matters of cleanliness will be made a continuous part of our work for public health in general, and for infant welfare in particular."

HEALTH PLEDGE FOR BOYS.

Public School Pupils Asked to Avoid Unwholesome Sweets and Pastry.

New York's schoolboys have been asked to start to-day, and continue until June 6 at least, a test in self-denial, in which they will abstain from using cheap candies, unwholesome pies, crullers and greasy pastry, and soda water flavored with highly colored syrups. The Public Schools Athletic League makes the request and promises to the boys who keep their pledge that they will excel in the athletic contests to be held in Central Park on June 6, when 10,000 young athletes will participate in a festival of sports. The league has obtained pledges from the boys not to use alcoholic beverages or smoke cigarettes.

The special hygienic programme for the boys who want to win honors as athletes has been arranged by Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Secretary of the Athletic League and Director of Physical Training in the public schools. Here it is:

Go to bed at 8 o'clock after a thorough wash and a cold splash over chest and trunk, scrub teeth and gums well. Have clothes and books ready for the morrow.

Open bedroom windows at top and bottom.

Get up not a minute later than 7 o'clock. Go through a two-minute drill and hygienic exercises. Clean face and neck and scrub hands. Finish up with a big cold splash and hard rub all over. See that feet and legs are clean and rub them hard to get them into condition. Brush teeth and gums thoroughly.

Breakfast and all meals: No coffee, no tea. Drink milk a little at a time. Chew all food to a pulp. Ask your teacher what foods to avoid. No smoking.

Before school look yourself over.

Am I clean from head to toe?

Are all my clothes clean and in order down to the skin?

Do I stand up like an athlete?

This programme is heartily indorsed by the League's Demonstrating Committee, consisting of Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the Amateur Athletic Union; S. R. Guggenheim, Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, Dr. Edward W. Stitt, and Vincent Astor. Dr. Crampton, who is secretary of the committee, has also supplemented the outlined pledge by asking teachers to give the boys detailed instructions as to washing, cleaning teeth, caring for finger nails, sitting posture in school, and drinking plenty of water at recess. Dr. Crampton said of the health pledge yesterday

"We have not tried to outline an ideal training diet or system. We do not claim for these suggestions that they are complete. Our idea is to get parents to co-operate and insist upon this schedule at home. We therefore have suggested measures which will be easy for any home to follow. We leave the actual food suggestions to the teachers because they can fit their prohibitions to the natural dietary of the school district."

BAD BOYS LOOSED A LION.

Before West Orange Could Send for Roosevelt a Woman Caged It.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., May 4.—Three small boys in search of adventure in the Erie freight yard here this afternoon pushed open the door of one of the cars to see what they could see. As the big door slid back a lion jumped out, and that was enough. The boys, nearly dead with fright, took themselves off at such speed that nothing more was seen of them in that part of the Orange for several hours.

But as they fled they passed the word and the freight yard was emptied in a twinkling, leaving the lion in possession of the premises, from which, however, he could not escape, for the Erie yard is as completely walled with its fences, embankments and coal-pockets as any arena of Nero's day.

It seemed then as if most of West Orange came down to the Erie yard to peer in and to cheer while Patrolman Heslin engaged in some long-distance and ineffectual revolver practice. With bullets dropping about him the prowling lion just yawned, and an appeal was finally made to the cowboy skill of Joe Amento, whose corral flanks the freight yard.

Joe brought out his lariat, and many of West Orange's best hats went into the air when he neatly noosed the beast, slipped the rope around one of the palings and gradually brought the lion to closer quarters. Amento was just about to finish the job and the lion when into the freight yard walked Mme. Lalla Selbini, with whom the lion does a tur nin vaudeville, and who is on the boards at a local theatre this week. Mme. Lalla walked right up to the captive and produced a sensation by loosening the rope and indignantly casting it off.

"Why, Pete, what have they been doing to you?" she asked, patting the beast comfortingly, for b ythis time Pete was feeling dejected. "Come along with me."

Pete followed Mme. Lalla to his freight car, and to the cheers of the assembled multitude hopped nimbly into his cage. Apparently he was more relieved than anyone else when the cage door was again closed. How it ever came open is the only element of mystery in the adventure.

Jackson

NO HILL TOO STEEP
NO SAND TOO DEEP

Why not have the easiest riding car?

In other words, why not have the Jackson? For we believe the Jackson to be the easiest-riding car, regardless of size, price or any other consideration.

The reason for our belief is the long Jackson experience in building comfortable cars; and the fact that comfort is as carefully worked out in a Jackson design as mechanical goodness and durability.

The visable evidences of this are the 10-inch upholstery, the full elliptic springs, the long wheelbase, the generous room in the car.

Test the Jackson and you will have convincing proof of the completeness of Jackson comfort and riding ease.

$200,000 Savings in New York's Finest Clothes

Sale of 25,000 Fine Hackett-Carhart Spring Suits and Overcoats at an Average Saving of $7.50 and More

This is the third day of an event which is without parallel in fine clothes history.

Friday and Saturday buying was great beyond all expectations—but no greater than was deserved.

The values were so apparent—the assortments so complete—the styles so attractive—the fabrics so excellent—and the tailoring and the trimmings so irreproachable as to almost compel one's selection.

And the sale is only begun.

Daily the various stocks will be enriched by garments fresh from the tailors' hands.

And this will continue until 25,000 garments have been accounted for.

The tailoring capacity of our plant—which unquestionably is the finest in New York—is about 5,000 garments per week.

And the selling capacity of the Hackett-Carhart stores is about the same. So that there is no question about having new, fresh garments constantly at hand—no matter how heavy may be the selling.

Also please remember this: This is not a sale of season's end surplus stocks. It is a sale of thousands of the choicest garments possible of production—the clever selections of hundreds of the shrewdest and finest retailers in all America.

Were it not for the fact that labor conditions delayed our production for more than two months, every one of these garments would be commanding full regular prices in the finest shops throughout the country.

Again, let us emphasize the fact that for excellence of tailoring, distinctiveness of style and exclusiveness of fabric these garments outrival all custom tailoring productions at $25 to $50.

Moreover, your choice of fabrics, models and styles is almost unlimited at any price which you choose to pay.

$13.50 and up to $20 Young Men's Suits and Broken Size Suits and Overcoats........ $10
$18, $20 and $22.50 Spring & Summer Suits and Overcoats...... $13.50
$20, $22.50 and $25 Spring and Summer Suits and Overcoats........... $15
$22.50, $25 and $30 Spring and Summer Suits and Overcoats........... $17
$28, $30 and $35 Spring and Summer Suits and Overcoats........... $21
$30, $35 and $37.50 Spring and Summer Suits and Overcoats........... $24

In each one of the above assortments you are assured that your selection will be strictly all-wool and pure worsted, cold water shrunk. All fabrics of the highest possible standard from the world's foremost weavers.

At every price you may choose among the most popular and advanced style models. The variations are almost unlimited.

In suits, there are more than a dozen English models and fully a dozen conservative models. An excellent assortment of Fifth Avenue adaptations as well. And unquestionably New York's finest showing of Young Men's and College styles, together with a comprehensive showing of English, Young Men's and popular Norfolks.

The colorings include Grays of every shade—Blues of every shade, weave, design and mixture—Browns of the smartest types—Tans in widest variety. Also exceptional showings of Heather, Scotch and English mixtures, in every new, popular design, weave and shade.

All the popular stripes: Pencil, Hair-line, London Line, Henger, Self and Silk Stripes. Correct Club, Pin, Glen and London Checks, dressy Silk Stripes, Silk mixtures, plain Wale Weaves, diagonal Weaves, Self Stripe Weaves, Pall Mall Weaves, Bird's Eye Weaves and Diamond Weaves. Complete showings of fine English finish and English Weave Blue and Gray Serges as well. All are included in these wonderful assortments.

In overcoats, you may choose among all the accepted dressy practical and stylish Chesterfield, street, travel, motor and storm, London Guard and Split-sleeve models.

There is not a stylish, exclusive nor popular fabric, shade, weave or design but what is here in its finest form.

CHALMERS MOTOR CO. Detroit, Mich. U.S.A.

This monogram on the radiator stands for all you can ask in a motor car

Your Chalmers Is Worth $1000 More but Costs Only $300 to $500 More

When you order a suit of clothes you don't select the cheapest. Price is not your sole standard—but quality, looks, style, wearability. For these you are glad to pay a little higher price.

When you buy or build a house the cost is not the only thing considered. You want it well built, attractive, comfortable, permanent. And you are willing to pay a fair price for what you want even though you know cheaper houses can be bought.

The same thing is true—or should be—in buying a motor car.

Don't decide the car question on price—but consider carefully what you get for that price. A Chalmers car will cost you $300 to $500 more than some other cars, but it is worth to you at least $1000 more.

It is worth that much more because of the extra value it gives.

Extra value in dependable service. Chalmers cars built in Chalmers shops last longer than most cars. Eleven Chalmers cars have been driven 1,020,400 miles. Thousands of others, some in their 4th or 5th year, have been driven 50,000 to 75,000 and are still giving satisfaction.

Extra value in comfort. Nowadays people ask more of a car than merely to run. Chalmers cars, with big, roomy bodies, Turkish cushions, 11-inch upholstery, long flexible springs, big wheels and tires give you perfect riding comfort.

Extra value in looks. Chalmers cars are beautiful cars. Cars you can be proud of in any company. $4000 and $5000 cars have no better lines or more perfect finish.

Extra value in satisfaction. It's poor economy to "save" a few hundred dollars on a motor car which you won't take permanent satisfaction in driving. Many have tried it. They have "saved" money and gained costly "automobile experience"—and have finally purchased cars of the Chalmers grade.

Why not purchase now the car you are sure to want later. Give us an opportunity to show you the Chalmers is worth $1000 more but costs only $300 to $500 more.
